Turn To Spiritual Sources, Nixon Tells American Youth

Shares Platform With Evangelist Billy Graham

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Nixon has told a youth night crowd at a Billy Graham crusade that to realize their full potential, young Americans "must turn to those great spiritual sources that have made America the great country it is."

The crusade was held Thursday night at the University of Tennessee football stadium, and a university official estimated that 75,000 heard the President and the evangelist speak.

The President, appearing on a college campus for the first time in almost a year, was interrupted during his brief speech by a small band of hecklers chanting "peace now" and "one, two, three, four, we don't want Nixon's war." The crowd booed the demonstrators.

Police arrested nine persons on charges of disturbing a public worship, a misdemeanor.

Nixon said he and the students both want the same thing —peace.

"I can tell you my life is dedicated to the cause that I know you are dedicated to, all of you," the chief executive declared. "I want this nation to be at peace, and we shall be.

"A great majority of America's young people, as I do, do approve of dissent but they say they want the right to be heard and when they speak they want the right to be heard and when they speak they think other people should be silent so that they can be heard."

Not Lost Generation

The President continued: "It is a generation that is not the lost generation, as some Americans think. It isn't the beat generation. It isn't the beat-up generation. It can be and will become the great young generation."

Nixon conceded America isn't everything he would like it to be. Young people, he said, are concerned about such things as air and water pollution, poor housing, inferior education and alienation between the races.

"I know there are things about America that are wrong," he said. "But I also know that this is a country where a young person knows that there is a peaceful way he can change what he doesn't like about America and that is why it is a great country."

Graham made a plea for Americans to support Nixon in what he called "the world's loneliest and toughest job."

The evangelist invited Nixon and his wife to attend the crusade while on their way from Washington to their San Clemente, Calif., home for the Memorial Day weekend.

Nixon invited the University of Tennessee student government president, John Robert Smith of Kingsport, Tenn., for a brief talk on the presidential aircraft before leaving Knoxville for San Clemente.

Smith said he and the President discussed domestic and international issues and their main area of disagreement was the invasion of Cambodia. The student leader said he and Nixon agreed on the right of dissent and a dislike of violence.

Draft Director Hopes For End Of Hostilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft Director Curtis Tarr says he hopes the United States will withdraw quickly from the combat zones of Southeast Asia and begin the process of reunifying a nation divided over the war.

"My only hope is that we can withdraw quickly from that theater and go about the important process of bringing back together again a kind of fundamental unity without which our society cannot continue to advance or even stay where it is," he said.

Addressing the National Interreligious Service Board for Conscientious Objectors Thursday, Tarr referred repeatedly to the war in "Southeast Asia"—not just Vietnam.

The war, he added, has caused young people to lose respect for military service. Until it is restored, he said, President Nixon's goal of an all-volunteer army will not be possible.

Citing Nixon's goal to "reduce draft calls to zero," Tarr said, "I think it would be a magnificent thing for the armed forces to move in this direction so that they might regain some of the respect that has been lost in the Southeast Asian war."

Increased military pay and better management would make an all-volunteer army possible, he said.

"But I doubt that it will happen as long as we are trying to recruit from a population of young people who are subjected to a tremerdous amount of peer group pressure against service in the armed forces based on our involvement in the war in Southeast Asia.

"I think when younger people come along who have not been associated with this dissent the chances for the volunteer force are quite good. But not until then."

Keep Pilots Out Of Mideast Air, Plea To Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will seek assurance from Moscow in talks next week that Soviet pilots in Egypt will not fly offensive missions against Israel.

Administration policy makers are not optimistic about the Washington discussions, but they agree the outcome will have an important bearing on President Nixon's forthcoming decision on an Israeli request for more warplanes.

Optimism Lacking

The lack of U.S. optimism stems from an apparent belief the Soviets have embarked on a tough and threatening course in the Middle East.

This in turn has brought on a similar display of determination by the administration in approaching the upcoming confrontation.

This became apparent Thursday when State Department press officer Carl Bartch said Russia's reply to a previous inquiry about its military involvement in Egypt was "both imprecise and unsatisfactory."

Meeting Scheduled

The meeting, between Asst. Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, is a follow up to a May 5 session in Moscow involving U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam and Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Vinogradov.

There also have been some four-power meetings at the United Nations on the Middle East. But, according to reports to Washington, the Soviets have shown a tough and uncooperative attitude, increasing the impression they are on a hard policy line.

Israel Seeks Planes

Israel has been pressing the United States to authorize the sale of 25 Phantom fighter-bombers and 100 Skyhawk fighters. Israel contends Russia's involvement in Egypt has turned the balance of power in the Arab's favor.

So far Nixon has refrained from supporting that conclusion, saying he is re-evaluating the Israeli request. The probing of Russian intentions, officials confirm, is part of that process.

Two American Officers Face Murder Charge

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Two officers face charges of attempted murder in connection with a shooting incident last year in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta.

The Army accused Capt. Vincent N. Hartmann, 34, of Scranton, Pa., and 1st Lt. Robert G. Lee Jr., 22, of Springfield, Mo., Thursday of "ordering members of their command to fire into buildings used for human habitation on or about June 15, 1969." They were then with the 9th Infantry Division.

The maximum penalty for attempted murder is 20 years.

Col. Charles C. Thebaud, commander of the Ft. Benning Army Infantry School Brigade, to which the men are now assigned, has ordered a grand jury type investigation to determine whether the two officers should be tried by court-martial.

The alleged shooting incident has been under investigation since last fall. Army sources acknowledged it was brought to the Army's attention by Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif.

Van Deerlin informed the Army that a captain in the Medical Corps told him of an infantry company being ordered to use a Vietnamese village for target practice.

Pentagon sources said two Vietnamese civilians, a woman and a boy, were wounded. The woman reportedly died later.

The shots allegedly were fired at two huts out of five in a small village.

Wing 'Fatigue' Blamed In Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fatal crash of a TAG Airlines plane into Lake Erie Jan. 28 was blamed on fatigue failure of a wing attachment in a report issued Thursday by the National Transportation Safety Board.

All nine persons on board were killed when the De Haviland Dove (DH-104) plunged through the ice of the lake shortly after take off from Cleveland.

Test Of Strength Due On War Fund Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Sherman Cooper says next week's vote to bar enforcement of his proposal to restrict U.S. activities in Cambodia will provide the first clear test of strength in the three-week Senate debate.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., would make the proposed fund cutoff inoperative as long as Americans are held prisoner by the North Vietnamese in Cambodia.

"If the members in here aren't impressed by that," Cooper, R-Ky., said in an interview, "they won't be impressed by the other amendments either."

The Senate agreed before it adjourned Thursday for the Memorial Day weekend to vote Wednesday on Dole's amendment.

But the key vote is likely to come on a bid by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to table—and thus kill—the Dole amendment. He said it "is quite clearly designed to destroy any effect whatsoever" of the Cooper-Church proposal barring funds after July 1 for "retaining" U.S. forces in Cambodia.

After Dole's amendment is acted on, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., says he will offer another amendment authorizing the President "to take such actions as may be necessary to protect the lives of United States forces in South Vietnam and to hasten their withdrawal."

Cooper said both amendments deal with the subject that he finds increasingly mentioned in his mail: the contention by administration forces that Cooper-Church proponents are refusing to permit protection of U.S. troops in the field.

"They know better," Cooper said, pointing out the proposal would permit "hot pursuit" of the enemy across the South Vietnam-Cambodia border and "sallies over the line to protect the troops."

Viet Marines Battling Reds

SAIGON (AP) — More than 1,000 South Vietnamese marines pushed toward the besieged Cambodian provincial capital of Prey Veng today to reinforce Cambodian troops battling North Vietnamese and Viet Cong for the second day.

A high-ranking Cambodian military source said Prey Veng, 30 miles east of Phnom Penh, was surrounded and apparently only the provincial headquarters in the center of the town was still firmly held by government forces.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman in Saigon reported the marines had entered Prey Veng, but Cambodian military sources said the marines were still pressing toward the town, supported by helicopters.

The marines pushed up the east bank of the Mekong River and ran into strong North Vietnamese forces near the town of Banam, about 10 miles southwest of Prey Veng.

The marines reported killing 19 North Vietnamese soldiers and capturing eight prisoners and 11 weapons. South Vietnamese losses were put at four killed and 21 wounded.

State Auditors Question Early Retirement Fund

LANSING (AP)—State auditors have questioned a payment by Michigan State University of $38,008, since revoked, to a life insurance company in 1968 to enable former MSU Vice President Philip J. May to begin drawing a pension at once.

The payment, in form of a check, was withdrawn in December, 1968 but the university, with Board of Trustees approval, substituted a $20,800 prepayment of premiums on anuities it had bought for May.

If May had been the beneficiary of the larger sum, he could have begun drawing $7,000 a year for four years earlier than MSU trustees finally decreed.

The transactions closed followed May's "retirement" in November, 1968, from his $37,000 a year post.

May was then 57 and under fire for conflict of interest.

Five Missing In Oil Platform Fire

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Aircraft and Coast Guard vessels searched through the night for five men missing in an offshore oil platform explosion and fire in which four were known dead and 15 injured.

A platform storage tank was ruptured, creating an oil slick and threatening contamination of Galveston Island beaches.

Coast Guard Lt. R. E. Harrington said an explosion of unknown origin Thursday on the platform, 12 miles from the coast, apparently set off the fire. Flames quickly spread to a repair boat floating underneath.

Of 17 known survivors out of 26 men in the boat or on the platform, only two escaped injury. Four of the injured were hospitalized.

"The oil spill really is comparatively small but it is going to come in near Galveston," Harrington said.

A spokesman for Gov. Preston Smith said the slick was more than three miles long and a quarter-to a half-mile wide.

Three oil wells about 3,500 feet away are linked with the platform but a spokesman for Chambers & Kennedy Oil Co. in Houston, owners of the structure, said the wells had been closed off when a repair job got under way two weeks ago.

"The only thing burning is some oil we had in five 1,000-barrel storage tanks and they were only about one-third full," the spokesman said.

Only one of the dead had been identified. He was Barnwell Armstrong of Lake Jackson.

Hospitalized were Roy Lellancon, 45, in critical condition, and Lawrence Theriot and Ronnie Breaux, in fair condition. All three are from Gueydan, La.

One body was brought ashore by a helicopter shortly after the late afternoon explosion and fire. Three bodies were found aboard the repair boat, the Carry Back, after it was towed to shallow water at the eastern end of Galveston Island.

Kennedy Phone Calls Numerous

BOSTON (AP) — Nearly 12 hours passed after the accident fatal to Mary Jo Kopechne last summer, telephone company records show, before the first call charged to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's credit card was made from Martha's Vineyard Island.

The call was made from Vineyard Haven, several miles away from Edgartown, at least an hour after Kennedy appeared at the police station in Edgartown to report that the accident had taken place some time after 11 the previous night.

The call was made to the house of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis in the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port. There is no record of who placed the call, nor of who answered it. It was placed at 10:56 a.m. and lasted 23 minutes and 54 seconds.

These details were made public Thursday by the Suffolk Superior Court, along with the record of four calls made July 18, before the accident, and 11 others made July 19, after the call to Hyannis Port.

The telephone company records were among 33 exhibits in the Edgartown inquest last January into the death of Miss Kopechne, a former secretary for Kennedy's late brother Robert.

It was almost four hours after the initial call to Hyannis Port that Saturday morning that a call was made to Kennedy's own summer home on Squaw Island, not far from the compound.

The call, at 2:49 p.m., lasted three minutes and 40 seconds. Two other calls, one of 10 minutes, the other of 5 minutes, 23 seconds, were made later in the afternoon to Squaw Island.

One call, at 3:49 p.m., was to Mary Carroll, who shared an apartment with Miss Kopechne in Washington.

Other calls were made to Kennedy's Washington office and to his associates or numbers where they might be reached.

Kennedy Phone Calls Numerous

BOSTON (AP) — Nearly 12 hours passed after the accident fatal to Mary Jo Kopechne last summer, telephone company records show, before the first call charged to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's credit card was made from Martha's Vineyard Island.

The call was made from Vineyard Haven, several miles away from Edgartown, at least an hour after Kennedy appeared at the police station in Edgartown to report that the accident had taken place some time after 11 the previous night.

The call was made to the house of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis in the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port. There is no record of who placed the call, nor of who answered it. It was placed at 10:56 a.m. and lasted 23 minutes and 54 seconds.

These details were made public Thursday by the Suffolk Superior Court, along with the record of four calls made July 18, before the accident, and 11 others made July 19, after the call to Hyannis Port.

The telephone company records were among 33 exhibits in the Edgartown inquest last January into the death of Miss Kopechne, a former secretary for Kennedy's late brother Robert.

It was almost four hours after the initial call to Hyannis Port that Saturday morning that a call was made to Kennedy's own summer home on Squaw Island, not far from the compound.

The call, at 2:49 p.m., lasted three minutes and 40 seconds. Two other calls, one of 10 minutes, the other of 5 minutes, 23 seconds, were made later in the afternoon to Squaw Island.

One call, at 3:49 p.m., was to Mary Carroll, who shared an apartment with Miss Kopechne in Washington.

Other calls were made to Kennedy's Washington office and to his associates or numbers where they might be reached.

'One More For Road' Could Mean Trouble If New Law Passes

LANSING (AP) — Drivers who try "one more for the road" or simply drink too much would face a stiffer sobriety test under a bill passed overwhelmingly by the Michigan Senate and sent to the House Thursday.

The measure, dubbed "one of the strongest drunk driving bills in the nation" by Judiciary Chairman Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, would lower the amount of blood alcohol that would prove grounds for presuming a motorist was "under the influence."

In other action Thursday, the Senate passed a compromise bill aimed at ironing out bitter differences over the proposed decentralization of the giant 300,000 student Detroit school district.

Postponed until next week was a previously slated vote on a proposed constitutional amendment that would set up a State Investigations Commission — heralded by top law enforcement officials as a weapon for fighting organized crime. Richardson said he and colleagues were preparing amendments for the bill and needed more time.

The drunken driving measure, sponsored by Sen. James Fleming, R-Jackson, was approved 30-0.

It would change current law, which specifies that 0.15 per cent alcohol in the blood is enough for authorities to presume a person is under the influence.

Under the bill, that level would drop one-third, to 0.10 per cent.

The measure further provides that a motorist's ability to drive would be presumed "impaired" if the blood alcohol content were 0.07 per cent 0.10 per cent: and it increases from 0.05 per cent to 0.07 per cent the amount of blood alcohol that would not be grounds to presume a motorist was operating under the influence.

Leftist Winner In Ceylon Voting

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Conservative Prime Minister Dduley Senanayake has resigned in the waye of a landslide election victory for Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike's leftist coalition.

Ceylon prepared for a sharp turn to the left in domestic and foreign policies as Mrs. Bandaranaike, in 1960 the world's first woman prime minister, awaited Governor General William Gopallawa's call to form a new cabinet.

Returns for 138 of the 151 elected seats in the House of Representatives gave Mrs. Bandaranaike's leftist coalition the largest parliamentary majority in Ceylon's 21 years of independence and her Freedom party a majority on its own without its two Communist allies.

House Okays Appropriation Measure, 63-20

LANSING (AP) — A $67 million appropriation for the Michigan Legislature, governor's office, judiciary and six major state departments won House approval Thursday.

Part of Gov. William G. Milliken's $1.74 billion budget for fiscal 1970-71, the bill was sent to the Senate on a 63-20 vote. It had been defeated 45-47 earlier in the week, principally because of disagreement over a controversial, $3.6 million sum for the State Civil Rights Commission.

Final action on a $352.9 million welfare budget, meanwhile, was delayed by continuing disagreement over funding levels. Rep. James Farnsworth, ranking Appropriations Committee Republican, succeeded in adding one amendment to cut $6.6 million from state Aid to Dependent Children funds. Michigan's share on the total $220 million program would be $119.6 million, with another $129.4 million paid by the federal government.

Farnsworth said his amendment would mean a welfare increase of only 8.9 per cent, following the state's cost of living index, rather than 16 per cent as Milliken has suggested.

Farnsworth sponsored another amendment approved by the House that declares the "intent of the Legislature" to set a ceiling of $30 a month on working expenses paid to ADC recipients who hold jobs.

New budget bills, meanwhile, continued to be reported out of the House Appropriations Committee: a $56.8 million grants and transfers bill containing $5 million in unrestricted aid to Detroit; a $29.6 million combined appropriation for the Natural Resources and Agriculture Departments.

The general government measure, as passed by the House, is $2 million less than Milliken recommended.

Children Unhurt As Runaway Auto 'Does Its Thing'

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A runaway auto with no driver traveled in reverse at an estimated 30 miles an hour on a school parking lot with five frightened children in the back seat recently.

It circled for about 15 minutes before a wrecker truck was backed into its path. The children, aged 4 to 6, got out uninjured.

Mrs. Floyd Conner had picked up the children to take them on a field trip as part of their Head Start Preschool training program. She told authorities the accelerator stuck as she started to drive off. She put the car in "park" and started to look under the hood to find the trouble.

For some unexplained reason the car lurched away in reverse.

Police Chief A.P. Evans, who estimated the car was traveling 30 miles an hour, said a tragedy was averted because the wheels were locked in a way that made the car go in circles.

'One More For Road' Could Mean Trouble If New Law Passes

LANSING (AP) — Drivers who try "one more for the road" or simply drink too much would face a stiffer sobriety test under a bill passed overwhelmingly by the Michigan Senate and sent to the House Thursday.

The measure, dubbed "one of the strongest drunk driving bills in the nation" by Judiciary Chairman Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, would lower the amount of blood alcohol that would prove grounds for presuming a motorist was "under the influence."

In other action Thursday, the Senate passed a compromise bill aimed at ironing out bitter differences over the proposed decentralization of the giant 300,000 student Detroit school district.

Postponed until next week was a previously slated vote on a proposed constitutional amendment that would set up a State Investigations Commission — heralded by top law enforcement officials as a weapon for fighting organized crime. Richardson said he and colleagues were preparing amendments for the bill and needed more time.

The drunken driving measure, sponsored by Sen. James Fleming, R-Jackson, was approved 30-0.

It would change current law, which specifies that 0.15 per cent alcohol in the blood is enough for authorities to presume a person is under the influence.

Favor U.S. 2 Route

In the tug-of-war between forces seeking expansion and improvement of U. S. 2 and those who advocate a new route for an east-west superhighway across the Upper Peninsula, we detect a subtle shifting of support toward the U. S. 2 proposal.

Not too long ago the only people talking up the U. S. 2 route were the members of the U. S. 2 Improvement Council, headed by William Asselin of Norway.

The council has been a persistent voice in the Upper Peninsula, Wisconsin, Lansing and Washington, D. C., with only one avowed objective: Modernization of Michigan Highway U. S. 2.

The council is composed of four voting members from Dickinson, Delta, Gogebic, Iron, Mackinac, Menominee and Schoolcraft counties. Representing Dickinson are Ivar H. Anderson and Robert Anderson of Iron Mountain, Robert Paul of Norway and Robert Stevens of Kingsford. Iron representatives are Glen Evans and Lionel Sleeman of Iron River, Ed Forsman of Crystal Falls and Victor Shepich of Caspian. Asselin is chairman of the council and Oswald Vispi, Kingsford, serves as secretary-treasurer.

The council presents a strong case for concentrating on improvement of the present route across the U. P. and there have been increasing indications recently that lawmakers, highway officials and Upper Peninsula VIPs are getting the message.

Asselin and Comapny have hammered home their point repeatedly: Call a moratorium on super highway building until the Upper Peninsula gets the primary highway that is so badly needed. Expansion and improvement of U. S. 2 on its present route will best serve the people of the Upper Peninsula who need it and depend on it in so many ways — workers, truckers, commutors, businessmen who use the highway constantly in their daily employment and leisure.

Opponents have pointed out that a new east-west route across the central portion of the Upper Peninsula would be easier and cheaper to construct. Even if true that should not be a determining factor in the location of the highway. The industrial and economic lifeblood of the U. P. is tied to U. S. 2 through such cities as St. Ignace, Manistique, Gladstone, Escanaba, Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls, Iron River and Ironwood, and that's the route the highway should follow.

Congressman Philip Ruppe, in a recent letter to Upper Peninsula state legislators, expressed his concern about possible plans for an interstate highway through the U. P.:

"In these times of tight budgeting, there is not sufficient money at either the state or federal level to build a high-speed, limited-access interstate highway and simultaneously upgrade our existing network of roads and highways. Thus we have a clear choice of whether we wish to put 'our eggs in the interstate basket' or whether we wish to use all available resources to improve present roads and develop existing highways into non-interestate multi-lane highways that run through the population centers of the Upper Peninsula," Ruppe said. He listed U. S. 2, M 28 and U. S. 41 as key U. P. highways.

"I hope," Ruppe added, "that the action of the state legislature expressing intent to extend funds for an east-west interstate highway does not commit the State of Michigan to a position that in the long run may not be in the best interests of the Upper Peninsula."

In discussion of the U. P. highway situation recently, Highway Director Henrik Stafseth in Lansing said that highway planners settle on routes that will serve, rather than striking out into the communities of an area unpopulated or economically slumping areas.

That sounds like a strong recommendation for the present route of U. S. 2.

Peninsula Potpourri

Discipline and desire play major roles in the determination of a championship team and also in success in life. That's the message Ray Nitschke, 12-year veteran middle linebacker and perennial all-pro of the Green Bay Packers brought to the Upper Peninsula bankers at their annual meeting in Marquette recently. Well over 300 persons from throughout the Upper Peninsula, along with some dignataries from downstate, atended the final session, held in the Holiday Inn, which served as headquarters for all business meetings of the two-day gathering.

Henry Heikkila relied on mining to raise his family for 19 years in the Iron River area and now the expansion of his poultry, egg and feed business has taken up the slack following the decline in the mining industry and Heikkila's consequent layoff. Heikkila's Feed and Poultry Farm development within the past year or so has earned him the Agricultural Development Award in the Iron County area.

An Ironwood pioneer reached the century mark recently. The Upper Peninsula's newest centenarian is Mrs. Erick Luoma, a native of Kortesjarvi, Finland, who moved to Ironwood at the age of 20. That western U. P. city was then a vigorous young community, she recalls. Only two of her eight children are still living, but she has 14 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and five great great-grandchildren. She now resides at the Sky View Nursing Home in Ironwood.

Frank Hoffman's famed "Mystery Ship" raised from the depths of Green Bay last July 29 — has finally found a permanent home. The 110-foot vessel will be located in the River Park tourist site at the rear of the M&M Plaza in Menominee. Hoffman will move the ancient craft from its drying berth at Marinette Marine Co. to the canal located between the road and boat ramp at the park site within two weeks. The ship is believed to be the Alvin Clark, a schooner which sank off Chambers Island June 29, 1864.

Arabian 'Socialism' Aided By Soviets

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The Soviet May Day slogans, as analyzed by Radio Liberty's Christion Duevel, contain a most ominous note. It used to be that the slogans spoke of moving "under the banner of Marxism-Leninism, under the leadership of the Communist Party, forward along the Leninist road to Communism." They also hailed Communism as "the bright future of mankind." But this last May 1 there was a switch. The new slogans pay tribute to the "militant Marxist-Leninist vanguard of the working class and of all toilers, the steadfast fighters against imperialism, for peace, democracy, national independence, and socialism."

To the casual reader, the substitution of the word "socialism" for "Communism" may seem like a distinction without a difference. But Mr. Duevel, who has been a most trustworthy analyst and prophet over the years, doesn't see it that way. He links the change to Moscow's interest in the Arab-Israeli conflict. Many of the Soviet Union's friends abroad, he says, do not share the goal of Communism, whether bright or not, with the Russians. In particular, the Arab world abhors Communism for local consumption; the Nasserites are all for "peace, democracy, national independence, and socialism," but they don't go beyond that. The socialism they espouse is something called Arab socialism," not the Marxist-Leninist variety.

* * *

Moscow's willingness to adapt its slogans to the Arabs comes at a time when Soviet adventurism in the Middle East is beginning to remind more than one commentator of Premier Khrushchev's move into Cuba with long-distance missiles. Last week, at a dinner meeting in Hartford, Conn., an organization called Ye Connecticut Gun Guild presented a rare old Kentucky muzzle-loading rifle to the Israeli government.

The weapon, which might have commanded hundreds of dollars on the auction market, is destined for the Israel Defense Forces Museum in Tel Aviv.

The evening was predominantly one of good fellowship, but when Colonel Uri Yarom, the Israeli Assistant Air Force and Naval attache in Washington, started speaking there was a somber hush in the hall. The Israeli air force, he said, has had to put all of Egypt off limits save for a narrow strip along the Suez Canal. The Soviets have covered Alexandria, Cairo and the Aswan Dam region with the redoubtable SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles, which do not allow for surprise raids at any altitude, whether high or low. And the SAM-3s are manned by expert Soviet crews, along with the Soviet MIGs now standing on Egyptian airfields ready to take off against Israeli planes should they threaten the SAM-3 sites in any way.

This means that the Arab buildup against Israel can go unchecked. Israel has been deprived of the ability to make preventive warfare; the conditions that made swift victory in the six-day war possible in 1967 are no longer there.

The preparation for a combined Soviet-Egyptian operation against Israel may stop short of completion if the Soviet economic condition is a bad as one hears it is. Nevertheless, the Russian people are currently being "conditioned" for war in the Middle East. Pravda has taken to printing long background pieces about Arab-Soviet friendship. The "many Egyptian young men and women (who) are studying in the Soviet Union" are hailed. "In the current year," says Pravda, "six hundred young Arab specialists will complete higher education in the USSR, and at the same time one hundred and forty Arab scholars are to defend dissertations for avanced degrees in our country."

More and more it is appearing that President Nixon's failure to send those Phantom Jets to Israel was a prime boo-boo. The Soviets took Secretary of State William Rogers' peace offering as a sign of indecision and weakness. Instead of picking up the Nixon-Rogers olive branch, Moscow proceeded to raise the number of its military men in Egypt from some 3,000 to 10,000. Our error in trying to placate the Soviets in the Middle East is all the more astounding because Richard Nixon is a close student of Communist strategies, dating back to his connection with the Hiss-Chambers case. He has been criticized for not listening to Rogers on the Cambodian strategy. It would have been more to the point if he had never listened to Rogers at all.

Contract Bridge

By B. JAY BECKER

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠— ♥J7653 ♦AQJ84 ♣AKQ
2. ♠AQ93 ♥KQJ6 ♦10 ♣KJ85
3. ♠QJ972 ♥— ♦AKJ ♣Q9843
4. ♠9874 ♥963 ♦AKJ ♣AQ7
5. ♠AKJ ♥852 ♦AK94 ♣KJ6

1. One heart. Since the hearts and diamonds are of equal length, there is no good reason to depart from the usual procedure of first bidding the higher ranking of touching suits. Of course, from the standpoint of quality, the diamonds are markedly stronger, but it must be borne in mind that ultimate goal in most hands is to choose as trump the suit where there is the greatest numercial superiority, not necessarily the suit containing the most high cards.

The hand is playable in hearts if partner has any three of them. If you were to bid diamonds first and hearts secondarily, partner would be unlikely to raise you with three hearts, for he would think you had only a four-card suit.

2. One club. This follows the usual procedure of bidding the suit under the singleton with 4-4-4-1 hands. Experiment will prove that this method permits all three suits to be shown at the lowest possible level.

3. One club. Here, also, economy of bidding space is best served by opening with a club instead of a spade. Generally, the higher of two five- card suits is named first, but where the suits are spades and clubs, the clubs are usually bid firts. Later the spades are repeated in identify their five - card length.

4. One club, Hands containing 14 high-card points are mandatory opening bids, and the absence of a biddable suit is not a valid excuse for passing them. Since you cannot open one no-trump with only 14 points, and also cannot pass, you are obliged to manufacture a suit bid — in this case, clubs. Three - card suits should seldom be bid. They are generally named only as a last resort.

5. One diamond. Here you can't open with a notrump, despite the balanced distribution, because that would show 16, 17 or 18 points — and you have 19. You therefore open with the perfectly natural bid of a diamond.

It is certainly true your partner will not know that the diamond bid is based on as many as 19 points, but you intend to apprise him of this by jumping the bidding at the next opportunity. Mail Order Houses Aren't Always Wrong

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet there isn't a person in your reading audience who thinks he hasn't been taken by a mail order house at one time or another. Maybe when they read this they will have a better understanding of why they did not get their gift or merchandise.

His younger brother piped up, 'I'll bet that was Debbie. She sure calls up here a lot." Paul didn't answer but it was obvious that the guess was a good one. I then told Paul I thought he had been too abrupt with the girl and if he didn't want to take her to the track meet he could have been more gracious about it. Fulbright Says: Leave Indochina As Frenchmen Did

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said today the United States should get out of Indochina because the war in Vietnam and the military engagement in Cambodia is "creating a terrible disaster here at home."

"We should remove ourselves just as the French did," said Fulbright who was interviewed in Washington on the NBC-TV "Today" show. "The French left because they made a rational decision ... We should liquidate our engagement there and stop the war."

"People are wondering and apprehensive" about the war, Fulbright said, "the young, the businessmen, the investors ... the country is coming apart at the seams."

THIS INFLATION?

On the first of June, I and others of my trade will get a raise of 8%, which will amount to 6% in take-home pay. Since our last raise a year ago, I want to list a few necessary items that have gone up in price as follows:

Paper towels and toilet paper from 41c to 47c — 14%, good grade pork chops, from 99c to $1.19 a lb. — 20%. Canned milk in two years, from 3 cans for 49c to 57c or 8% a year. This is an average raise of over 14% on the above named items. Today in the local so-called super market, tomatoes were 49c per lb. and new potatoes were 10 lbs. for 1.09. Later on local farmers must dig their potatoes, grade and wash them, package them and place them on the store shelves where they are sold for just double the price paid the farmer.

I think it is high time for the government to try to find some of the real causes of inflation instead of blaming the consumer and the working man for having too much money to spend.

A few years ago our withholding tax was reduced for awhile. The experts said the extra take home pay would be a big boost to our economy. Now these same experts say we have too much to spend. What are we to believe?

Is not the government very much at fault for this inflation? How can we continue to spend countless billions of dollars of borrowed money on all the equipment and supplies needed to conduct a most unpopular war, plus several more billions to gather a few rocks on the moon without causing inflation?

One of President Nixon's closest advisors is chariman of the Federal Reserve Board. The average man on the street thinks the Federal Reserve Board is a government agency, instead of a gigantic system of private banks that they really are. Who gets the staggering amount of billions of dollars in interest that we have to pay on the national debt each year? At least the bankers are happy.

It might help some if the government weeded out a few thousand employes instead of increasing the pay-roll each year. Also, when Congress voted themselves a raise, it was 60% not 6%.

GOING WHERE?

Each day as I read the pros and cons concerning our youth in this nation I must come to the conclusion that somewhere, somehow, someone has failed, and though I hear and read many answers I find most falling short in two areas. Where is the wisdom of the old, and where is the respect of the younger. I think it is most important that a man examine himself, before he has the ability to examine others. Since I am over 30 I shall look at the generation on my side of the gap.

What kind of examples have we set for our young people? We hate those who are not the same color or religion we are, yet we confess to be Christians. We prepare for war; we say we must protect ourselves, so let's look at our protection.

If war should break out between the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. without doubt it would involve the whole world. Out of the three billion six hundred million people on this planet half could be killed. Shortly after millions would die from starvation, and millions more from radiation after affects. Half of those alive would have mental or physical defects from radiation or other combat wounds.

Who, I ask, would be able to stand forth as conquering heroes and claim, we have won the victory. We have maintained the peace. Is it any wonder we have those who are sick of war. Is it any wonder we have those who say there must be a better way. Why the question is asked, "Where do we go from here?" I think it is time we search our hearts, both young and old.

I think it is time both sides of the generation gap concede that no man is an island. We need one another. Not only do we need one another but we need our Creator. This is the void area that both generations are searching for, this is the gap. You cannot talk about love yet hate your mother, father, son, daughter, or neighbor. I know the churches of today are not pleasing to the one they represent. We have turned His house into a money making business. I am quite sure if Christ were here in person He would turn the tables over and run many of us out of His house. We have turned Christianity into a form of religion denying the truth it stands for.

Parents and teens sit around your family table; eat together, talk together; admit where you are wrong and where the other is right. Come out to church next Sunday and turn it back into the house of God. Then you will find out together. Where do we go from here? One thing is for certain: We shall go from here. So really we must only answer: Where?

Favor U.S. 2 Route

In the tug-of-war between forces seeking expansion and improvement of U. S. 2 and those who advocate a new route for an east-west superhighway across the Upper Peninsula, we detect a subtle shifting of support toward the U. S. 2 proposal.

Not too long ago the only people talking up the U. S. 2 route were the members of the U. S. 2 Improvement Council, headed by William Asselin of Norway.

The council has been a persistent voice in the Upper Peninsula, Wisconsin, Lansing and Washington, D. C., with only one avowed objective: Modernization of Michigan Highway U. S. 2.

The council is composed of four voting members from Dickinson, Delta, Gogebic, Iron, Mackinac, Menominee and Schoolcraft counties. Representing Dickinson are Ivar H. Anderson and Robert Anderson of Iron Mountain, Robert Paul of Norway and Robert Stevens of Kingsford. Iron representatives are Glen Evans and Lionel Sleeman of Iron River, Ed Forsman of Crystal Falls and Victor Shenich of Caspian. Asselin is chairman of the council and Oswald Vispi, Kingsford, serves as secretary-treasurer.

The council presents a strong case for concentrating on improvement of the present route across the U. P. and there have been increasing indications recently that lawmakers, highway officials and Upper Peninsula VIPs are getting the message.

Asselin and Comapny have hammered home their point repeatedly: Call a moratorium on super highway building until the Upper Peninsula gets the primary highway that is so badly needed. Expansion and improvement of U. S. 2 on its present route will best serve the people of the Upper Peninsula who need it and depend on it in so many ways — workers, truckers, commutors, businessmen who use the highway constantly in their daily employment and leisure.

Opponents have pointed out that a new east-west route across the central portion of the Upper Peninsula would be easier and cheaper to construct. Even if true that should not be a determining factor in the location of the highway. The industrial and economic lifeblood of the U. P. is tied to U. S. 2 through such cities as St. Ignace, Manistique, Gladstone, Escanaba, Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls, Iron River and Ironwood, and that's the route the highway should follow.

Congressman Philip Ruppe, in a recent letter to Upper Peninsula state legislators, expressed his concern about possible plans for an interstate highway through the U. P.:

"In these times of tight budgeting, there is not sufficient money at either the state or federal level to build a high-speed, limited-access interstate highway and simultaneously upgrade our existing network of roads and highways. Thus we have a clear choice of whether we wish to put 'our eggs in the interstate basket' or whether we wish to use all available resources to improve present roads and develop existing highways into non-interestate multi-lane highways that run through the population centers of the Upper Peninsula," Ruppe said. He listed U. S. 2, M 28 and U. S. 41 as key U. P. highways.

"I hope," Ruppe added, "that the action of the state legislature expressing intent to extend funds for an east-west interstate highway does not commit the State of Michigan to a position that in the long run may not be in the best interests of the Upper Peninsula."

In discussion of the U. P. highway situation recently, Highway Director Henrik Stafseth in Lansing said that highway planners settle on routes that will serve, rather than striking out into the communities of an area unpopulated or economically slumping areas.

That sounds like a strong recommendation for the present route of U. S. 2.

Peninsula Potpourri

Discipline and desire play major roles in the determination of a championship team and also in success in life. That's the message Ray Nitschke, 12-year veteran middle linebacker and perennial all-pro of the Green Bay Packers brought to the Upper Peninsula bankers at their annual meeting in Marquette recently. Well over 300 persons from throughout the Upper Peninsula, along with some dignataries from downstate, atended the final session, held in the Holiday Inn, which served as headquarters for all business meetings of the two-day gathering.

Henry Heikkila relied on mining to raise his family for 19 years in the Iron River area and now the expansion of his poultry, egg and feed business has taken up the slack following the decline in the mining industry and Heikkila's consequent layoff. Heikkila's Feed and Poultry Farm development within the past year or so has earned him the Agricultural Development Award in the Iron County area.

An Ironwood pioneer reached the century mark recently. The Upper Peninsula's newest centenarian is Mrs. Erick Luoma, a native of Kortesjarvi, Finland, who moved to Ironwood at the age of 20. That western U. P. city was then a vigorous young community, she recalls. Only two of her eight children are still living, but she has 14 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and five great great-grandchildren. She now resides at the Sky View Nursing Home in Ironwood.

Frank Hoffman's famed "Mystery Ship" raised from the depths of Green Bay last July 29 — has finally found a permanent home. The 110-foot vessel will be located in the River Park tourist site at the rear of the M&M Plaza in Menominee. Hoffman will move the ancient craft from its drying berth at Marinette Marine Co. to the canal located between the road and boat ramp at the park site within two weeks. The ship is believed to be the Alvin Clark, a schooner which sank off Chambers Island June 29, 1864.

Arabian 'Socialism' Aided By Soviets

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The Soviet May Day slogans, as analyzed by Radio Liberty's Christion Duevel, contain a most ominous note. It used to be that the slogans spoke of moving "under the banner of Marxism-Leninism, under the leadership of the Communist Party, forward along the Leninist road to Communism." They also hailed Communism as "the bright future of mankind." But this last May 1 there was a switch. The new slogans pay tribute to the "militant Marxist-Leninist vanguard of the working class and of all toilers, the steadfast fighters against imperialism, for peace, democracy, national independence, and socialism."

To the casual reader, the substitution of the word "socialism" for "Communism" may seem like a distinction without a difference. But Mr. Duevel, who has been a most trustworthy analyst and prophet over the years, doesn't see it that way. He links the change to Moscow's interest in the Arab-Israeli conflict. Many of the Soviet Union's friends abroad, he says, do not share the goal of Communism, whether bright or not, with the Russians. In particular, the Arab world abhors Communism for local consumption; the Nasserites are all for "peace, democracy, national independence, and socialism," but they don't go beyond that. The socialism they espouse is something called Arab socialism," not the Marxist-Leninist variety.

Moscow's willingness to adapt its slogans to the Arabs comes at a time when Soviet adventurism in the Middle East is beginning to remind more than one commentator of Premier Khrushchev's move into Cuba with long-distance missiles. Last week, at a dinner meeting in Hartford, Conn., an organization called Ye Connecticut Gun Guild presented a rare old Kentucky muzzle-loading rifle to the Israeli government. The weapon, which might have commanded hundreds of dollars on the auction market, is destined for the Israel Defense Forces Museum in Tel Aviv.

The evening was predominantly one of good fellowship, but when Colonel Uri Yarom, the Israeli Assistant Air Force and Naval attache in Washington, started speaking there was a somber hush in the hall. The Israeli air force, he said, has had to put all of Egypt off limits save for a narrow strip along the Suez Canal. The Soviets have covered Alexandria, Cairo and the Aswan Dam region with the redoubtable SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles, which do not allow for surprise raids at any altitude, whether high or low. And the SAM-3s are manned by expert Soviet crews, along with the Soviet MIGs now standing on Egyptian airfields ready to take off against Israeli planes should they threaten the SAM-3 sites in any way.

This means that the Arab buildup against Israel can go unchecked. Israel has been deprived of the ability to make preventive warfare; the conditions that made swift victory in the six-day war possible in 1967 are no longer there.

The preparation for a combined Soviet-Egyptian operation against Israel may stop short of completion if the Soviet economic condition is a bad as one hears it is. Nevertheless, the Russian people are currently being "conditioned" for war in the Middle East. Pravda has taken to printing long background pieces about Arab-Soviet friendship. The "many Egyptian young men and women (who) are studying in the Soviet Union" are hailed. "In the current year," says Pravda, "six hundred young Arab specialists will complete higher education in the USSR, and at the same time one hundred and forty Arab scholars are to defend dissertations for avanced degrees in our country."

More and more it is appearing that President Nixon's failure to send those Phantom Jets to Israel was a prime boo-boo. The Soviets took Secretary of State William Rogers' peace offering as a sign of indecision and weakness. Instead of picking up the Nixon-Rogers olive branch, Moscow proceeded to raise the number of its military men in Egypt from some 3,000 to 10,000. Our error in trying to placate the Soviets in the Middle East is all the more astounding because Richard Nixon is a close student of Communist strategies, dating back to his connection with the Hiss-Chambers case. He has been criticized for not listening to Rogers on the Cambodian strategy. It would have been more to the point if he had never listened to Rogers at all.

Contract Bridge

By B. JAY BECKER

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠— ♥J7653 ♦AQJ84 ♣AKQ
2. ♠AQ93 ♥KQJ6 ♦10 ♣KJ85
3. ♠QJ972 ♥— ♦AKJ ♣Q9843
4. ♠9874 ♥963 ♦AKJ ♣AQ7
5. ♠AKJ ♥852 ♦AK94 ♣KJ6

1. One heart. Since the hearts and diamonds are of equal length, there is no good reason to depart from the usual procedure of first bidding the higher ranking of touching suits. Of course, from the standpoint of quality, the diamonds are markedly stronger, but it must be borne in mind that ultimate goal in most hands is to choose as trump the suit where there is the greatest numercial superiority, not necessarily the suit containing the most high cards.

The hand is playable in hearts if partner has any three of them. If you were to bid diamonds first and hearts secondarily, partner would be unlikely to raise you with three hearts, for he would think you had only a four-card suit.

2. One club. This follows the usual procedure of bidding the suit under the singleton with 4-4-4-1 hands. Experiment will prove that this method permits all three suits to be shown at the lowest possible level.

3. One club. Here, also, economy of bidding space is best served by opening with a club instead of a spade. Generally, the higher of two five- card suits is named first, but where the suits are spades and clubs, the clubs are usually bid firts. Later the spades are repeated in identify their five - card length.

4. One club, Hands containing 14 high-card points are mandatory opening bids, and the absence of a biddable suit is not a valid excuse for passing them. Since you cannot open one no-trump with only 14 points, and also cannot pass, you are obliged to manufacture a suit bid — in this case, clubs. Three - card suits should seldom be bid. They are generally named only as a last resort.

5. One diamond. Here you can't open with a notrump, despite the balanced distribution, because that would show 16, 17 or 18 points — and you have 19. You therefore open with the perfectly natural bid of a diamond.

It is certainly true your partner will not know that the diamond bid is based on as many as 19 points, but you intend to apprise him of this by jumping the bidding at the next opportunity. If partner passes one diamond, which would indicate he has less than 6 points, perhaps none, you may feel sure that there is no game in the hand.

Later on local farmers must dig their potatoes, grade and wash them, package them and place them on the store shelves where they are sold for just double the price paid the farmer.

I think it is high time for the government to try to find some of the real causes of inflation instead of blaming the consumer and the working man for having too much money to spend.

A few years ago our withholding tax was reduced for awhile. The experts said the extra take home pay would be a big boost to our economy. Now these same experts say we have too much to spend. What are we to believe?

Is not the government very much at fault for this inflation? How can we continue to spend countless billions of dollars of borrowed money on all the equipment and supplies needed to conduct a most unpopular war, plus several more billions to gather a few rocks on the moon without causing inflation?

One of President Nixon's closest advisors is chariman of the Federal Reserve Board. The average man on the street thinks the Federal Reserve Board is a government agency, instead of a gigantic system of private banks that they really are. Who gets the staggering amount of billions of dollars in interest that we have to pay on the national debt each year? At least the bankers are happy.

It might help some if the government weeded out a few thousand employes instead of increasing the pay-roll each year. Also, when Congress voted themselves a raise, it was 60% not 6%.

GOING WHERE?

Each day as I read the pros and cons concerning our youth in this nation I must come to the conclusion that somewhere, somehow, someone has failed, and though I hear and read many answers I find most falling short in two areas. Where is the wisdom of the old, and where is the respect of the younger. I think it is most important that a man examine himself, before he has the ability to examine others. Since I am over 30 I shall look at the generation on my side of the gap.

What kind of examples have we set for our young people? We hate those who are not the same color or religion we are, yet we confess to be Christians. We prepare for war; we say we must protect ourselves, so let's look at our protection.

If war should break out between the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. without doubt it would involve the whole world. Out of the three billion six hundred million people on this planet half could be killed. Shortly after millions would die from starvation, and millions more from radiation after affects. Half of those alive would have mental or physical defects from radiation or other combat wounds.

Who, I ask, would be able to stand forth as conquering heroes and claim, we have won the victory. We have maintained the peace. Is it any wonder we have those who are sick of war. Is it any wonder we have those who say there must be a better way. Why the question is asked, "Where do we go from here?" I think it is time we search our hearts, both young and old.

I think it is time both sides of the generation gap concede that no man is an island. We need one another. Not only do we need one another but we need our Creator. This is the void area that both generations are searching for, this is the gap. You cannot talk about love yet hate your mother, father, son, daughter, or neighbor. I know the churches of today are not pleasing to the one they represent. We have turned His house into a money making business. I am quite sure if Christ were here in person He would turn the tables over and run many of us out of His house. We have turned Christianity into a form of religion denying the truth it stands for.

Parents and teens sit around your family table; eat together, talk together; admit where you are wrong and where the other is right. Come out to church next Sunday and turn it back into the house of God. Then you will find out together. Where do we go from here? One thing is for certain: We shall go from here. So really we must only answer: Where?

Memorial Day

Schedule Tribute To Military Dead

Memorial Day tribute to America's military dead — the men and women who have given their lives for their country — will be the solemn order of the day on Saturday in rites sponsored by the Veterans Council.

Throughout the morning hours there will be visits to cemeteries of the Escanaba area, a parade and ceremonies at Gardens of Rest Cemetery Memorial Park, the Veterans Council reports.

All veterans' organizations of the community — Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of World War I, the American Legion and the Amvets are cooperating in the observance.

Services will be held at Ludington Park at 7:30 a. m.; at Holy Cross Cemetery at 8 o'clock; Lakeview Cemetery at 8:30.

The parade is scheduled for 9:30 a. m., on Ludington St., moving east to Municipal Dock where a wreath will be cast upon the water in symbolic tribute to those who lost their lives at sea. This event is set for 10 a. m.

Veterans' marching units and other military groups, including the color guard of the National Guard company, the Escanaba City Band, Escanaba Area Public High School Band and Holy Name High School Band will participate in the events.

At 11 a. m., the Memorial Day feature will be a program at Gardens of Rest Cemetery, with Col. James Wren of Escanaba and Atty. Thomas Butch of Gladstone the speakers.

The city band will play selections, taps will be sounded by John Chown, director of the Escanaba High School Band, and the Veterans Council has extended an invitation to the public to attend the ceremonies.

The Veterans Council also directs public attention to the proper display of the flag on Memorial Day, as proclaimed by President Nixon — the flying of the colors at half-staff throughout the day.

MEMORIAL AND PATRIOTIC CEREMONIES are scheduled for the morning of Memorial Day, but the flag is to be flown at half-staff throughout the day. Saluting the flag at Amvets Post 123 in Escanaba are Mrs. Gerald Dubord, president of the Amvets Auxiliary, and Commander Jerome Bernier. The flag is raised first to full staff, then lowered to half-staff. (Daily Press Photo)

'Togetherness' Isn't Same For News Team

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It may be coincidence, but it may also be a deliberate ploy. But the nights on which both David Brinkley and Chet Huntley work together on NBC's evening news roundup seem to be getting rarer and rarer.

With Huntley moving inexorably toward his network retirement two months hence, it could be that the NBC news department is gently conditioning the audience to the new order.

Brinkley has been away recently, on a long distance cattle drive which apparently will turn up as an NBC special sometime next season. Chet is away now, apparently catching up on some vacation time. Meanwhile, the viewers are being introduced to John Chancellor.

Frank McGee, who will alternate with Chanceller, hardly needs an introduction, either. He has anchored endless news specials and marathon events including space flights for years.

Chancellor, anchoring the Thursday news roundup alone from Washington, suggested his future style—cool, impartial newsman.

One of the big difficulties about television's current passion for nature-in-the-raw programs is that the subject matter tends toward repetition. For example, the sea turtle and its survival struggle seems to be a favorite subject of the cameramen.

ABC's "Animal World" on Thursday night was dedicated to an inspection of the giant green turtle of the Sulu Sea. It seems that giant green turtles are in danger because human beings who live in the area of the Sulu Sea are fond of eating giant green turtle eggs.

Less than a week ago, NBC's "Great Barrier Reef" contained a segment showing the frantic race to the sea by newly hatched turtles while birds of prey were furiously gobbling many of them up.

These nature shows are interesting and informative, but they are also worrisome. Each one, it seems, feels it is necessary to report on some species which is on the verge of extinction. In the past season we have been presented with the crisis of the wolf, the coral, the turtle, the tiger, the alligator and more than one species of whale. Man, generally, is the most dangerous predator, but since most of us rarely come in contact with any of the endangered species, there is not much we can do except worry.

In a national television poll of representatives of the print media by the show business trade publication Variety, CBS's biweekly news program "60 Minutes" won the most points. ABC's "Room 222" and NBC's "Laugh-In" placed second and third, respectively.

The selections, it should be noted, do not agree with polls of audience popularity. "Laugh-In" is the nation's top show according to the Nielsen ratings, while "60 Minutes" usually winds up somewhere down at the bottom of the list.

EMU Rioting Damages Hit $88,000 Mark

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Officials have reported that a recent series of disturbances at Eastern Michigan University will cost taxpayers an estimated $88,000 for damages and extra law enforcement expenses.

Of the total, some $35,000 will go for the replacement or repair of such items as smashed windows and furniture, the university said.

The damage was inflicted earlier this month when several thousand student demonstrators surged through the streets for four days protesting the Indochina War and other matters.

Gov. William Milliken declared a state of emergency, imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew and other restrictions on the campus and in Ypsilanti.

Officials said overtime and equipment expenses for State Police, who were moved to the city from scattered posts around the state, amounted to some $28,000.

The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department spent $8,200 for lodging, food, special equipment and overtime, and the city spent $14,700. In addition, some $1,300 damage was inflicted on city-owned property, such as parking meters, shrubbery and street signs.

Not included in the $88,000 total was another $2,900 in expenses incurred by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, which offered assistance for two of the four days of disturbances under a mutual aid pact.

City Manager John Cartwright said that he had "every indication that the university will make a real, strong effort to raise" the money needed to reimburse the city for its expenses.

People Need Change Same As 4 Seasons

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The buds of spring have all opened now, and many of its brave petals fallen.

The seasons seem endless, but in truth the seasons encroach each other's heels, and bright summer is already standing in the wings, impatient to seize the stage.

Then it'll be vacation time again for millions, and most of them will find their week or two away from work almost as routine as the long months they spend on the job.

But if the seasons change, why can't people?

Wouldn't it be wonderful if just this year everybody on earth did something different on his vacation, tried some adventure that had beckoned to him all his life but whose challenge he had never answered? It would have a tonic effect on him whether it proved to be fun or foolish.

What could one do? Well, one man's secret daydream could be another's nightmare, but you might, for once in your life—

Drink wine from a goatskin bag.

Pick a cucumber and convert it into a pickle.

Go to the South Pole and play leapfrog with a penguin.

Go to the North Pole and do your Christmas shopping early.

Adopt an orphaned robin.

Become a carnival barker.

Wear white tie and tails to the opening of a new delicatessen.

Write a love sonnet with a stylus.

Have a cannibal for lunch during National Brotherhood Week.

Hire a sky writer to inscribe aloft your views about what we should do about Vietnam.

Secretly climb Mt. Rushmore at night with chisel and mallet and carve your own profile there.

Start an antigambling crusade at Las Vegas.

Cool a war, warm a peace.

Launch a drive to have the White House painted a more interesting color.

Initiate a fund to give free rose-colored glasses to every college student in America.

Wherever you go, take along a couple of briefcases and do the work you've been ducking at the office all year. That would really make a memorable vacation for everyone, including the boss.

Hubbard Could Have Son As Foe

DEARBORN (AP) — Controversial Mayor Orville Hubbard, who's been mayor of this Detroit suburb for 29 years, may have to run against his own son this fall.

His son, John Jay Hubbard, 35, has taken out petitions for the $25,000-a-year job.

"Maybe we need some new blood in the office," Hubbard said shortly after visiting his father Wednesday.

John, one of the mayor's five children, was appointed Dearborn city clerk in March, two years after winning election to the City Council in this community of about 112,000. He is a Marine Corps veteran and the father of three.

Rising Market Bringing Ray Of Optimism

NEW YORK (AP) — Two straight days of sharp gains and improved volume have sparked cautious optimism that the stock market may be pulling itself up out of a 17-month downtrend.

"I think you've seen the bottom," said Charles M. Lewis, a partner of the brokerage firm of Trevis & Co. after the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 20.95 at 684.15 for a 3.15 per cent advance Thursday.

That gain came on the heels of a record single-day jump in the Dow average Wednesday, when the closely watched stock market indicator finished up 32.04 points.

Analysts said the most encouraging aspect of Thursday's continuation of the upturn was the exceptionally heavy volume.

Turnover of 18.91 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange and 6.82 million shares on the American Stock Exchange both were new highs for the year.

"I believe Washington assurances have finally been convincing," Lewis said of the market's two-day performance. "It's said the market dances to Washington's tune, and I believe it."

Many brokers attributed the sharp upswing Wednesday, in part, to investor anticipation of good news emanating from President Nixon's dinner meeting that night with the nation's business leaders.

Reports that Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns had assured the businessmen that the board was alert to the country's money needs were cited Thursday morning when the Dow average soared more than 18 points early in the session.

At midday, the advance had slipped to less than 12 points, but moved forward with renewed strength after White House confirmation of Burns' dinner remarks.

The American Stock Exchange price change index closed up 0.40 at 20.36. The Associated Press 60-stock average finished the day up 6.2 at 237.8 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 1.84 at 74.61.

Foreign markets, which react a day late to activity in the American stock market, reported strong gains Thursday.

Unleaded Gas Due Soon, Firms Claim

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The president of the nation's largest oil marketing firm said Thursday the company's long-range plans make provision for removal of lead from all grades of gasoline.

Charles F. Jones of the Humble Oil & Refining Co. said the best way to obtain pollution free automobiles appears to involve the use of advanced emission control devices that will require unleaded gasolines.

Jones said Humble is capable of producing and marketing in most of its stations at least one grade of either unleaded or low lead gasoline as early as this fall but that it will require an estimated maximum of eight years to complete the conversion.

Humble's position on automobile pollution was stated in an April 13 letter sent by Jones to Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare. A copy of the letter was released Thursday.

Finch had asked oil marketers for comment on HEW proposed emissions standards for 1975.

Treatment For Addicts Hailed

NEW YORK (AP) — A study of more than 2,800 heroin addicts who entered a methadone treatment program has found that none of those who remained in the program returned to daily use of heroin.

The study, released this week, also showed that the majority of the addicts reduced or eliminated previous patterns of antisocial behavior and either got jobs or started school.

The program used procedures developed by Dr. Vincent Dole and Dr. Marie Nyswander of Rockefeller University to treat the addicts, most of them through the Morris Bernstein Institute of Beth Israel Hospital and allied hospitals.

Critics of the methadone treatment approach say that it simply switches the addiction from one drug, heroin, to another, methadone, a synthetic opiate.

The difference between the two is that methadone does not produce a "high" and a user can therefore lead a more normal life. Further, when given to a heroin addict, methadone blocks the heroin high so that an injection of that drug does not yield any pleasure for the addict.

L.A. Pomeroys To Attend Conference

Pastor and Mrs. L. A. Pomeroy of the Escanaba Seventh-day Adventist Church will attend the world conference of the denomination next month in Atlantic City N. J.

Church officials state that they anticipal that more than 25,000 Adventists will gather at Convention Hall in Atlantic City for the quadrennial conference of the church. Of this number some 1500 will be official, voting delegates representing members of 193 countries.

Laymen Will Attend

Delegates are comprised, not only of administrators and selected workers in the church, but also of laymen named by the executive committee of their respective conferences. Some of these laymen come from overseas mission fields as well as from the United States and Canada.

Business of the quadrennial General Conference Session will include the election of a president for the world organization as well as other administrators for the 10 overseas divisions of the church. Matters of policy will receive study and action and plans will be laid for the next four years.

Special Programs

Delegates will hear reports from all divisions and departments of the church. Word from church world headquarters indicates that special programs have been planned to depict the progress of the church and the challenge of what Seventh - day Adventists consider to be their mission to world; the application of Scripture to present-day conditions in the light of Christ's promise to return at the time of the world's end.

Exhibits

The report states that about 50 professionally done exhibits on the various activities of the church will occupy the ground floor of Convention Hall. Focus of exhibit hall will be a theme featuring the early beginnings of the church's mission program compared to the present mission program.

Convention Theme

Theme of the convention will be, "That the World May Know." This is drawn from the text in St. John 17:23, where Christ is praying to the Father in behalf of His disciples, asking that they might so represent Him that the world might know that God sent Christ to man and that this is the evidence of His love to man. The church believes that its greatest commission is to preach Christ's love and gift of salvation through Him that men might be ready for His return to earth.

Students Protest Nude Design On Diplomas

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Some graduating students at the Rhode Island School of Design don't like the design of their new diplomas: a reproduction of a 19th century French painting of a nude woman.

Students objecting to the design say it would be "inappropriate to hang in an architect's office."

RISD President Talbot Rantoul said Thursday the new diploma fits in with plans for an informal and festive commencement.

The diploma was commissioned by a commencement committee and executed by graduating seniors Akiru Artita, 23, of Ashiya City, Japan, and Mark Reichert, 21, of Collegeville, Pa.

The design is a black and white reproduction of a nude by Jean Ingres, surrounded by rust and purple flowers on a pale green background. Text on the diploma totals 21 words.

Rantoul said the design resulted from some student dissatisfaction with the formality of last year's commencement and a desire for a "more festive" program.

Opposition has been so strong, Rantoul said, that he has agreed to sign any diploma that a student designs, but the student also will get one with the nude and the flowers.

New Babies To Get Rocking Chair Treatment

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Something old is going to be tried on newborn babies at the University of California School of Medicine — the rocking chair.

"The infant left alone for weeks in an incubator can become socially retarded," says Dr. Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics. The nurses will cuddle and rock babies during time spent out of the incubators.

Gluck, who won national recigation for an infant - care program at Yale-New Haven Medical Center, plans other innovations for University Hospital.

In a training class next fall, nurses and doctors from eight hospitals will meet weekly for two months to study the latest in infant care.

Then the nurses will spend up to six weeks in the hospital's infant special care center, studying how best to treat sick and premature newborns.

The mortality rate of newborn Americans is "dismal," Gluck said in an interview Thursday.

"Of every 1,000 babies born in the United States today, 22 won't live to blow out the candles on their first birthday cake," he said.

The main problem, he said, is brain damage related directly to poor medical care during the critical first days of life.

The special care unit, he said, "will have rocking chairs where babies will be held, fondled, petted and patted during feeding periods."

Here's the way it works. The top management brass, to protect the future of your company (which includes your job security) spend a lot of time and money keeping track of what the customers think about the product as it is, as it could be, and how much money it is worth to them.

Out of this market research comes management policies which, in turn, become the particular instructions that are passed along to the particular employees who must carry them out and make the policy work. And these orders are just as binding on the top brass as they are on you. Even if they don't like it, everybody takes orders from the customer. Nobody can stand up against him.

So you still don't like it. But wait a minute. You are a customer—you may be one of the people whose attitude was responsible for this policy you don't like.

Certainly you should be willing to carry out your own order!

L.A. Pomeroys To Attend Conference

Pastor and Mrs. L. A. Pomeroy of the Escanaba Seventh-day Adventist Church will attend the world conference of the denomination next month in Atlantic City N. J.

Church officials state that they anticipal that more than 25,000 Adventists will gather at Convention Hall in Atlantic City for the quadrennial conference of the church. Of this number some 1500 will be official, voting delegates representing members of 193 countries.

Laymen Will Attend

Delegates are comprised, not only of administrators and selected workers in the church, but also of laymen named by the executive committee of their respective conferences. Some of these laymen come from overseas mission fields as well as from the United States and Canada.

Business of the quadrennial General Conference Session will include the election of a president for the world organization as well as other administrators for the 10 overseas divisions of the church. Matters of policy will receive study and action and plans will be laid for the next four years.

Special Programs

Delegates will hear reports from all divisions and departments of the church. Word from church world headquarters indicates that special programs have been planned to depict the progress of the church and the challenge of what Seventh - day Adventists consider to be their mission to world; the application of Scripture to present-day conditions in the light of Christ's promise to return at the time of the world's end.

Exhibits

The report states that about 50 professionally done exhibits on the various activities of the church will occupy the ground floor of Convention Hall. Focus of exhibit hall will be a theme featuring the early beginnings of the church's mission program compared to the present mission program.

Convention Theme

Theme of the convention will be, "That the World May Know." This is drawn from the text in St. John 17:23, where Christ is praying to the Father in behalf of His disciples, asking that they might so represent Him that the world might know that God sent Christ to man and that this is the evidence of His love to man. The church believes that its greatest commission is to preach Christ's love and gift of salvation through Him that men might be ready for His return to earth.

New Babies To Get Rocking Chair Treatment

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Something old is going to be tried on newborn babies at the University of California School of Medicine — the rocking chair.

"The infant left alone for weeks in an incubator can become socially retarded," says Dr. Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics. The nurses will cuddle and rock babies during time spent out of the incubators.

Gluck, who won national recigation for an infant - care program at Yale-New Haven Medical Center, plans other innovations for University Hospital.

In a training class next fall, nurses and doctors from eight hospitals will meet weekly for two months to study the latest in infant care.

Then the nurses will spend up to six weeks in the hospital's infant special care center, studying how best to treat sick and premature newborns.

The mortality rate of newborn Americans is "dismal," Gluck said in an interview Thursday.

"Of every 1,000 babies born in the United States today, 22 won't live to blow out the candles on their first birthday cake," he said.

The main problem, he said, is brain damage related directly to poor medical care during the critical first days of life.

The special care unit, he said, "will have rocking chairs where babies will be held, fondled, petted and patted during feeding periods."

Students Protest Nude Design On Diplomas

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Some graduating students at the Rhode Island School of Design don't like the design of their new diplomas: a reproduction of a 19th century French painting of a nude woman.

Students objecting to the design say it would be "inappropriate to hang in an architect's office."

RISD President Talbot Rantoul said Thursday the new diploma fits in with plans for an informal and festive commencement.

The diploma was commissioned by a commencement committee and executed by graduating seniors Akiru Artita, 23, of Ashiya City, Japan, and Mark Reichert, 21, of Collegeville, Pa.

The design is a black and white reproduction of a nude by Jean Ingres, surrounded by rust and purple flowers on a pale green background. Text on the diploma totals 21 words.

Rantoul said the design resulted from some student dissatisfaction with the formality of last year's commencement and a desire for a "more festive" program.

Opposition has been so strong, Rantoul said, that he has agreed to sign any diploma that a student designs, but the student also will get one with the nude and the flowers.

Woodcock Foresees No Union Trouble

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock says he doesn't feel his presidency of the United Auto Workers will make it more difficult for the union to get a new auto contract ratified by rank and file members.

Executives from industry's side of the bargaining table have expressed fear that Woodcock does not have the prestige or command the allegiance among UAW members that the late Walter P. Reuther did and therefore might have a more difficult time selling a contract to them.

Under Reuther's leadership and prestige, the UAW never has failed to ratify a contract won at the bargaining table from General Motors, Chrysler or Ford. It took a hard-sell approach, however, to put over the pacts now in effect.

Reuther took to television to sell the three-year pacts written in 1967, which included for the first time a limit on how high the government's cost-of-living index could take wages. That eight-cent annual limitation was a major objection, and the union has pledged itself to win it back.

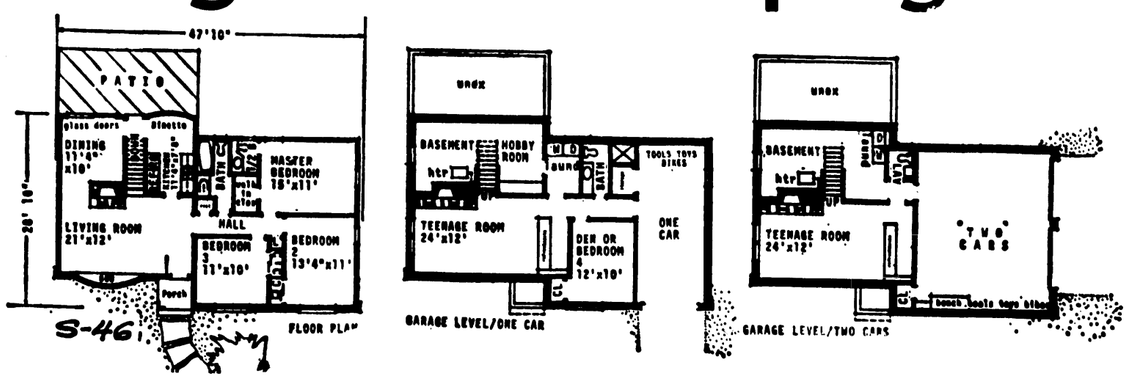
Those contracts expire Sept. 14 and new bargaining will begin in mid-July.

Before ratification is put to rank and file balloting, the GM, Ford and Chrysler councils, made up of local union representatives, are called in from across the country, and new contract provisions gone over in detail.

It is up to council members to take the message back home, with an explanation of why something their particular locals wanted wasn't included; maybe why it was swapped for something else.

VARIED WINDOWS — In living room, front door and bedrooms — add interest to stone and brick facade of house which effectively utilizes sloping lot to reduce excavating costs and add livable space.

Designed For Sloping Lot



FLOOR PLANS: Main floor plan is tried-and-tested layout for six-room house in fairly small space. Other arrangements take care of division of lower level if either a one or two-car garage is selected.

By ANDY LANG

As land becomes harder to find and more expensive, too, smaller property must be carefull studied so that it can be used to fuller advantage than may be evident at first look. This is especially so if the lot slopes.

Once considered not too desirable, a sloping lot is now acceptable and, in some cases, preferable because of the possibility it offers for providing more livable space at a lower cost than a wider house with its larger roof area would require.

Architect Lester Cohen has done an excellent job with this plan on both levels considering its modest dimensions of 47' 10" by 28' 10", even providing an option of three or four bedrooms and a one-car or two-car garage. With this kind of flexibility, the prospective home owner can feel like the master of his property rather the captive, as is often the case when building on a small lot. And for an older family, the optional lower level can be left as strictly basement and garage, with enough — but not too much — living space in the main floor plan.

Although this house was designed for a sloping lot, its ground floor plan could be built on a flat lot, with a conventional below-grade basement and a garage set back on the property. There's a divider at the front door to set off the living room. Minimum traffic in that room is likely, since the kitchen is straight ahead and the bedroom hall is off to the rear. The family bathroom is compartmented, with its entry thoughtfully shielded by a coat closet. The maste. bedroom occupies the private rear right corner, buffered by a walk-in closet and its own half-bath.

A break in the rectangular design sets the living area back, dividing the house without making it look smaller or boxey. The kitchen has a compact appliance and counter layout. A rear bow window extends the area to form a dinette. To the side of it is a rear vestibule opening to the back patio, also accessible from the dining room via a window wall of sliding glass doors. An interior fireplace makes a cheery hearth in the living room and is a pleasant divider between that room and the dining room, leaving free flow between them, visually and actually.

The garage is down a stairway off the kitchen, just inside the rear entry from the patio, or backyard. The area under the living, dining and kitchen side is divided into a basement, laundry and teen-age room, with its own fireplace and refreshment bar. For the version with a one-car garage, there's a hobby room, plus laundry, full stall-shower bath and a convenient fourth bedroom or den. If the two-car layout is used, the laundry and a trim lavatory are fitted in.

Stone and brick are nicely combined at the front of the house to present a tidy appearance. Wood siding is utilized on other exterior portions.

S-46 STATISTICS

Design S-46 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, a full bath and a half-bath on the main level, totaling 1193 square feet. If a one-car garage is used on the lower level, the plans call for a teen-age room, hobby room, laundry, bathroom, fourth bedroom or den and a basement area. If a two-car garage is necessary, the teen-age room and basement section are retained, along with a laundry and lavatory. Over-all dimensions are 47' 10" by 28' 10", including the garage but excluding the patio, the depth of which is optional.

FIREPLACE acts as divider between living room and dining room. Glass doors in dining room lead to rear patio. Glimpse of kitchen as at right.

Admits Buying Material Used In Draft Raid

CHICAGO (AP) — A Detroit woman testified in U.S. District Court Thursday that she purchased paint, gasoline and burlap sacks allegedly used by a group which raided a draft board office a year ago and destroyed Selective Service records.

Miss Margaret Katroscik, 23, one of 11 persons being tried on charges of arson in connection with the May 25, 1969 incident, told the court she bought the burlap sacks at the potato and onion wholesale market.

She also said she drives a truck for a Detroit catering service and gives most of her wages to her ill father. Miss Katroscik testified she was arrested during the Poor Peoples Campaign in Washington, D.C., in 1968.

Charles L. Muse, 21, Roxbury, Mass., admitted he participated in the raid and said he poured paint on draft board files. He said he previously was sentenced to prison for failing to register for the draft.

Frederick Chase, 26, Detroit, another defendant, told the jury he brought sacks of records from the office into an alley.

"If I had had to destroy draft files in Nazi Germany, I would have done it," Chase said.

A defense lawyer, Anthony Locricchio, said he planned to subpoena the Cook County clerk in an effort to obtain voting lists used to select the jury in the trial of nine men and two women.

Locricchio told Judge Edwin A. Robson that he believed the jury lists were four years old. The lawyer said if his contention was valid, then the list deprives anyone under age 25 from being on the jury.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

UAW President Against Wage, Price Control

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, new president of the United Auto Workers, was quoted Wednesday by the Detroit News as opposing wage-price controls as a means of combatting inflation.

Woodcock's 1.6-million-member union faces a crucial round of new contract bargaining with the auto industry this summer. And the UAW has adopted a wide-ranging, costly set of economic demands.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., took a position somewhat paralleling Woodcock's when Ford told stockholders recently that "experience with war-time wage and price controls suggests that the remedy may be as bad as the sickness (of inflation) for all concerned."

A Chrysler spokesman was quoted by the News as saying that "it is our belief that the economy should be as free from artificial restrictions as possible so that the natural forces of supply and demand can work as they should."

A General Motors spokesman said that "we've expressed our opposition to wage and price controls in the past, but we have nothing to say right now."

"We will do everything we can as an organization," Woodcock was quoted as saying, "to prevent imposition of controls.

"The Nixon administration has said it is opposed to wage and price controls and I expect it to be faithful to that promise. . . .

"It (talk of wage-price controls) is disturbing and strange coming from a Congress which was quick to boost its own salaries by such an enormous amount."

Elected last Friday as president of the UAW to succeed the late Walter P. Reuther, Woodcock said defense spending, not pay of workers, is responsible for inflation, adding that if the auto industry were run the way the Defense Department is "it would be bankrupt."

Protestors Force Cutback Of Navy Team Exhibition

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — An exhibition by a Navy acrobatic flying team at Selfridge Air Force Base Saturday and Sunday has been canceled because of a planned antiwar demonstration on the base.

A coalition of antiwar groups is planning a "peace picnic" during the Memorial Day weekend open house at the base near Mount Clemens.

Col. Kenneth Gunarson, commanding officer at Selfridge, said he has learned that some of the organizations involved in the demonstration are "militant in nature with a long record of violence."

Gunarson said he felt it would be unwise to risk injury to persons or damage to government property and extend regrets "to those peaceful citizens who would have enjoyed the show."

As land becomes harder to find and more expensive, too, smaller property must be carefull studied so that it can be used to fuller advantage than may be evident at first look. This is especially so if the lot slopes.

Once considered not too desirable, a sloping lot is now acceptable and, in some cases, preferable because of the possibility it offers for providing more livable space at a lower cost than a wider house with its larger roof area would require.

Architect Lester Cohen has done an excellent job with this plan on both levels considering its modest dimensions of 47' 10" by 28' 10", even providing an option of three or four bedrooms and a one-car or two-car garage. With this kind of flexibility, the prospective home owner can feel like the master of his property rather the captive, as is often the case when building on a small lot. And for an older family, the optional lower level can be left as strictly basement and garage, with enough — but not too much — living space in the main floor plan.

Although this house was designed for a sloping lot, its ground floor plan could be built on a flat lot, with a conventional below-grade basement and a garage set back on the property. There's a divider at the front door to set off the living room. Minimum traffic in that room is likely, since the kitchen is straight ahead and the bedroom hall is off to the rear. The family bathroom is compartmented, with its entry thoughtfully shielded by a coat closet. The master bedroom occupies the private rear right corner, buffered by a walk-in closet and its own half-bath.

A break in the rectangular design sets the living area back, dividing the house without making it look smaller or boxey. The kitchen has a compact appliance and counter layout. A rear bow window extends the area to form a dinette. To the side of it is a rear vestibule opening to the back patio, also accessible from the dining room via a window wall of sliding glass doors. An interior fireplace makes a cheery hearth in the living room and is a pleasant divider between that room and the dining room, leaving free flow between them, visually and actually.

The garage is down a stairway off the kitchen, just inside the rear entry from the patio, or backyard. The area under the living, dining and kitchen side is divided into a basement, laundry and teen-age room, with its own fireplace and refreshment bar. For the version with a one-car garage, there's a hobby room, plus laundry, full stall-shower bath and a convenient fourth bedroom or den. If the two-car layout is used, the laundry and a trim lavatory are fitted in.

Stone and brick are nicely combined at the front of the house to present a tidy appearance. Wood siding is utilized on other exterior portions.

Design S-46 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, a full bath and a half-bath on the main level, totaling 1193 square feet. If a one-car garage is used on the lower level, the plans call for a teen-age room, hobby room, laundry, bathroom, fourth bedroom or den and a basement area. If a two-car garage is necessary, the teen-age room and basement section are retained, along with a laundry and lavatory. Over-all dimensions are 47' 10" by 28' 10", including the garage but excluding the patio, the depth of which is optional.

Admits Buying Material Used In Draft Raid

CHICAGO (AP) — A Detroit woman testified in U.S. District Court Thursday that she purchased paint, gasoline and burlap sacks allegedly used by a group which raided a draft board office a year ago and destroyed Selective Service records.

Miss Margaret Katroscik, 23, one of 11 persons being tried on charges of arson in connection with the May 25, 1969 incident, told the court she bought the burlap sacks at the potato and onion wholesale market.

She also said she drives a truck for a Detroit catering service and gives most of her wages to her ill father. Miss Katroscik testified she was arrested during the Poor Peoples Campaign in Washington, D.C., in 1968.

Charles L. Muse, 21, Roxbury, Mass., admitted he participated in the raid and said he poured paint on draft board files. He said he previously was sentenced to prison for failing to register for the draft.

Frederick Chase, 26, Detroit, another defendant, told the jury he brought sacks of records from the office into an alley.

"If I had had to destroy draft files in Nazi Germany, I would have done it," Chase said.

A defense lawyer, Anthony Locricchio, said he planned to subpoena the Cook County clerk in an effort to obtain voting lists used to select the jury in the trial of nine men and two women.

Locricchio told Judge Edwin A. Robson that he believed the jury lists were four years old. The lawyer said if his contention was valid, then the list deprives anyone under age 25 from being on the jury.

UAW President Against Wage, Price Control

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, new president of the United Auto Workers, was quoted Wednesday by the Detroit News as opposing wage-price controls as a means of combatting inflation.

Woodcock's 1.6-million-member union faces a crucial round of new contract bargaining with the auto industry this summer. And the UAW has adopted a wide-ranging, costly set of economic demands.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., took a position somewhat paralleling Woodcock's when Ford told stockholders recently that "experience with war-time wage and price controls suggests that the remedy may be as bad as the sickness (of inflation) for all concerned."

A Chrysler spokesman was quoted by the News as saying that "it is our belief that the economy should be as free from artificial restrictions as possible so that the natural forces of supply and demand can work as they should."

A General Motors spokesman said that "we've expressed our opposition to wage and price controls in the past, but we have nothing to say right now."

"We will do everything we can as an organization," Woodcock was quoted as saying, "to prevent imposition of controls.

"The Nixon administration has said it is opposed to wage and price controls and I expect it to be faithful to that promise. . . .

"It (talk of wage-price controls) is disturbing and strange coming from a Congress which was quick to boost its own salaries by such an enormous amount."

Elected last Friday as president of the UAW to succeed the late Walter P. Reuther, Woodcock said defense spending, not pay of workers, is responsible for inflation, adding that if the auto industry were run the way the Defense Department is "it would be bankrupt."

Protestors Force Cutback Of Navy Team Exhibition

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — An exhibition by a Navy acrobatic flying team at Selfridge Air Force Base Saturday and Sunday has been canceled because of a planned antiwar demonstration on the base.

A coalition of antiwar groups is planning a "peace picnic" during the Memorial Day weekend open house at the base near Mount Clemens.

Col. Kenneth Gunarson, commanding officer at Selfridge, said he has learned that some of the organizations involved in the demonstration are "militant in nature with a long record of violence."

Gunarson said he felt it would be unwise to risk injury to persons or damage to government property and extend regrets "to those peaceful citizens who would have enjoyed the show."

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — Dr. N. Scott Momaday, Pulitzer Prize winning author and professor at the University of California at Berkeley, will be among three men who will receive honorary degrees at Central Michigan University's commencement exercises June 6.

JIM WAS GRADUATED TODAY

Mary and I sat on the bleachers overlooking the high school athletic field and watched him march in with his class. A bird glided overhead, and, from far off, a dog's bark and children's voices mingled on the evening air. Behind circling hills, blue mountains made a stately backdrop.

Jim avoided our glance, the habitual grin he's worn since babyhood stilled for a moment in a gaze of earnest solemnity. His first big milestone had come, and I smiled to myself remembering his eagerness to embark upon the "world of tomorrow."

I have no fears for his future . . . for Jim is a Christian. What a wonderful assurance it is to his mother and me to know that wherever he goes, whatever happens in that wanderful "world" ahead, the values and principles he has been taught will be there to guide and sustain him.

How grateful we are to our church for the guidance and encouragement it has given us in the Christian education of our son!

JIM WAS GRADUATED TODAY

Mary and I sat on the bleachers overlooking the high school athletic field and watched him march in with his class. A bird glided overhead, and, from far off, a dog's bark and children's voices mingled on the evening air. Behind circling hills, blue mountains made a stately backdrop.

Jim avoided our glance, the habitual grin he's worn since babyhood stilled for a moment in a gaze of earnest solemnity. His first big milestone had come, and I smiled to myself remembering his eagerness to embark upon the "world of tomorrow."

I have no fears for his future . . . for Jim is a Christian. What a wonderful assurance it is to his mother and me to know that wherever he goes, whatever happens in that wonderful "world" ahead, the values and principles he has been taught will be there to guide and sustain him.

How grateful we are to our church for the guid- ance and encouragement it has given us in the Christian education of our son!

Raps Republicans For Ignoring Wage Increase Measure

LANSING (AP) — State Sen. Sander Levin has accused Gov. William Milliken and Senate Republican leaders of failing to live up to an agreement that he said would mean a wage hike for some 200,000 Michigan workers.

Levin, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, called on Milliken to push for Senate action on a House-passed minimum wage bill, hiking the current $1.25 hourly minimum to $1.45 as of July 1.

"The governor is unwilling to exert pressure on the Republican caucus to get out a bill he said is a priority item," Levin said. "He isn't even willing to slap anybody's wrist — never mind twist anybody's arm."

Levin said House and Senate leaders and the governor had agreed that the House bill should be passed.

Levin vowed to attempt discharging the bill from the Senate Labor Committee if it were not reported by June 1.

Doubletalk Proves Most Interesting Item

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Heard any good new double talk lately?

Double talk, you remember, is saying one thing while thinking another. It is a device for saving your public face while remaining privately honest with yourself.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, here are some typical examples of modern day double talk:

"Frankly, I like the dress, but somehow it doesn't bring out the real me."—I saw the price tag.

"I really enjoy living alone, Melvin, but now and then I get swept by a feeling of unutterable loneliness. Don't you sometimes feel that way, too?"—What did I do wrong as a little girl so that now, at 28, I have to try to get a jerk like Melvin to propose to me?

"Naturally, every man has a right to express his own opinion."—So why don't you write yours on a piece of paper, put it in a bottle, and float it out to sea?

"The reason I asked you to baby sit for us, Melinda, is that everyone in the neighborhood brags about what a trustworthy and responsible girl you are for your age."—Please don't teach our child to smoke pot while we're gone—she's only 3.

"Well, I guess I will have just one more if you promise to make it a real teentsy-weentsy one."—But you don't have to pour it from an eyedropper, like you did the other two.

"I can't wait for the beach season to start, Gloria, so I can see how you'll look in that new bikini."—But maybe we could tie it on a broomstick right now and get a good idea.

"Yeah, since I started taking exercises regularly, I can now touch my toes 50 times without —." Without getting out of bed.

"Now, Jim, why did you have to go and do that? You know I insisted we were going to go Dutch!"—Boy, that was close. The big bum almost let me pay for my own meal.

"I'm happy to tell you, Mr. Brownbaum, that your first series of X-rays were completely negative." My technician goofed. Now we'll take some more and find out what's actually wrong with you.

"Normally, of course, I wouldn't be caught dead going to a dirty movie, but according to the critics this one has some redeeming features."—It's real dirty.

"That sounds like pure malicious gossip about Sylvia. How can you believe a word of it?"—I always knew she was a tramp. Tell me more.

"Your word alone is always good enough for me, Frank."—But let's put it in writing and have it notorized, shall we, old pal?

Business-Like PO Plan OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation intended to put the postal service on a more business-like basis, and largely divorced from politics, has won the approval of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The Post Office Department would be replaced by an independent U.S. Postal Service run by a board of governors, who would select the Postmaster General and have authority to issue up to $10 billion in bonds for operating costs and capital improvements.

Postal rates no longer would be set by Congress. Instead, they would be set by a 5-member rate-making commission, subject to review by the Postmaster General and the board of governors.

Also included in the reform measure is an 8 per cent pay raise for postal workers, but the committee took no action on President Nixon's request for a $1.5 billion increase in postal rates.

The only dissent came from Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex. Shortly before the committee acted yesterday, he predicted enactment of the legislation would lead to "enormous increases in postage rates and continued cuts in service."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥	3 NT

Opening lead—nine of hearts.

Psychology has a great deal to do with the outcome of many hands. For example consider this deal from a team match where, at the first table, South got to three notrump and West led a heart.

Declarer realized that if he staked the outcome on a diamond finesse, he would go down if it turned out that East had the king. So, in order to give himself a better chance for the contract, he decided to tackle spades first.

Accordingly, he ducked East's jack of hearts at trick one and won the heart continuation with the ace. Then he played a spade to the king hoping to find East with the singleton queen, which would automatically have given him four spade tricks and the contract.

However, East followed low and South continued with a low spade from dummy, this time hoping to find East with the doubleton queen, in which case he would still be able to produce four spade tricks by next finessing the nine.

Had East followed with the ten on the second spade lead, South would have been driven to stake his all on the diamond finesse, which would have succeeded as the cards happened to lie.

But East — who realized what declarer was planning to do — followed with the queen on the second spade lead in an effort to sell South the idea that West had started with four spades to the ten.

Declarer fell right into the trap. He went up with the ace, finessed the nine, and found himself going down two.

At the second table, North-South bid and made six notrump! Declarer won the heart lead, cashed five diamonds and three clubs, then threw East into the lead with a heart, forcing him to lead away from the Q-10-5 of spades into dummy's K-J-9.

Twelve tricks—easy as pie!

Credit Unions Of Upper Peninsula Elect Officers

Representatives of credit unions in the Upper Peninsula elected officers at the annual meeting of the organization recently in Marquette. More than 100 credit union officers and guests attended.

Richard Meissner, 605 Ogden Ave., Escanaba, was elected a chapter director in the Michigan Credit Union League, and Wesley Kumpula, Marquette, was elected alternate director, both for two-year terms. Serving a continuing term as League director is George R. LaChapelle, Iron Mountain, the League's president.

Kay DeShambo, 1908 S. 8th Ave., Escanaba, elected to the executive committee for a one-year term, was named secretary.

Serving continuing terms on the executive committee are Joyce Borman, 500 Hill, Escanaba; Ethel Casimir, Spalding, reelected first vice chairman, and Eloise Kosbab, 506 S. 10th St., Escanaba, reelected treasurer.

The 65 credit unions of the Upper Peninsula Chapter have a combined membership of more than 53,000 and total assets exceeding $37 million.

Raps Republicans For Ignoring Wage Increase Measure

LANSING (AP) — State Sen. Sander Levin has accused Gov. William Milliken and Senate Republican leaders of failing to live up to an agreement that he said would mean a wage hike for some 200,000 Michigan workers.

Levin, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, called on Milliken to push for Senate action on a House-passed minimum wage bill, hiking the current $1.25 hourly minimum to $1.45 as of July 1.

"The governor is unwilling to exert pressure on the Republican caucus to get out a bill he said is a priority item," Levin said. "He isn't even willing to slap anybody's wrist — never mind twist anybody's arm."

Levin said House and Senate leaders and the governor had agreed that the House bill should be passed.

Levin vowed to attempt discharging the bill from the Senate Labor Committee if it were not reported by June 1.

Doubletalk Proves Most Interesting Item

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Heard any good new double talk lately?

Double talk, you remember, is saying one thing while thinking another. It is a device for saving your public face while remaining privately honest with yourself.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, here are some typical examples of modern day double talk:

"Frankly, I like the dress, but somehow it doesn't bring out the real me."—I saw the price tag.

"I really enjoy living alone, Melvin, but now and then I get swept by a feeling of unutterable loneliness. Don't you sometimes feel that way, too?"—What did I do wrong as a little girl so that now, at 28, I have to try to get a jerk like Melvin to propose to me?

"Naturally, every man has a right to express his own opinion."—So why don't you write yours on a piece of paper, put it in a bottle, and float it out to sea?

"The reason I asked you to baby sit for us, Melinda, is that everyone in the neighborhood brags about what a trustworthy and responsible girl you are for your age."—Please don't teach our child to smoke pot while we're gone—she's only 3.

"Well, I guess I will have just one more if you promise to make it a real teentsy-weentsy one."—But you don't have to pour it from an eyedropper, like you did the other two.

"I can't wait for the beach season to start, Gloria, so I can see how you'll look in that new bikini."—But maybe we could tie it on a broomstick right now and get a good idea.

"Yeah, since I started taking exercises regularly, I can now touch my toes 50 times without —." Without getting out of bed.

"Now, Jim, why did you have to go and do that? You know I insisted we were going to go Dutch!"—Boy, that was close. The big bum almost let me pay for my own meal.

"I'm happy to tell you, Mr. Brownbaum, that your first series of X-rays were completely negative." My technician goofed. Now we'll take some more and find out what's actually wrong with you.

"Normally, of course, I wouldn't be caught dead going to a dirty movie, but according to the critics this one has some redeeming features."—It's real dirty.

"That sounds like pure malicious gossip about Sylvia. How can you believe a word of it?"—I always knew she was a tramp. Tell me more.

"Your word alone is always good enough for me, Frank."—But let's put it in writing and have it notorized, shall we, old pal?

Business-Like PO Plan OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation intended to put the postal service on a more business-like basis, and largely divorced from politics, has won the approval of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The Post Office Department would be replaced by an independent U.S. Postal Service run by a board of governors, who would select the Postmaster General and have authority to issue up to $10 billion in bonds for operating costs and capital improvements.

Postal rates no longer would be set by Congress. Instead, they would be set by a 5-member rate-making commission, subject to review by the Postmaster General and the board of governors.

Also included in the reform measure is an 8 per cent pay raise for postal workers, but the committee took no action on President Nixon's request for a $1.5 billion increase in postal rates.

The only dissent came from Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex. Shortly before the committee acted yesterday, he predicted enactment of the legislation would lead to "enormous increases in postage rates and continued cuts in service."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥	3 NT

Opening lead—nine of hearts.

Psychology has a great deal to do with the outcome of many hands. For example consider this deal from a team match where, at the first table, South got to three notrump and West led a heart.

Declarer realized that if he staked the outcome on a diamond finesse, he would go down if it turned out that East had the king. So, in order to give himself a better chance for the contract, he decided to tackle spades first.

Accordingly, he ducked East's jack of hearts at trick one and won the heart continuation with the ace. Then he played a spade to the king hoping to find East with the singleton queen, which would automatically have given him four spade tricks and the contract.

However, East followed low and South continued with a low spade from dummy, this time hoping to find East with the doubleton queen, in which case he would still be able to produce four spade tricks by next finessing the nine.

Had East followed with the ten on the second spade lead, South would have been driven to stake his all on the diamond finesse, which would have succeeded as the cards happened to lie.

But East — who realized what declarer was planning to do — followed with the queen on the second spade lead in an effort to sell South the idea that West had started with four spades to the ten.

Declarer fell right into the trap. He went up with the ace, finessed the nine, and found himself going down two.

At the second table, North-South bid and made six notrump! Declarer won the heart lead, cashed five diamonds and three clubs, then threw East into the lead with a heart, forcing him to lead away from the Q-10-5 of spades into dummy's K-J-9.

Twelve tricks—easy as pie!

Twins' Tiant Makes Trade Look Like Steal Of Year

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins acquired Luis Tiant for his pitching ability but the hard-throwing Mexican has shone at bat too, and is making the trade with the Cleveland Indians look like the steal of the year.

The 29-year-old unbeaten right-hander rolled to his sixth consecutive victory Thursday and contributed three hits and three runs batted in as the Twins socked Milwaukee 11-2.

In the only other American League contest, Oakland blanked California 2-0.

In National League play, Philadelphia edged Montreal 5-3 in 11 innings, San Francisco nipped Los Angeles 4-3, St. Louis rocked the New York Mets 9-2 and Chicago beat Pittsburgh 8-7.

Leads Attack

Tiant, who raised his average to .434, led Minnesota's 16-hit attack against five Brewers pitchers, stroking a run-scoring single in Minnesota's four-run second and a two-run single in a four-run fourth as the Twins raced to an 11-0 edge.

Tiant, however, was forced to leave in the eighth inning with a tight shoulder muscle after giving the Brewers eight hits and both their runs.

"On my last pitch I felt something pop and I didn't want to pitch any more," Tiant said. "I don't think it will bother me though. But I didn't want to have it hurt like last year."

Last year was a nightmare for the Mexico City native, who pitched ineffectively and wound up losing 20 games while winning only nine. His earned run average ballooned to 2.84 from his 1968 league-leading mark of 1.60 when he had a 21-9 record.

During the winter, Tiant along with right-hander Stan Williams were sent to the Twins for Dean Chance, Bob Miller, Graig Nettles and Ted Uhlaender.

Trade Great

The trade has been a great one for Minnesota to this point.

Tiant has a 6-0 mark and 3.11 ERA while Williams, in 19 relief appearances, is also unbeaten at 4-0.

On the Cleveland side side of the ledger, Chance sidelined most of last year by injuries while compiling a 5-4 record, is only 1-5 while Miller, a reliver, is 1-2.

Nettles an infielder-outfielder, is hitting only .145 with centerfielder Uhlaender at .267.

And those statistics help to back up the standings of each club.

The Twins, leaders in the West Division of the AL, have a 29-12 record and are 2½ games in front of California. Cleveland, at 14-26 is last in the East, 15½ in back of Baltimore's front-runners.

Tony LaRussa, a second baseman recalled from the minors a week ago, rapped a two-run double in the seventh inning for the A's giving Chuck Dobson all the support he needed.

Dobson, 5-4, struck out three Angels and did't walk a batter as he limited California to six singles.

4th Straight

Tony Taylor cracked a pair of solo homers but it was Terry Harmon's sacirfice fly in the 11th inning that gave the Phils their fourth straight victory and sent the skidding Expos to their fifth loss in a row.

Taylor's first homer tied the contest at 3-3 in the seventh and he followed Larry Bowa's triple and pinch hitter Harmon's fly ball with his second roundtripper.

"I knew they were both gone when I hit them," said Taylor, who had only hit two homers in one game once before. "I did it in 1959 with the Chicago Cubs," said Taylor, who has three homers for the season.

The expos scored all three runs in the second inning off Phils' starter Grant Jackson. Ron Stone had a two-run double for Philadelphia in the sixth.

Dick Dietz cracked a homer in the bottom of the ninth, giving the Giants their victory after the Dodgers had tied it in the top of the inning at 3-3 on Jim Lefebvre's run-scoring single.

3 Homers

Bobby Bonds and Ken Henderson also cracked homers for the Giants and winner Gaylord Perry, 7-5. Reliver Jim Brewer, who served up Dietz' 10th circuit of the season, was the loser.

Joe Hague drove in five runs with a homer and three singles behind Bob Gibson's strong 11-strikeout pitching in the Cards' triumph. Rich Allen contributed three hits to the winners' attack, who knocked out Mets' starter and loser Jim McAndrew in a four-run first inning.

Jim Hickman's two-run homer, his second blast of the game, gave the Cubs their victory.

Hickman's first two-run shot had tied the contest at 6-6 but the Pirates went in front 7-6 in the eighth on Matty Alou's RBI single before Hickman stroked his 10th homer of the year, his fifth in six games.

Cleo James had a solo belt for Chicago while Bob Robertson homered for the Pirates.

Young Awarded McGinn Trophy

Dan Young

Dan Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Young, 517 S. 17th St., was named the 16th recipient of the Denis McGinn Trophy at the Holy Name High School assembly Friday morning.

The award is given to an outstanding athlete, who is also a good scholar, in recognition of his service to Holy Name High School.

Denis McGinn set up the award back before Holy Name existed. It was established for St. Joseph High School and then moved to Holy Name when the school began operating. McGinn was a lawyer and was greatly interested in athletics. He showed this by his refereeing, coaching, attendance at games and by encouraging youngsters to be athletes.

Since his death, his wife has continued the award and her children have vowed that the award will continue as long as there is a Holy Name.

Head coaches of the various sports, the athletic director and the principal select the winner, considering the leadership and contributions made to his fellow students both on the field and in the school.

Young earned awards for four years of participation in football, basketball and track while in high school. He was named to the All-U. P. football team in 1969 as an offensive back and to the All U. P. Class B second team in basketball. Young recently received a football scholarship to attend Northern Michigan University.

Dave Hill Leading Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, TENN. (AP) — I'm usually a slow starter here," Dave Hill said, then flashed that impish grin.

"But this time, everybody's got problems, cause ol' Davy got off and running."

And that he did, blasting out a remarkable 63, built on a fantastic string of six holes where he cut seven strokes off par for the first-round lead in the $150,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis open golf tournament.

"It's the greens," the slim, darly handsome Hill said thursday. "I just putt these greens so good."

But he missed a couple that could have put him in with a 61—matching the lowest score of the year on the pro tour.

One was for an eagle from four feet on the 18th hole—he played the back nine first. The other was for a birdie from six feet on the second "and I must have been afraid I was going to shoot a good score," said Hill, who has won this event twice in the last three years.

He held a one-stroke lead over Dick Crawford, who said he had been in a slump since early in March. Crawford had a 64 with five birdies, an eagle and a single bogey.

"My best round since the Citrus (in Orlando, Fla. has been a 72." Crawford said, "and I've had a lot of 74s. But I finally managed to cut across on'em." Veteran Jack McGowan, rookie Handy Wolff and young Hale Irvin followed at 65 with seven more at 66, including Dean Beman Grier Jones and Homero Blancas.

The huge group at 67 included Tom Shaw, George Archer and Gene Littler as 57 players—well over one-third of the field—broke par 70.

Some of the pre-tourney favorites for the $30,000 first prize had their troubles, however, and appeared in danger of missing the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. Lee Trevino had a 73, Tony Jacklin a 71 and Frank Beard and U.S. Open champion Orville Moody matched par 70.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Billy Casper are not competing.

Hill, a 33-year-od veteran of 12 years on the pro tour who came into his own last year, had seven birdies, an eagle and two bogeys "when my favorite club, a six iron, spit at me a couple of times." That was on the 12th and third when he bogeyed from traps.

Hill, a product of the caddy ranks who has drawn his share of suspensions and fines for his overly candid pronouncements, started his assault on par on the 13th hole of the short, 6,455-yard, par-70 Colonial Country Club course.

He reached the par five in two and two-putted from 18 feet, then ran in birdie putts of 25 and 18 feet on the next two holes, and canned a 12-foot eagle putt after two big hits on the par five 16th. He put a six iron five feet from the flag on the 17th and missed another eagle from four feet on the next.

Dave also birdied the fourth and fifth, rifling an iron a foot from the hole on the fourth and dropping an 18-footer on the fifth.

He parred in, then stopped to sign an autograph for a young fan who offered a program.

"I'll put it right up at the top here," Hill said, "'cause that's where I'm going to finish."

Iowa Looking For Athletic Director

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Three men—one at the University of Iowa, another in Iowa City and a third at the University of Michigan—have been interviewed in connection with Iowa's search for a new athletic director, it was disclosed Thursday night.

An informed source said the leading candidate for the job so far seems to be Chalmers "Bump" Elliott, associate athletic director at Michigan and a Hawkeye assistant football coach who gained great popularity in the state from 1952 to 1956.

The university's Board in Control of Athletics has also reportedly talked with Iowa athletic business manager Francis "Bus" Graham, now acting athletic director, and former Hawkeye football great Jerry Hilgenberg, now an Iowa City real estate man.

Vacant June 30

The post will be vacant June 30 after the resignation last week of Forest Evashevski, who was elevated from football coach to athletic director in 1960 after building Iowa's football program into national prominence, including the production of two Rose Bowl champions.

Evashevski's resignation coincided with the athletic board's announcement that it had relieved football coach Ray Nagel of his duties, also effective June 30, in the culmination of a four-month feud between the two men.

Nagel was subsequently reinstated last Friday for the duration of his five-year contract, which expires Dec. 31.

Elliott Interview

Elliott, head football coach at Michigan for a decade and an All—American halfback there in his undergraduate days, met Tuesday with the athletic board.

Iowa athletic officials declined to discuss what went on at the meeting, as did Elliott, reached early Friday at his home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I visited with the athletic authorities and that was it," Elliott told The Associated Press.

Asked if he had been offered the athletic director's job, Elliott replied: "No."

"I certainly would consider the job," he said, adding, "I can't say because nothing has been done."

Evashevski himself recommended Elliott for appointment to a dual post as head football coach and athletic director before Nagel was reinstated to his coaching duties.

The departing athletic director said he thought Elliott, who was under Evashevski as head coach while he was at Iowa, would be just the man to bring the Hawkeyes back to national football prominence.

Graham, who has been business manager of athletics for 18 years, met with the board Wednesday afternoon. Hilgenberg, who served eight years as an Iowa assistant football coach, talked with officials Wednesday night. Both expressed interest in the job.

V.F.W. Pacing Little League

Tabbed by early season prognosticators the League's dark horse, VFW looked more like a winner as they moved into the back stretch ahead of the pack by virtue of their 4 to 2 victory over Kiwanis.

Meanwhile defending champion Rotary fell to strange surroundings as they lost their third straight when ten year old rookie Dennis Leveille dropped a 4 to 3 decision to the Eagles. Off to a shaky start Leveille gave up 3 runs in the first inning, a lead the Eagles veteran Paul Bohn made stand up as he stymied Rotary on three hits.

Biggest surprise of the week occurred Monday when the Bankers overcame a 9 to 1 deficit in the final inning to beat the Lions 10 to 9. However, Thursday night, when their 4 to 0 lead over Exchange began to disintegrate in the final inning, the Lions called on their wheelhorse, Kevin Cutler. He responded by striking out the side to preserve the Lions 4 to 2 lead.

Ranger Goalie In Critical Condition

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Sawchuk, 40-year-old goalie for the New York Rangers, was listed in critical condition and in the intensive care unit at Long Beach (L.I.) Memorial Hospital Thursday.

Sawchuk had been admitted to the hospital April 29 for removal of his gall bladder "after he said he was horseplaying on his lawn with Ron Stewart," according to a Long Beach police official.

Stewart is a 37-year-old Ranger forward and Sawchuk's roommate. The New York Times had quoted a source close to the Rangers as saying the pair had returned home from a bar, argued and were wrestling when the injury occurred.

Sawchuk was taken off the critical list a week ago and hospital spokesmen when contacted Thursday declined to say when he had been put back on it.

Softball Game

The Jolly Roger Bar and the Escanaba Independants will play their rematch of Monday's game tonight at 6:30 at Memorial Field.

Indy '500' Drivers Ready To Roll On Memorial Day

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The fastest field in more than half a century of auto racing at Indianapolis is awaiting the starter's flag Saturday in the 54th 500-mile race at the Indy Speedway.

The 33 cars that qualified in two weekend of trials averaged 165.375 miles an hour. Al Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., leads the pack with a 170.221 average for his four qualifying turns around the 2 ½-mile oval. For this Unser, brother of the 1968 race winner, earned the pole position and the favorite's tag along with three-time Indianapolis winner A. J. Foyt Jr., Houston, Tex. Foyt qualified No. 3.

Besides Bobby Unser, also of Albuquerque, and Foyt, one other former winner is in this year's field — Mario Andretti, the 1969 champ from Nazareth, Pa.

Andretti holds the record for running the race, 156.867 miles an hour.

A purse expected to top $825,000 will be divided Sunday night at the traditional victory dinner. Last year drivers and owners split $802,127 with Andretti and Anthony Granatelli earning $206,727.

Joining Al Unser in the first row are Foyt and Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex. The 32-year-old Rutherford came from nowhere to capture the slot between Unser and Foyt at the head of the 11 rows of racing machines. His average was 170.213, just a shade behind the pole sitter.

The slowest car in the field, driven by Jim McElreath, qualified with a 166.821 average.

The Speedway has recorded 58 deaths in the years of the 500 and also counting the pre-500 races of 1909-10. The toll of 34 drivers, 14 mechanics, 9 spectators and one Speedway guard arose from accidents during the race itself as well as in the month of preliminaries and practice preceeding the Memorial Day classic. There has been no fatal accident this year. New Zealander Denis Hulme was prevented from competing after suffering burns on his hands in an accident during practice.

Twins' Tiant Makes Trade Look Like Steal Of Year

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins acquired Luis Tiant for his pitching ability but the hard-throwing Mexican has shone at bat too, and is making the trade with the Cleveland Indians look like the steal of the year.

The 29-year-old unbeaten right-hander rolled to his sixth consecutive victory Thursday and contributed three hits and three runs batted in as the Twins socked Milwaukee 11-2.

In the only other American League contest, Oakland blanked California 2-0.

In National League play, Philadelphia edged Montreal 5-3 in 11 innings, San Francisco nipped Los Angeles 4-3, St. Louis rocked the New York Mets 9-2 and Chicago beat Pittsburgh 8-7.

Leads Attack

Tiant, who raised his average to .434, led Minnesota's 16-hit attack against five Brewers pitchers, stroking a run-scoring single in Minnesota's four-run second and a two-run single in a four-run fourth as the Twins raced to an 11-0 edge.

Tiant, however, was forced to leave in the eighth inning with a tight shoulder muscle after giving the Brewers eight hits and both their runs.

"On my last pitch I felt something pop and I didn't want to pitch any more," Tiant said. "I don't think it will bother me though. But I didn't want to have it hurt like last year."

Last year was a nightmare for the Mexico City native, who pitched ineffectively and wound up losing 20 games while winning only nine. His earned run average ballooned to 2.84 from his 1968 league-leading mark of 1.60 when he had a 21-9 record.

During the winter, Tiant along with right-hander Stan Williams were sent to the Twins for Dean Chance, Bob Miller, Graig Nettles and Ted Uhlaender.

Trade Great

The trade has been a great one for Minnesota to this point.

Tiant has a 6-0 mark and 3.11 ERA while Williams, in 19 relief appearances, is also unbeaten at 4-0.

On the Cleveland side side of the ledger, Chance sidelined most of last year by injuries while compiling a 5-4 record, is only 1-5 while Miller, a reliver, is 1-2.

Nettles an infielder-outfielder, is hitting only .145 with centerfielder Uhlaender at .267.

And those statistics help to back up the standings of each club.

The Twins, leaders in the West Division of the AL, have a 29-12 record and are 2½ games in front of California, Cleveland, at 14-26 is last in the East, 15½ in back of Baltimore's front-runners.

Tony LaRussa, a second baseman recalled from the minors a week ago, rapped a two-run double in the seventh inning for the A's giving Chuck Dobson all the support he needed.

Dobson, 5-4, struck out three Angels and did't walk a batter as he limited California to six singles.

4th Straight

Tony Taylor cracked a pair of solo homers but it was Terry Harmon's sacirfice fly in the 11th inning that gave the Phils their fourth straight victory and sent the skidding Expos to their fifth loss in a row.

Taylor's first homer tied the contest at 3-3 in the seventh and he followed Larry Bowa's triple and pinch hitter Harmon's fly ball with his second roundtripper.

"I knew they were both gone when I hit them," said Taylor, who had only hit two homers in one game once before. "I did it in 1958 with the Chicago Cubs," said Taylor, who has three homers for the season.

The expos scored all three runs in the second inning off Phils' starter Grant Jackson. Ron Stone had a two-run double for Philadelphia in the sixth.

Dick Dietz cracked a homer in the bottom of the ninth, giving the Giants their victory after the Dodgers had tied it in the top of the inning at 3-3 on Jim Lefebvre's run-scoring single.

3 Homers

Bobby Bonds and Ken Henderson also cracked homers for the Giants and winner Gaylord Perry, 7-5. Reliver Jim Brewer, who served up Dietz' 10th circuit of the season, was the loser.

Joe Hague drove in five runs with a homer and three singles behind Bob Gibson's strong 11-strikeout pitching in the Cards' triumph. Rich Allen contributed three hits to the winners' attack, who knocked out Mets' starter and loser Jim McAndrew in a four-run first inning.

Jim Hickman's two-run homer, his second blast of the game, gave the Cubs their victory.

Hickman's first two-run shot had tied the contest at 6-6 but the Pirates went in front 7-6 in the eighth on Matty Alou's RBI single before Hickman stroked his 10th homer of the year, his fifth in six games.

Cleo James had a solo belt for Chicago while Bob Robertson homered for the Pirates.

Dave Hill Leading Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, TENN. (AP) — I'm usually a slow starter here," Dave Hill said, then flashed that impish grin.

"But this time, everybody's got problems, cause ol' Davy got off and running."

And that he did, blasting out a remarkable 63, built on a fantastic string of six holes where he cut seven strokes off par for the first-round lead in the $150,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis open golf tournament.

"It's the greens," the slim, darly handsome Hill said thursday. "I just putt these greens so good."

But he missed a couple that could have put him in with a 61—matching the lowest score of the year on the pro tour.

One was for an eagle from four feet on the 18th hole—he played the back nine first. The other was for a birdie from six feet on the second "and I must have been afraid I was going to shoot a good score," said Hill, who has won this event twice in the last three years.

He held a one-stroke lead over Dick Crawford, who said he had been in a slump since early in March. Crawford had a 64 with five birdies, an eagle and a single bogey.

"My best round since the Citrus (in Orlando, Fla. has been a 72." Crawford said, "and I've had a lot of 74s. But I finally managed to cut across on'em." Veteran Jack McGowan, rookie Handy Wolff and young Hale Irvin followed at 65 with seven more at 66, including Dean Beman Grier Jones and Homero Blancas.

The huge group at 67 included Tom Shaw, George Archer and Gene Littler as 57 players—well over one-third of the field—broke par 70.

Some of the pre-tourney favorites for the $30,000 first prize had their troubles, however, and appeared in danger of missing the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. Lee Trevino had a 73, Tony Jacklin a 71 and Frank Beard and U.S. Open champion Orville Moody matched par 70.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Billy Casper are not competing.

Hill, a 33-year-od veteran of 12 years on the pro tour who came into his own last year, had seven birdies, an eagle and two bogeys "when my favorite club, a six iron, spit at me a couple of times." That was on the 12th and third when he bogeyed from traps.

Hill, a product of the caddy ranks who has drawn his share of suspensions and fines for his overly candid pronouncements, started his assault on par on the 13th hole of the short, 6,455-yard, par-70 Colonial Country Club course.

He reached the par five in two and two-putted from 18 feet, then ran in birdie putts of 25 and 18 feet on the next two holes, and canned a 12-foot eagle putt after two big hits on the par five 16th. He put a six iron five feet from the flag on the 17th and missed another eagle from four feet on the next.

Dave also birdied the fourth and fifth, rifling an iron a foot from the hole on the fourth and dropping an 18-footer on the fifth.

He parred in, then stopped to sign an autograph for a young fan who offered a program.

"I'll put it right up at the top here," Hill said, " 'cause that's where I'm going to finish."

Iowa Looking For Athletic Director

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Three men—one at the University of Iowa, another in Iowa City and a third at the University of Michigan—have been interviewed in connection with Iowa's search for a new athletic director, it was disclosed Thursday night.

An informed source said the leading candidate for the job so far seems to be Chalmers "Bump" Elliott, associate athletic director at Michigan and a Hawkeye assistant football coach who gained great popularity in the state from 1952 to 1956.

The university's Board in Control of Athletics has also reportedly talked with Iowa athletic business manager Francis "Bus" Graham, now acting athletic director, and former Hawkeye football great Jerry Hilgenberg, now an Iowa City real estate man.

Vacant June 30

The post will be vacant June 30 after the resignation last week of Forest Evashevski, who was elevated from football coach to athletic director in 1960 after building Iowa's football program into national prominence, including the production of two Rose Bowl champions.

Evashevski's resignation coincided with the athletic board's announcement that it had relieved football coach Ray Nagel of his duties, also effective June 30, in the culmination of a four-month feud between the two men.

Nagel was subsequently reinstated last Friday for the duration of his five-year contract, which expires Dec. 31.

Elliott Interview

Elliott, head football coach at Michigan for a decade and an All—American halfback there in his undergraduate days, met Tuesday with the athletic board.

Iowa athletic officials declined to discuss what went on at the meeting, as did Elliott, reached early Friday at his home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I visited with the athletic authorities and that was it," Elliott told The Associated Press.

Asked if he had been offered the athletic director's job, Elliott replied: "No."

"I certainly would consider the job," he said, adding, "I can't say because nothing has been done."

Evashevski himself recommended Elliott for appointment to a dual post as head football coach and athletic director before Nagel was reinstated to his coaching duties.

The departing athletic director said he thought Elliott, who was under Evashevski as head coach while he was at Iowa, would be just the man to bring the Hawkeyes back to national football prominence.

Graham, who has been business manager of athletics for 18 years, met with the board Wednesday afternoon. Hilgenberg, who served eight years as an Iowa assistant football coach, talked with officials Wednesday night. Both expressed interest in the job.

V.F.W. Pacing Little League

Tabbed by early season prognosticators the League's dark horse, VFW looked more like a winner as they moved into the back stretch ahead of the pack by virtue of their 4 to 2 victory over Kiwanis.

Meanwhile defending champion Rotary fell to strange surroundings as they lost their third straight when ten year old rookie Dennis Leveille dropped a 4 to 3 decision to the Eagles. Off to a shaky start Leveille gave up 3 runs in the first inning, a lead the Eagles veteran Paul Bohn made stand up as he stymied Rotary on three hits.

Biggest surprise of the week occurred Monday when the Bankers overcame a 9 to 1 deficit in the final inning to beat the Lions 10 to 9. However, Thursday night, when their 4 to 0 lead over Exchange began to disintegrate in the final inning, the Lions called on their wheelhorse, Kevin Cutler. He responded by striking out the side to preserve the Lions 4 to 2 lead.

Ranger Goalie In Critical Condition

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Sawchuk, 40-year-old goalie for the New York Rangers, was listed in critical condition and in the intensive care unit at Long Beach (L.I.) Memorial Hospital Thursday.

Sawchuk had been admitted to the hospital April 29 for removal of his gall bladder "after he said he was horseplaying on his lawn with Ron Stewart," according to a Long Beach police official.

Stewart is a 37-year-old Ranger forward and Sawchuk's roommate. The New York Times had quoted a source close to the Rangers as saying the pair had returned home from a bar, argued and were wrestling when the injury occurred.

Sawchuk was taken off the critical list a week ago and hospital spokesmen when contacted Thursday declined to say when he had been put back on it.

Young Awarded McGinn Trophy

Dan Young

Dan Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Young, 517 S. 17th St., was named the 16th recipient of the Denis McGinn Trophy at the Holy Name High School assembly Friday morning.

The award is given to an outstanding athlete, who is also a good scholar, in recognition of his service to Holy Name High School.

Denis McGinn set up the award back before Holy Name existed. It was established for St. Joseph High School and then moved to Holy Name when the school began operating. McGinn was a lawyer and was greatly interested in athletics. He showed this by his refereeing, coaching, attendance at games and by encouraging youngsters to be athletes.

Since his death, his wife has continued the award and her children have vowed that the award will continue as long as there is a Holy Name.

Head coaches of the various sports, the athletic director and the principal select the winner, considering the leadership and contributions made to his fellow students both on the field and in the school.

Young earned awards for four years of participation in football, basketball and track while in high school. He was named to the All-U. P. football team in 1969 as an offensive back and to the All U. P. Class B second team in basketball. Young recently received a football scholarship to attend Northern Michigan University.

Girls Sickened By LSD:

Arrests Promised By Officers Soon

"I hope that by the middle or end of next week we will be in a position to issue warrants," Delta County Prosecutor John Beauchamp said today in connection with an investigation into the discovery of narcotics in Escanaba.

A considerable quantity of LSD in pellets was found by two little girls while they were playing near their home on the city's west side the afternoon of May 23.

The sisters, 4 and 6 years old, tasted the pellets and suffered the hallucinations that accompany the use of the drug. They were in St. Francis Hospital under treatment for two days.

Prosecutor Beauchamp, Police Chief Richard Frederick and Police Detective John Robitaille today revealed as much of the information about the case as is possible at this point in their investigation.

News media of the community, although informed of the incident in which the two young girls were sickened by the narcotic ,cooperated by not publishing the story until authorities deemed it advisable.

"The girls are home now and doing fine," said Detective Robitaille.

They had suffered the usual symptoms of LSD use — irrational actions and hallucinations — and they had been rushed to the hospital for treatment. They were not unconscious.

Since the accidental discovery of the narcotic by the children seven days ago, authorities have been busy with an investigation they are confident will lead to an arrest or arrests.

"The pellets were identified as LSD by the Division of Crime Detection in Lansing," the prosecutor reported. "However, we have no final report on the analysis, as yet."

Meanwhile, police are continuing their investigation.

"We are not yet at a point where an arrest can be made," said Beauchamp. "Officers have suspects, but there may be others involved and we want to have our case complete before we make arrests," he added.

Paper Slump Idles 50 Men

Escanaba Paper Co. will shut down its No. 1 paper machine on Saturday, idling a total of approximately 50 workers.

"We hope to start it up again later in the summer," said Robert P. Arvold, president and general manager of the Publishing Papers Division of Mead Corp.

Arvold said that decreased buying of paper by the nation's major magazines, reflecting a cutback in advertising by national advertisers, necessitated the shutdown.

The temporary suspension of operations on the No. 1 machine results from a business decline which has caused some other area wood industries to cut their 7-day work week to 5 days.

The machine shutdown comes in advance of a two-week vacation shutdown of the entire operations of the Escanaba Paper Co. on the weeks of June 27 and July 6.

While operations are being reduced in the paper mill to bring its production into line with market needs, the build-up of the work force by the Rust Engineering Co. on the kraft pulp mill construction at the Escanaba Paper Co. continues. The total employed there was 75 this week.

Market Declines; Blue Chips Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved fractionally lower this morning in active trading.

Youth Held In Jail Cuts Arm

Thomas K. Palmquist, 17, Escanaba, held in the Delta County jail for breaking and entering, punctured a vein in his arm with a sharpened paper clip last night and today is in St. Francis Hospital under police guard.

The incident occurred about 7:10 p.m. Thursday. A sheriff's deputy bandaged Palmquist's arm and summoned police and the ambulance.

Palmquist's difficulties with the law began when he was a juvenile (under the age of 17) and included seven escapes from Michigan Boys Vocational School.

On Thursday officers arrested Palmquist in connection with their investigation of the breaking and entering of Riverside Auto Sales, where $468 in cash and currency is missing. Entry was made through a window. Officers recovered $300.

Also entered were the office of the U.P. State Fair and the Sportscraft shop, and a burglary attempt at the Rodman Lumber Co. failed.

In District Court Palmquist waived examination and was remanded to jail to appear in Circuit Court.

At the time of his arrest he was at liberty on bond awaiting trial in Circuit Court on a grand larceny charge in connection with the alleged theft of $3,923 from Mrs. Patricia Slagstad, 529 S. 12th St. None of the money missing from the Slagstad home was recovered, said police.

Parochiaid Measure Nears Final Stages

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Parochiaid will pour $22 million into the nonpublic schools of Michigan in full measure this fall after half a century of angry debate and court tests.

It will be the state's first no-strings-attached grant to the parochial schools which educate 300,000 students.

The money is locked into the stalled $1.22 billion school aid bill in the Senate and will go into effect if public K-12 education gets any raise at all.

Compromise Seen

Legislative leaders made these predictions as they sidestepped the latest legal wrangle and moved toward a House - Senate compromise at approximately $970 million.

"I think we'll wrap it all up this week (June 1-6)," said House Speaker William A. Ryan.

He made it clear the only major issue left is the number of dollars, despite threatened lawsuits and pressure from public schoolmen to abandon any route that includes parochiaid.

The legislative position was firmed up after Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley ruled that the Citizens Against Parochiaid (CAP) petitions to put the issue on the November ballot were defective.

220,000 Signatures

He said the petitions, on which the CAP claimed it had collected 220,000 signatures, was not sufficiently understandable to the voter since it failed to clearly show it was amending Article III, Section 2 of the 1963 state constitution which reads:

"The legislature shall maintain and support a system of free public elementary and secondary schools as defined by law. Every school district shall provide for the education of its pupils without discrimination as to religion, creed, race, color or national origin."

Circulators On Job

Kelley said the petition language would place a restriction on legislative appropriations without removing religion as a discriminatory element in the section."

Dr. David Evans, a Methodist clergyman and executive director of CAP, said circulators would continue collecting signatures toward the required 346,000 despite Kelley's ruling.

But even the clearance on the petition language the CAP claimed it got from the secretary of state's elections division was tainted.

Elections Director Bernard Apol, his assistant James Chapman — both of whom were consulted on the form of the petition — and Deputy Secretary of State William Hettiger, who said it was sound, all backed off after Kelley's ruling.

"Kelley is our lawyer," said one spokesman.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon S. Cohen said initiatory petitions are routinely cleared by the attorney general's office.

Integrity Not Questioned

"I bear full responsibility for error as well as success,' 'said Mrs. Harriet Phillips, president of CAP, "I don't question his (Kelley's) integrity, but I do question his opinion.

"He is not free from personal biases any more than I am."

Kelley is a Catholic and his opinion was issued at the request of Rep. Stanley M. Powell (R-Ionia), a Baptist.

Mrs. Phillips added:

"Either the attorney general is taking over the duties of the secretary of state or we are the victims of the battle between state officials.

"As far as I'm concerned, our petition drive is a legal one."

Time Running Out

Realistically, she and Erwin Ellmann, a Detroit lawyer representing CAP, acknowledged that there is too little time to re-write the petition, circulate it and get enough signatures before the July 6 deadline.

"I would honestly say it would be impossible . . ." said Mrs. Phillips.

And Mrs. Phillips, once vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee and in 1962 manager of former Gov. John B. Swainson's unsuccessful re-election bid, said she would work against Kelley's nomination in the state convention.

National Issue

Despite CAP threats to go to the State Court of Appeals as a last resort, Ryan said the only three major legal decisions on parochiaid have been affirmative, and would be precedents for any new try to ban public aid to nonpublic schools.

Ryan said parochiaid has been a national issue since the 1800s when Catholic rectories were burned in Philadelphia and in Michigan since the 1920s.

"It was to the prudential advantage of Catholics to remain silent during that period on this issue," he said.

Two Michigan-wide votes on proposals forcing all parochial school children to attend public schools were defeated in the 1920s by 2 to 1 margins.

Landmark Decision

Oregon issued a landmark decision in the same era on parochiaid, banning it, but it was overturned by the United States Supreme Court. The issue was the right of free choice by parents to choose the kind of school their children attend.

The U. S. court held:

"The fundamental theory of liberty under which all governments in this union repose excludes any general power of the state to standardize its children by forcing them to accept instruction from public teachers only.

"The child is not the mere creature of the state. Those who nurture him and direct his destiny have the right, coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations."

Ryan points to the GI Bill of Rights after World War II as a parochiaid measure. He said former President Roosevelt was under pressure to restrict educational grants to public colleges and universities.

Special Programs Noted

In Michigan, there have been other evidences. He pointed to the auxiliary services act of 1965 which gave parochial schools financial help "in areas where students had special problems."

These included special programs for the physically or mentally handicapped, remedial reading, crossing guards and the visiting teacher program (social work).

Many federal programs are tied to the parochiaid principle, he said, and Michigan would lose $30 million a year if it were tossed out. In any case, Ryan said the whole thing is moot:

"Their drive (CAP's) wasn't going that well," he said. "At the rate they were going, it is doubtful they would have enough valid signatures anyway by the deadline.

"But the real problem is that if it had gone on the ballot and had been passed, it would have meant that all nonpublic schools would close."

CAP Drive Fails

Arrayed against the COP drive were Gov. Milliken, the House and Senate votes approving of parochiaid and the newly-powerful Michigan Catholic Conference, headquartered in Lansing.

Milliken said he expected the House and Senate to agree on some compromise figure for school aid and leave the parochiaid section untouched.

"I would anticipate it will remain," he said.

Earlier, the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform, chaired by Milliken, backed parochiaid up to 2 per cent of the total public school budget. The report said:

"We believe that sound public policy requires that the people of Michigan recognize a measure of responsibility for providing all children with an education on secular subjects.

"Our abiding concern is for children, wherever situated. Our recommendations can be no less comprehensive . . ."

Arrests Promised By Officers Soon

"I hope that by the middle or end of next week we will be in a position to issue warrants," Delta County Prosecutor John Beauchamp said today in connection with an investigation into the discovery of narcotics in Escanaba.

A considerable quantity of LSD in pellets was found by two little girls while they were playing near their home on the city's west side the afternoon of May 23.

The sisters, 4 and 6 years old, tasted the pellets and suffered the hallucinations that accompany the use of the drug. They were in St. Francis Hospital under treatment for two days.

Prosecutor Beauchamp, Police Chief Richard Frederick and Police Detective John Robitaille today revealed as much of the information about the case as is possible at this point in their investigation.

News media of the community, although informed of the incident in which the two young girls were sickened by the narcotic ,cooperated by not publishing the story until authorities deemed it advisable.

"The girls are home now and doing fine," said Detective Robitaille.

They had suffered the usual symptoms of LSD use — irrational actions and hallucinations — and they had been rushed to the hospital for treatment. They were not unconscious.

Since the accidental discovery of the narcotic by the children seven days ago, authorities have been busy with an investigation they are confident will lead to an arrest or arrests.

"The pellets were identified as LSD by the Division of Crime Detection in Lansing," the prosecutor reported. "However, we have no final report on the analysis, as yet."

Meanwhile, police are continuing their investigation.

"We are not yet at a point where an arrest can be made," said Beauchamp. "Officers have suspects, but there may be others involved and we want to have our case complete before we make arrests," he added.

Paper Slump Idles 50 Men

Escanaba Paper Co. will shut down its No. 1 paper machine on Saturday, idling a total of approximately 50 workers.

"We hope to start it up again later in the summer," said Robert P. Arvold, president and general manager of the Publishing Papers Division of Mead Corp.

Arvold said that decreased buying of paper by the nation's major magazines, reflecting a cutback in advertising by national advertisers, necessitated the shutdown.

The temporary suspension of operations on the No. 1 machine results from a business decline which has caused some other area wood industries to cut their 7-day work week to 5 days.

The machine shutdown comes in advance of a two-week vacation shutdown of the entire operations of the Escanaba Paper Co. on the weeks of June 27 and July 6.

While operations are being reduced in the paper mill to bring its production into line with market needs, the build-up of the work force by the Rust Engineering Co. on the kraft pulp mill construction at the Escanaba Paper Co. continues. The total employed there was 75 this week.

Market Declines; Blue Chips Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved fractionally lower this morning in active trading.

Analysts attributed the decline to profit taking after a two-day market rise that propelled the Dow Jones average up over 50 points. Blue chips were generally lower.

At 10:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 0.89 to 683.26, and the tape was running one minute late.

Advances led declines by 2 to 1.

Big Board prices included Texaco, up 3/8 to 25 7/8; General Electric, off 5/8 to 63 1/4; Sperry Rand, up 1 to 27 3/4; IBM, up 1 to 268; and Litton, off 1/4 to 16 1/2.

Youth Held In Jail Cuts Arm

Thomas K. Palmquist, 17, Escanaba, held in the Delta County jail for breaking and entering, punctured a vein in his arm with a sharpened paper clip last night and today is in St. Francis Hospital under police guard.

The incident occurred about 7:10 p.m. Thursday. A sheriff's deputy bandaged Palmquist's arm and summoned police and the ambulance.

Palmquist's difficulties with the law began when he was a juvenile (under the age of 17) and included seven escapes from Michigan Boys Vocational School.

On Thursday officers arrested Palmquist in connection with their investigation of the breaking and entering of Riverside Auto Sales, where $468 in cash and currency is missing. Entry was made through a window. Officers recovered $300.

Also entered were the office of the U.P. State Fair and the Sportscraft shop, and a burglary attempt at the Rodman Lumber Co. failed.

In District Court Palmquist waived examination and was remanded to jail to appear in Circuit Court.

At the time of his arrest he was at liberty on bond awaiting trial in Circuit Court on a grand larceny charge in connection with the alleged theft of $3,923 from Mrs. Patricia Slagstad, 529 S. 12th St. None of the money missing from the Slagstad home was recovered, said police.

Briefly Told

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Parochiaid will pour $22 million into the nonpublic schools of Michigan in full measure this fall after half a century of angry debate and court tests.

It will be the state's first no-strings-attached grant to the parochial schools which educate 300,000 students.

The money is locked into the stalled $1.22 billion school aid bill in the Senate and will go into effect if public K-12 education gets any raise at all.

Compromise Seen

Legislative leaders made these predictions as they sidestepped the latest legal wrangle and moved toward a House - Senate compromise at approximately $970 million.

"I think we'll wrap it all up this week (June 1-6)," said House Speaker William A. Ryan.

He made it clear the only major issue left is the number of dollars, despite threatened lawsuits and pressure from public schoolmen to abandon any route that includes parochiaid.

The legislative position was firmed up after Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley ruled that the Citizens Against Parochiaid (CAP) petitions to put the issue on the November ballot were defective.

220,000 Signatures

He said the petitions, on which the CAP claimed it had collected 220,000 signatures, was not sufficiently understandable to the voter since it failed to clearly show it was amending Article III, Section 2 of the 1963 state constitution which reads:

"The legislature shall maintain and support a system of free public elementary and secondary schools as defined by law. Every school district shall provide for the education of its pupils without discrimination as to religion, creed, race, color or national origin."

Circulators On Job

Kelley said the petition language would place a restriction on legislative appropriations without removing religion as a discriminatory element in the section."

Dr. David Evans, a Methodist clergyman and executive director of CAP, said circulators would continue collecting signatures toward the required 346,000 despite Kelley's ruling.

But even the clearance on the petition language the CAP claimed it got from the secretary of state's elections division was tainted.

Elections Director Bernard Apol, his assistant James Chapman — both of whom were consulted on the form of the petition — and Deputy Secretary of State William Hettiger, who said it was sound, all backed off after Kelley's ruling.

"Kelley is our lawyer," said one spokesman.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon S. Cohen said initiatory petitions are routinely cleared by the attorney general's office.

Integrity Not Questioned

"I bear full responsibility for error as well as success,' 'said Mrs. Harriet Phillips, president of CAP, "I don't question his (Kelley's) integrity, but I do question his opinion.

"He is not free from personal biases any more than I am."

Kelley is a Catholic and his opinion was issued at the request of Rep. Stanley M. Powell (R-Ionia), a Baptist.

Mrs. Phillips added:

"Either the attorney general is taking over the duties of the secretary of state or we are the victims of the battle between state officials.

"As far as I'm concerned, our petition drive is a legal one."

Time Running Out

Realistically, she and Erwin Ellmann, a Detroit lawyer representing CAP, acknowledged that there is too little time to re-write the petition, circulate it and get enough signatures before the July 6 deadline.

"I would honestly say it would be impossible . . ." said Mrs. Phillips.

And Mrs. Phillips, once vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee and in 1962 manager of former Gov. John B. Swainson's unsuccessful re-election bid, said she would work against Kelley's nomination in the state convention.

National Issue

Despite CAP threats to go to the State Court of Appeals as a last resort, Ryan said the only three major legal decisions on parochiaid have been affirmative, and would be precedents for any new try to ban public aid to nonpublic schools.

Ryan said parochiaid has been a national issue since the 1800s when Catholic rectories were burned in Philadelphia and in Michigan since the 1920s.

"It was to the prudential advantage of Catholics to remain silent during that period on this issue," he said.

Two Michigan-wide votes on proposals forcing all parochial school children to attend public schools were defeated in the 1920s by 2 to 1 margins.

Landmark Decision

Oregon issued a landmark decision in the same era on parochiaid, banning it, but it was overturned by the United States Supreme Court. The issue was the right of free choice by parents to choose the kind of school their children attend.

The U. S. court held:

"The fundamental theory of liberty under which all governments in this union repose excludes any general power of the state to standardize its children by forcing them to accept instruction from public teachers only.

"The child is not the mere creature of the state. Those who nurture him and direct his destiny have the right, coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations."

Ryan points to the GI Bill of Rights after World War II as a parochiaid measure. He said former President Roosevelt was under pressure to restrict educational grants to public colleges and universities.

Special Programs Noted

In Michigan, there have been other evidences. He pointed to the auxiliary services act of 1965 which gave parochial schools financial help "in areas where students had special problems."

These included special programs for the physically or mentally handicapped, remedial reading, crossing guards and the visiting teacher program (social work).

Many federal programs are tied to the parochiaid principle, he said, and Michigan would lose $30 million a year if it were tossed out. In any case, Ryan said the whole thing is moot:

"Their drive (CAP's) wasn't going that well," he said. "At the rate they were going, it is doubtful they would have enough valid signatures anyway by the deadline.

"But the real problem is that if it had gone on the ballot and had been passed, it would have meant that all nonpublic schools would close."

CAP Drive Fails

Arrayed against the COP drive were Gov. Milliken, the House and Senate votes approving of parochiaid and the newly-powerful Michigan Catholic Conference, headquartered in Lansing.

Milliken said he expected the House and Senate to agree on some compromise figure for school aid and leave the parochiaid section untouched.

"I would anticipate it will remain," he said.

Earlier, the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform, chaired by Milliken, backed parochiaid up to 2 per cent of the total public school budget. The report said:

"We believe that sound public policy requires that the people of Michigan recognize a measure of responsibility for providing all children with an education on secular subjects.

"Our abiding concern is for children, wherever situated. Our recommendations can be no less comprehensive . . ."

DON'T BREAK UP YOUR- MEMORIAL DAY

Safety mindedness is something good operators of cars and boats have in common on holiday weekends, the City Police point out. When you're the skipper, keep your passengers safe.

City Police will operate special holiday patrols but remember that officers cannot be everywhere. You help them hold the line on accidents by policing your own driving.

Thirty-four persons were killed in Memorial weekend traffic accidents in Michigan in 1969, say the City Police. Crowded highways increase accident risk. Take it easy this holiday.

Don't be a zigzagger in your holiday driving, the City Police caution. Overtake and pass only when it is safe for yourself and others. Patience can help protect you too.

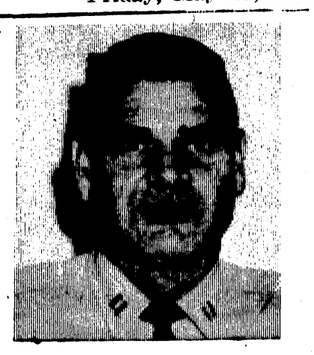
Thousands of motorists drive mile after mile on holiday trips without scratching a fender, the City Police point out. You can do it too! Care helps you get there safely.

Here are City Police suggestions for a safer Memorial weekend trip: Take rest stops to combat driving fatigue. Overtake and pass with care. Watch your speed. Avoid driving after drinking.

FOLLOW THESE SAFE DRIVING TIPS!

Police Chief Fredrick

Disobeying a traffic control signal or sign is a violation of the law whether or not you're caught, say the City Police. The signals and signs are for everybody's protection and benefit. They've been placed where they are to promote safety. Remember this: If you cheat on traffic controls, you're not hurting the signs or signals—you're endangering yourself and others. That's an important difference. Keep this distinction in mind during your holiday driving.



More cars traveling faster make space between them especially important in holiday traffic, the City Police stress. Allow yourself a margin of safety when driving. Don't tailgate.

Going to do any boating this Memorial weekend? Be sure you have proper life saving equipment aboard your craft, say the City Police. Practice safety afloat too.

Observe speed limits, drive with extra caution and be sure to watch for the other guy.

Before you hit the road, thoroughly check your car to make sure it's in safe and top running condition.

When driving this weekend or any other day of the year, make sure you don't have too much to drink. Drinking and driving just don't mix.

When passing another car make sure it's safe. Not just the other lane, but look in your rear view mirror and make sure to check for the guy coming out of the side road.

Turn To Spiritual Sources, Nixon Tells American Youth

Shares Platform With Evangelist Billy Graham

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Nixon has told a youth night crowd at a Billy Graham crusade that to realize their full potential, young Americans "must turn to those great spiritual sources that have made America the great country it is."

The crusade was held Thursday night at the University of Tennessee football stadium, and a university official estimated that 75,000 heard the President and the evangelist speak.

The President, appearing on a college campus for the first time in almost a year, was interrupted during his brief speech by a small band of hecklers chanting "peace now" and "one, two, three, four, we don't want Nixon's war." The crowd booed the demonstrators.

Police arrested nine persons on charges of disturbing a public worship, a misdemeanor.

Nixon said he and the students both want the same thing —peace.

"I can tell you my life is dedicated to the cause that I know you are dedicated to, all of you," the chief executive declared. "I want this nation to be at peace, and we shall be.

"A great majority of America's young people, as I do, do approve of dissent but they say they want the right to be heard and when they speak they want the right to be heard and when they speak they think other people should be silent so that they can be heard."

Not Lost Generation

The President continued: "It is a generation that is not the lost generation, as some Americans think. It isn't the beat generation. It isn't the beat-up generation. It can be and will become the great young generation."

Nixon conceded America isn't everything he would like it to be. Young people, he said, are concerned about such things as air and water pollution, poor housing, inferior education and alienation between the races.

"I know there are things about America that are wrong," he said. "But I also know that this is a country where a young person knows that there is a peaceful way he can change what he doesn't like about America and that is why it is a great country."

Graham made a plea for Americans to support Nixon in what he called "the world's loneliest and toughest job."

The evangelist invited Nixon and his wife to attend the crusade while on their way from Washington to their San Clemente, Calif., home for the Memorial Day weekend.

Nixon invited the University of Tennessee student government president, John Robert Smith of Kingsport, Tenn., for a brief talk on the presidential aircraft before leaving Knoxville for San Clemente.

Smith said he and the President discussed domestic and international issues and their main area of disagreement was the invasion of Cambodia. The student leader said he and Nixon agreed on the right of dissent and a dislike of violence.

Draft Director Hopes For End Of Hostilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft Director Curtis Tarr says he hopes the United States will withdraw quickly from the combat zones of Southeast Asia and begin the process of reunifying a nation divided over the war.

"My only hope is that we can withdraw quickly from that theater and go about the important process of bringing back together again a kind of fundamental unity without which our society cannot continue to advance or even stay where it is," he said.

Addressing the National Interreligious Service Board for Conscientious Objectors Thursday, Tarr referred repeatedly to the war in "Southeast Asia"—not just Vietnam.

The war, he added, has caused young people to lose respect for military service. Until it is restored, he said, President Nixon's goal of an all-volunteer army will not be possible.

Citing Nixon's goal to "reduce draft calls to zero," Tarr said, "I think it would be a magnificent thing for the armed forces to move in this direction so that they might regain some of the respect that has been lost in the Southeast Asian war."

Increased military pay and better management would make an all-volunteer army possible, he said.

"But I doubt that it will happen as long as we are trying to recruit from a population of young people who are subjected to a tremendous amount of peer group pressure against service in the armed forces based on our involvement in the war in Southeast Asia.

"I think when younger people come along who have not been associated with this dissent the chances for the volunteer force are quite good. But not until then."

Keep Pilots Out Of Mideast Air, Plea To Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will seek assurance from Moscow in talks next week that Soviet pilots in Egypt will not fly offensive missions against Israel.

Administration policy makers are not optimistic about the Washington discussions, but they agree the outcome will have an important bearing on President Nixon's forthcoming decision on an Israeli request for more warplanes.

Optimism Lacking

The lack of U.S. optimism stems from an apparent belief the Soviets have embarked on a tough and threatening course in the Middle East.

This in turn has brought on a similar display of determination by the administration in approaching the upcoming confrontation.

This became apparent Thursday when State Department press officer Carl Bartch said Russia's reply to a previous inquiry about its military involvement in Egypt was "both imprecise and unsatisfactory."

Meeting Scheduled

The meeting, between Asst. Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, is a follow up to a May 5 session in Moscow involving U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam and Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Vinogradov.

There also have been some four-power meetings at the United Nations on the Middle East. But, according to reports to Washington, the Soviets have shown a tough and uncooperative attitude, increasing the impression they are on a hard policy line.

Israel Seeks Planes

Israel has been pressing the United States to authorize the sale of 25 Phantom fighter-bombers and 100 Skyhawk fighters. Israel contends Russia's involvement in Egypt has turned the balance of power in the Arab's favor.

So far Nixon has refrained from supporting that conclusion, saying he is re-evaluating the Israeli request. The probing of Russian intentions, officials confirm, is part of that process.

Two American Officers Face Murder Charge

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Two officers face charges of attempted murder in connection with a shooting incident last year in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta.

The Army accused Capt. Vincent N. Hartmann, 34, of Scranton, Pa., and 1st Lt. Robert G. Lee Jr., 22, of Springfield, Mo., Thursday of "ordering members of their command to fire into buildings used for human habitation on or about June 15, 1969." They were then with the 9th Infantry Division.

The maximum penalty for attempted murder is 20 years.

Col. Charles C. Thebaud, commander of the Ft. Benning Army Infantry School Brigade, to which the men are now assigned, has ordered a grand jury type investigation to determine whether the two officers should be tried by court-martial.

The alleged shooting incident has been under investigation since last fall. Army sources acknowledged it was brought to the Army's attention by Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif.

Van Deerlin informed the Army that a captain in the Medical Corps told him of an infantry company being ordered to use a Vietnamese village for target practice.

Pentagon sources said two Vietnamese civilians, a woman and a boy, were wounded. The woman reportedly died later.

The shots allegedly were fired at two huts out of five in a small village.

Wing 'Fatigue' Blamed In Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fatal crash of a TAG Airlines plane into Lake Erie Jan. 28 was blamed on fatigue failure of a wing attachment in a report issued Thursday by the National Transportation Safety Board.

All nine persons on board were killed when the De Haviland Dove (DH-104) plunged through the ice of the lake shortly after take off from Cleveland.

Test Of Strength Due On War Fund Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Sherman Cooper says next week's vote to bar enforcement of his proposal to restrict U.S. activities in Cambodia will provide the first clear test of strength in the three-week Senate debate.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., would make the proposed fund cutoff inoperative as long as Americans are held prisoner by the North Vietnamese in Cambodia.

"If the members in here aren't impressed by that," Cooper, R-Ky., said in an interview, "they won't be impressed by the other amendments either."

The Senate agreed before it adjourned Thursday for the Memorial Day weekend to vote Wednesday on Dole's amendment.

But the key vote is likely to come on a bid by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to table—and thus kill—the Dole amendment. He said it "is quite clearly designed to destroy any effect whatsoever" of the Cooper-Church proposal barring funds after July 1 for "retaining" U.S. forces in Cambodia.

After Dole's amendment is acted on, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., says he will offer another amendment authorizing the President "to take such actions as may be necessary to protect the lives of United States forces in South Vietnam and to hasten their withdrawal."

Cooper said both amendments deal with the subject that he finds increasingly mentioned in his mail: the contention by administration forces that Cooper-Church proponents are refusing to permit protection of U.S. troops in the field.

"They know better," Cooper said, pointing out the proposal would permit "hot pursuit" of the enemy across the South Vietnam-Cambodia border and "sallies over the line to protect the troops."

Viet Marines Battling Reds

SAIGON (AP) — More than 1,000 South Vietnamese marines pushed toward the besieged Cambodian provincial capital of Prey Veng today to reinforce Cambodian troops battling North Vietnamese and Viet Cong for the second day.

A high-ranking Cambodian military source said Prey Veng, 30 miles east of Phnom Penh, was surrounded and apparently only the provincial headquarters in the center of the town was still firmly held by government forces.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman in Saigon reported the marines had entered Prey Veng, but Cambodian military sources said the marines were still pressing toward the town, supported by helicopters.

The marines pushed up the east bank of the Mekong River and ran into strong North Vietnamese forces near the town of Banam, about 10 miles southwest of Prey Veng.

The marines reported killing 19 North Vietnamese soldiers and capturing eight prisoners and 11 weapons. South Vietnamese losses were put at four killed and 21 wounded.

State Auditors Question Early Retirement Fund

LANSING (AP)—State auditors have questioned a payment by Michigan State University of $38,008, since revoked, to a life insurance company in 1968 to enable former MSU Vice President Philip J. May to begin drawing a pension at once.

The payment, in form of a check, was withdrawn in December, 1968 but the university, with Board of Trustees approval, substituted a $20,800 prepayment of premiums on anuities it had bought for May.

If May had been the beneficiary of the larger sum, he could have begun drawing $7,000 a year for four years earlier than MSU trustees finally decreed.

The transactions closed followed May's "retirement" in November, 1968, from his $37,000 a year post.

May was then 57 and under fire for conflict of interest.

Five Missing In Oil Platform Fire

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Aircraft and Coast Guard vessels searched through the night for five men missing in an offshore oil platform explosion and fire in which four were known dead and 15 injured.

A platform storage tank was ruptured, creating an oil slick and threatening contamination of Galveston Island beaches.

Coast Guard Lt. R. E. Harrington said an explosion of unknown origin Thursday on the platform, 12 miles from the coast, apparently set off the fire. Flames quickly spread to a repair boat floating underneath.

Of 17 known survivors out of 26 men in the boat or on the platform, only two escaped injury. Four of the injured were hospitalized.

"The oil spill really is comparatively small but it is going to come in near Galveston," Harrington said.

A spokesman for Gov. Preston Smith said the slick was more than three miles long and a quarter-to a half-mile wide.

Three oil wells about 3,500 feet away are linked with the platform but a spokesman for Chambers & Kennedy Oil Co. in Houston, owners of the structure, said the wells had been closed off when a repair job got under way two weeks ago.

"The only thing burning is some oil we had in five 1,000-barrel storage tanks and they were only about one-third full," the spokesman said.

Only one of the dead had been identified. He was Barnwell Armstrong of Lake Jackson.

Hospitalized were Roy Lellancon, 45, in critical condition, and Lawrence Theriot and Ronnie Breaux, in fair condition. All three are from Gueydan, La.

One body was brought ashore by a helicopter shortly after the late afternoon explosion and fire. Three bodies were found aboard the repair boat, the Carry Back, after it was towed to shallow water at the eastern end of Galveston Island.

Kennedy Phone Calls Numerous

BOSTON (AP) — Nearly 12 hours passed after the accident fatal to Mary Jo Kopechne last summer, telephone company records show, before the first call charged to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's credit card was made from Martha's Vineyard Island.

The call was made from Vineyard Haven, several miles away from Edgartown, at least an hour after Kennedy appeared at the police station in Edgartown to report that the accident had taken place some time after 11 the previous night.

The call was made to the house of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis in the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port. There is no record of who placed the call, nor of who answered it. It was placed at 10:56 a.m. and lasted 23 minutes and 54 seconds.

These details were made public Thursday by the Suffolk Superior Court, along with the record of four calls made July 18, before the accident, and 11 others made July 19, after the call to Hyannis Port.

The telephone company records were among 33 exhibits in the Edgartown inquest last January into the death of Miss Kopechne, a former secretary for Kennedy's late brother Robert.

It was almost four hours after the initial call to Hyannis Port that Saturday morning that a call was made to Kennedy's own summer home on Squaw Island, not far from the compound.

The call, at 2:49 p.m., lasted three minutes and 40 seconds. Two other calls, one of 10 minutes, the other of 5 minutes, 23 seconds, were made later in the afternoon to Squaw Island.

One call, at 3:49 p.m., was to Mary Carroll, who shared an apartment with Miss Kopechne in Washington.

Other calls were made to Kennedy's Washington office and to his associates or numbers where they might be reached.

'One More For Road' Could Mean Trouble If New Law Passes

LANSING (AP) — Drivers who try "one more for the road" or simply drink too much would face a stiffer sobriety test under a bill passed overwhelmingly by the Michigan Senate and sent to the House Thursday.

The measure, dubbed "one of the strongest drunk driving bills in the nation" by Judiciary Chairman Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, would lower the amount of blood alcohol that would prove grounds for presuming a motorist was "under the influence."

In other action Thursday, the Senate passed a compromise bill aimed at ironing out bitter differences over the proposed decentralization of the giant 300,000 student Detroit school district.

Postponed until next week was a previously slated vote on a proposed constitutional amendment that would set up a State Investigations Commission — heralded by top law enforcement officials as a weapon for fighting organized crime. Richardson said he and colleagues were preparing amendments for the bill and needed more time.

The drunken driving measure, sponsored by Sen. James Fleming, R-Jackson, was approved 30-0.

It would change current law, which specifies that 0.15 per cent alcohol in the blood is enough for authorities to presume a person is under the influence.

Under the bill, that level would drop one-third, to 0.10 per cent.

The measure further provides that a motorist's ability to drive would be presumed "impaired" if the blood alcohol content were 0.07 per cent 0.10 per cent: and it increases from 0.05 per cent to 0.07 per cent the amount of blood alcohol that would not be grounds to presume a motorist was operating under the influence.

Leftist Winner In Ceylon Voting

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Conservative Prime Minister Dduley Senanayake has resigned in the waye of a landslide election victory for Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike's leftist coalition.

Ceylon prepared for a sharp turn to the left in domestic and foreign policies as Mrs. Bandaranaike, in 1960 the world's first woman prime minister, awaited Governor General William Gopallawa's call to form a new cabinet.

Returns for 138 of the 151 elected seats in the House of Representatives gave Mrs. Bandaranaike's leftist coalition the largest parliamentary majority in Ceylon's 21 years of independence and her Freedom party a majority on its own without its two Communist allies.

House Okays Appropriation Measure, 63-20

LANSING (AP) — A $67 million appropriation for the Michigan Legislature, governor's office, judiciary and six major state departments won House approval Thursday.

Part of Gov. William G. Milliken's $1.74 billion budget for fiscal 1970-71, the bill was sent to the Senate on a 63-20 vote. It had been defeated 45-47 earlier in the week, principally because of disagreement over a controversial, $3.6 million sum for the State Civil Rights Commission.

Final action on a $352.9 million welfare budget, meanwhile, was delayed by continuing disagreement over funding levels. Rep. James Farnsworth, ranking Appropriations Committee Republican, succeeded in adding one amendment to cut $6.6 million from state Aid to Dependent Children funds. Michigan's share on the total $220 million program would be $119.6 million, with another $129.4 million paid by the federal government.

Farnsworth said his amendment would mean a welfare increase of only 8.9 per cent, following the state's cost of living index, rather than 16 per cent as Milliken has suggested.

Farnsworth sponsored another amendment approved by the House that declares the "intent of the Legislature" to set a ceiling of $30 a month on working expenses paid to ADC recipients who hold jobs.

New budget bills, meanwhile, continued to be reported out of the House Appropriations Committee: a $56.8 million grants and transfers bill containing $5 million in unrestricted aid to Detroit; a $29.6 million combined appropriation for the Natural Resources and Agriculture Departments.

The general government measure, as passed by the House, is $2 million less than Milliken recommended.

Children Unhurt As Runaway Auto 'Does Its Thing'

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A runaway auto with no driver traveled in reverse at an estimated 30 miles an hour on a school parking lot with five frightened children in the back seat recently.

It circled for about 15 minutes before a wrecker truck was backed into its path. The children, aged 4 to 6, got out uninjured.

Mrs. Floyd Conner had picked up the children to take them on a field trip as part of their Head Start Preschool training program. She told authorities the accelerator stuck as she started to drive off. She put the car in "park" and started to look under the hood to find the trouble.

For some unexplained reason the car lurched away in reverse.

Police Chief A.P. Evans, who estimated the car was traveling 30 miles an hour, said a tragedy was averted because the wheels were locked in a way that made the car go in circles.

Favor U.S. 2 Route

In the tug-of-war between forces seeking expansion and improvement of U. S. 2 and those who advocate a new route for an east-west superhighway across the Upper Peninsula, we detect a subtle shifting of support toward the U. S. 2 proposal.

Not too long ago the only people talking up the U. S. 2 route were the members of the U. S. 2 Improvement Council, headed by William Asselin of Norway.

The council has been a persistent voice in the Upper Peninsula, Wisconsin, Lansing and Washington, D. C., with only one avowed objective: Modernization of Michigan Highway U. S. 2.

The council is composed of four voting members from Dickinson, Delta, Gogebic, Iron, Mackinac, Menominee and Schoolcraft counties. Representing Dickinson are Ivar H. Anderson and Robert Anderson of Iron Mountain, Robert Paul of Norway and Robert Stevens of Kingsford. Iron representatives are Glen Evans and Lionel Sleeman of Iron River, Ed Forsman of Crystal Falls and Victor Shenich of Caspian. Asselin is chairman of the council and Oswald Vispi, Kingsford, serves as secretary-treasurer.

The council presents a strong case for concentrating on improvement of the present route across the U. P. and there have been increasing indications recently that lawmakers, highway officials and Upper Peninsula VIPs are getting the message.

Asselin and Comapny have hammered home their point repeatedly: Call a moratorium on super highway building until the Upper Peninsula gets the primary highway that is so badly needed. Expansion and improvement of U. S. 2 on its present route will best serve the people of the Upper Peninsula who need it and depend on it in so many ways — workers, truckers, commutors, businessmen who use the highway constantly in their daily employment and leisure.

Opponents have pointed out that a new east-west route across the central portion of the Upper Peninsula would be easier and cheaper to construct. Even if true that should not be a determining factor in the location of the highway. The industrial and economic lifeblood of the U. P. is tied to U. S. 2 through such cities as St. Ignace, Manistique, Gladstone, Escanaba, Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls, Iron River and Ironwood, and that's the route the highway should follow.

Congressman Philip Ruppe, in a recent letter to Upper Peninsula state legislators, expressed his concern about possible plans for an interstate highway through the U. P.:

"In these times of tight budgeting, there is not sufficient money at either the state or federal level to build a high-speed, limited-access interstate highway and simultaneously upgrade our existing network of roads and highways. Thus we have a clear choice of whether we wish to put 'our eggs in the interstate basket' or whether we wish to use all available resources to improve present roads and develop existing highways into non-interestate multi-lane highways that run through the population centers of the Upper Peninsula," Ruppe said. He listed U. S. 2, M 28 and U. S. 41 as key U. P. highways.

"I hope," Ruppe added, "that the action of the state legislature expressing intent to extend funds for an east-west interstate highway does not commit the State of Michigan to a position that in the long run may not be in the best interests of the Upper Peninsula."

In discussion of the U. P. highway situation recently, Highway Director Henrik Stafseth in Lansing said that highway planners settle on routes that will serve, rather than striking out into the communities of an area unpopulated or economically slumping areas.

That sounds like a strong recommendation for the present route of U. S. 2.

And that's where the Upper Peninsula action is — not in the boondocks of the central portion of the region where some people propose building a new east-west route.

Peninsula Potpourri

Discipline and desire play major roles in the determination of a championship team and also in success in life. That's the message Ray Nitschke, 12-year veteran middle linebacker and perennial all-pro of the Green Bay Packers brought to the Upper Peninsula bankers at their annual meeting in Marquette recently. Well over 300 persons from throughout the Upper Peninsula, along with some dignataries from downstate, atended the final session, held in the Holiday Inn, which served as headquarters for all business meetings of the two-day gathering.

Henry Heikkila relied on mining to raise his family for 19 years in the Iron River area and now the expansion of his poultry, egg and feed business has taken up the slack following the decline in the mining industry and Heikkila's consequent layoff. Heikkila's Feed and Poultry Farm development within the past year or so has earned him the Agricultural Development Award in the Iron County area.

An Ironwood pioneer reached the century mark recently. The Upper Peninsula's newest centenarian is Mrs. Erick Luoma, a native of Kortesjarvi, Finland, who moved to Ironwood at the age of 20. That western U. P. city was then a vigorous young community, she recalls. Only two of her eight children are still living, but she has 14 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and five great great-grandchildren. She now resides at the Sky View Nursing Home in Ironwood.

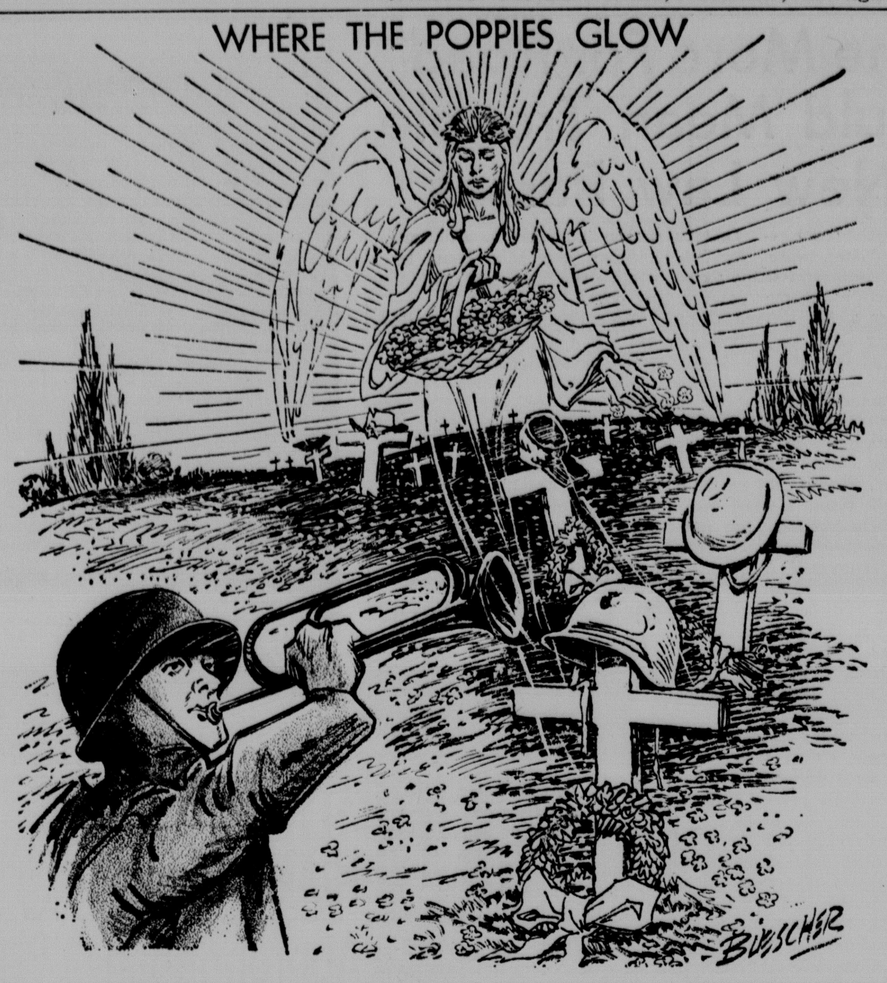
Frank Hoffman's famed "Mystery Ship" raised from the depths of Green Bay last July 29 — has finally found a permanent home. The 110-foot vessel will be located in the River Park tourist site at the rear of the M&M Plaza in Menominee. Hoffman will move the ancient craft from its drying berth at Marinette Marine Co. to the canal located between the road and boat ramp at the park site within two weeks. The ship is believed to be the Alvin Clark, a schooner which sank off Chambers Island June 29, 1864.



Arabian 'Socialism' Aided By Soviets

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The Soviet May Day slogans, as analyzed by Radio Liberty's Christion Duevel, contain a most ominous note. It used to be that the slogans spoke of moving "under the banner of Marxism-Leninism, under the leadership of the Communist Party, forward along the Leninist road to Communism." They also hailed Communism as "the bright future of mankind." But this last May 1 there was a switch. The new slogans pay tribute to the "militant Marxist-Leninist vanguard of the working class and of all toilers, the steadfast fighters against imperialism, for peace, democracy, national independence, and socialism."

To the casual reader, the substitution of the word "socialism" for "Communism" may seem like a distinction without a difference. But Mr. Duevel, who has been a most trustworthy analyst and prophet over the years, doesn't see it that way. He links the change to Moscow's interest in the Arab-Israeli conflict. Many of the Soviet Union's friends abroad, he says, do not share the goal of Communism, whether bright or not, with the Russians. In particular, the Arab world abhors Communism for local consumption; the Nasserites are all for "peace, democracy, national independence, and socialism," but they don't go beyond that. The socialism they espouse is something called Arab socialism," not the Marxist-Leninist variety.

Moscow's willingness to adapt its slogans to the Arabs comes at a time when Soviet adventurism in the Middle East is beginning to remind more than one commentator of Premier Khrushchev's move into Cuba with long-distance missiles. Last week, at a dinner meeting in Hartford, Conn., an organization called Ye Connecticut Gun Guild presented a rare old Kentucky muzzle-loading rifle to the Israeli government. The weapon, which might have commanded hundreds of dollars on the auction market, is destined for the Israel Defense Forces Museum in Tel Aviv.

The evening was predominantly one of good fellowship, but when Colonel Uri Yarom, the Israeli Assistant Air Force and Naval attache in Washington, started speaking there was a somber hush in the hall. The Israeli air force, he said, has had to put all of Egypt off limits save for a narrow strip along the Suez Canal. The Soviets have covered Alexandria, Cairo and the Aswan Dam region with the redoubtable SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles, which do not allow for surprise raids at any altitude, whether high or low. And the SAM-3s are manned by expert Soviet crews, along with the Soviet MIGs now standing on Egyptian airfields ready to take off against Israeli planes should they threaten the SAM-3 sites in any way.

This means that the Arab buildup against Israel can go unchecked. Israel has been deprived of the ability to make preventive warfare; the conditions that made swift victory in the six-day war possible in 1967 are no longer there.

The preparation for a combined Soviet-Egyptian operation against Israel may stop short of completion if the Soviet economic condition is a bad as one hears it is. Nevertheless, the Russian people are currently being "conditioned" for war in the Middle East. Pravda has taken to printing long background pieces about Arab-Soviet friendship. The "many Egyptian young men and women (who) are studying in the Soviet Union" are hailed. "In the current year," says Pravda, "six hundred young Arab specialists will complete higher education in the USSR, and at the same time one hundred and forty Arab scholars are to defend dissertations for avanced degrees in our country."

More and more it is appearing that President Nixon's failure to send those Phantom Jets to Israel was a prime boo-boo. The Soviets took Secretary of State William Rogers' peace offering as a sign of indecision and weakness. Instead of picking up the Nixon-Rogers olive branch, Moscow proceeded to raise the number of its military men in Egypt from some 3,000 to 10,000. Our error in trying to placate the Soviets in the Middle East is all the more astounding because Richard Nixon is a close student of Communist strategies, dating back to his connection with the Hiss-Chambers case. He has been criticized for not listening to Rogers on the Cambodian strategy. It would have been more to the point if he had never listened to Rogers at all.

Plans for a big Elks automobile parade from Escanaba and Gladstone to Chicago to participate in the Grand Lodge convention in the Windy City, have practically been completed by officers of Escanaba lodge. It is hoped to have at least 25 automobiles in the parade from Delta County to Chicago and assurances of nearly that number are already in the hands of the committee. Before leaving on the run for Chicago plans for a big demonstration in both Escanaba and Gladstone have been made.

1. One heart. Since the hearts and diamonds are of equal length, there is no good reason to depart from the usual procedure of first bidding the higher ranking of touching suits. Of course, from the standpoint of quality, the diamonds are markedly stronger, but it must be borne in mind that ultimate goal in most hands is to choose as trump the suit where there is the greatest numercial superiority, not necessarily the suit containing the most high cards.

The hand is playable in hearts if partner has any three of them. If you were to bid diamonds first and hearts secondarily, partner would be unlikely to raise you with three hearts, for he would think you had only a four-card suit.

2. One club. This follows the usual procedure of bidding the suit under the singleton with 4-4-4-1 hands. Experiment will prove that this method permits all three suits to be shown at the lowest possible level.

3. One club. Here, also, economy of bidding space is best served by opening with a club instead of a spade. Generally, the higher of two five- card suits is named first, but where the suits are spades and clubs, the clubs are usually bid firts. Later the spades are repeated in identify their five - card length.

4. One club. Hands containing 14 high-card points are mandatory opening bids, and the absence of a biddable suit is not a valid excuse for passing them. Since you cannot open one no-trump with only 14 points, and also cannot pass, you are obliged to manufacture a suit bid — in this case, clubs. Three - card suits should seldom be bid. They are generally named only as a last resort.

5. One diamond. Here you can't open with a notrump, despite the balanced distribution, because that would show 16, 17 or 18 points — and you have 19. You therefore open with the perfectly natural bid of a diamond.

It is certainly true your partner will not know that the diamond bid is based on as many as 19 points, but you intend to apprise him of this by jumping the bidding at the next opportunity. If partner passes one diamond, which would indicate he has less than 6 points, perhaps none, you may feel sure that there is no game in the hand.

Mail Order Houses Aren't Always Wrong

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet there isn't a person in your reading audience who thinks he hasn't been taken by a mail order house at one time or another. Maybe when they read this they will have a better understanding of why they did not get their gift or merchandise.

I work for a company that deals in mail order premiums. We handle hundreds or items. Some of our merchandise is free. Most of it for sale.

I wish the camplaining pubblic could spend one day at my station. Here is what they would see. Letters containing money but no coupon and no address. Unsealed envelopes which contain a coupon but no money. Coupons with money, but nobody can read the writing on the coupon. Envelopes which bear a semilegible name. Example: Mary Smith, Greenville. No clue as to wheher she lives in Greenville, Michigan, Ohio, Pensylvania, Mississippi, South Carolina or Kentucky.

You wouldn't believe the mail we forward to other companies — at our own expense. We figure we might as well send the letters to the right company as send it back to the customer.

For a country that has the highest literacy rate in the world, there are sure a lot of people who can't follow a simple set of directions. — Battle Creek.

Dear Battle: Your letter is not news to me. Every week I get dozens of stamped envelopes from readers requesting personal replies. They address their envelopes to Ann Landers instead of themselves!

You are wrong about the United States having the highest literacy rate in the world. We are the richest country in the world, but Japan is the most literate. Ashamed? So am I.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: You are going to be judge of this family argument. All parties concerned have agreed to accept your word as final.

Our 14-year-old son, Paul, left the dinner table last night to answer the telephone. We heard him say, "Yes, I'm going to the track meet but I'm eating my supper right now and then I've got a lot of homework to do. Good-by." He hung up and returned to the table, red-faced and silent.

His younger brother piped up, 'I'll bet that was Debbie. She sure calls up here a lot." Paul didn't answer but it was obvious that the guess was a good one. I then told Paul I thought he had been too abrupt with the girl and if he didn't want to take her to the track meet he could have been more gracious about it. The older boy said Paul had handled it right— because "girls who call up boys deserve to be clobbered." Furthermore, he said, "If you are half-way decent to a girl, she thinks she owns you and you can't get rid of her."

Am I right or are the boys right? — Mother Maggie

Dear Mother: Ten years ago I would have sided with you. Today I'm with the boys. Young girls have become so aggressive since you and I were young, Maggie, it's enough to scare a girl out of three year's growth.

If Paul wants to be abrupt with girls who chase after him, let him alone.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom." Send 50c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fulbright Says: Leave Indochina As Frenchmen Did

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said today the United States should get out of Indochina because the war in Vietnam and the military engagement in Cambodia is "creating a terrible disaster here at home."

"We should remove ourselves just as the French did," said Fulbright who was interviewed in Washington on the NBC-TV "Today" show. "The French left because they made a rational decision ... We should liquidate our engagement there and stop the war."

"People are wondering and apprehensive" about the war, Fulbright said, "the young, the businessmen, the investors ... the country is coming apart at the seams."

THIS INFLATION?

On the first of June, I and others of my trade will get a raise of 8%, which will amount to 6% in take-home pay. Since our last raise a year ago, I want to list a few necessary items that have gone up in price as follows:

Paper towels and toilet paper from 41c to 47c — 14%, good grade pork chops, from 99c to $1.19 a lb. — 20%. Canned milk in two years, from 3 cans for 49c to 57c or 8% a year. This is an average raise of over 14% on the above named items. Today in the local so-called super market, tomatoes were 49c per lb. and new potatoes were 10 lbs. for 1.09. Later on local farmers must dig their potatoes, grade and wash them, package them and place them on the store shelves where they are sold for just double the price paid the farmer.

I think it is high time for the government to try to find some of the real causes of inflation instead of blaming the consumer and the working man for having too much money to spend.

A few years ago our withholding tax was reduced for awhile. The experts said the extra take home pay would be a big boost to our economy. Now these same experts say we have too much to spend. What are we to believe?

Is not the government very much at fault for this inflation? How can we continue to spend countless billions of dollars of borrowed money on all the equipment and supplies needed to conduct a most unpopular war, plus several more billions to gather a few rocks on the moon without causing inflation?

One of President Nixon's closest advisors is chariman of the Federal Reserve Board. The average man on the street thinks the Federal Reserve Board is a government agency, instead of a gigantic system of private banks that they really are. Who gets the staggering amount of billions of dollars in interest that we have to pay on the national debt each year? At least the bankers are happy.

It might help some if the government weeded out a few thousand employes instead of increasing the pay-roll each year. Also, when Congress voted themselves a raise, it was 60% not 6%.

GOING WHERE?

Each day as I read the pros and cons concerning our youth in this nation I must come to the conclusion that somewhere, somehow, someone has failed, and though I hear and read many answers I find most falling short in two areas. Where is the wisdom of the old, and where is the respect of the younger. I think it is most important that a man examine himself, before he has the ability to examine others. Since I am over 30 I shall look at the generation on my side of the gap.

What kind of examples have we set for our young people? We hate those who are not the same color or religion we are, yet we confess to be Christians. We prepare for war; we say we must protect ourselves, so let's look at our protection.

If war should break out between the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. without doubt it would involve the whole world. Out of the three billion six hundred million people on this planet half could be killed. Shortly after millions would die from starvation, and millions more from radiation after affects. Half of those alive would have mental or physical defects from radiation or other combat wounds.

Who, I ask, would be able to stand forth as conquering heroes and claim, we have won the victory. We have maintained the peace. Is it any wonder we have those who are sick of war. Is it any wonder we have those who say there must be a better way. Why the question is asked, "Where do we go from here?" I think it is time we search our hearts, both young and old.

I think it is time both sides of the generation gap concede that no man is an island. We need one another. Not only do we need one another but we need our Creator. This is the void area that both generations are searching for, this is the gap. You cannot talk about love yet hate your mother, father, son, daughter, or neighbor. I know the churches of today are not pleasing to the one they represent. We have turned His house into a money making business. I am quite sure if Christ were here in person He would turn the tables over and run many of us out of His house. We have turned Christianity into a form of religion denying the truth it stands for.

Parents and teens sit around your family table; eat together, talk together; admit where you are wrong and where the other is right. Come out to church next Sunday and turn it back into the house of God. Then you will find out together. Where do we go from here? One thing is for certain: We shall go from here. So really we must only answer: Where?

Schedule Tribute To Military Dead

Memorial Day tribute to America's military dead — the men and women who have given their lives for their country — will be the solemn order of the day on Saturday in rites sponsored by the Veterans Council.

Throughout the morning hours there will be visits to cemeteries of the Escanaba area, a parade and ceremonies at Gardens of Rest Cemetery Memorial Park, the Veterans Council reports.

All veterans' organizations of the community — Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of World War I, the American Legion and the Amvets are cooperating in the observance.

Services will be held at Ludington Park at 7:30 a. m.; at Holy Cross Cemetery at 8 o'clock; Lakeview Cemetery at 8:30.

The parade is scheduled for 9:30 a. m., on Ludington St., moving east to Municipal Dock where a wreath will be cast upon the water in symbolic tribute to those who lost their lives at sea. This event is set for 10 a. m.

Veterans' marching units and other military groups, including the color guard of the National Guard company, the Escanaba City Band, Escanaba Area Public High School Band and Holy Name High School Band will participate in the events.

At 11 a. m., the Memorial Day feature will be a program at Gardens of Rest Cemetery, with Col. James Wren of Escanaba and Atty. Thomas Butch of Gladstone the speakers.

The city band will play selections, taps will be sounded by John Chown, director of the Escanaba High School Band, and the Veterans Council has extended an invitation to the public to attend the ceremonies.

The Veterans Council also directs public attention to the proper display of the flag on Memorial Day, as proclaimed by President Nixon — the flying of the colors at half-staff throughout the day.

'Togetherness' Isn't Same For News Team

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It may be coincidence, but it may also be a deliberate ploy. But the nights on which both David Brinkley and Chet Huntley work together on NBC's evening news roundup seem to be getting rarer and rarer.

With Huntley moving inexorably toward his network retirement two months hence, it could be that the NBC news department is gently conditioning the audience to the new order.

Brinkley has been away recently, on a long distance cattle drive which apparently will turn up as an NBC special sometime next season. Chet is away now, apparently catching up on some vacation time. Meanwhile, the viewers are being introduced to John Chancellor.

Frank McGee, who will alternate with Chanceller, hardly needs an introduction, either. He has anchored endless news specials and marathon events including space flights for years.

Chancellor, anchoring the Thursday news roundup alone from Washington, suggested his future style—cool, impartial newsman.

One of the big difficulties about television's current passion for nature-in-the-raw programs is that the subject matter tends toward repetition. For example, the sea turtle and its survival struggle seems to be a favorite subject of the cameramen.

ABC's "Animal World" on Thursday night was dedicated to an inspection of the giant green turtle of the Sulu Sea. It seems that giant green turtles are in danger because human beings who live in the area of the Sulu Sea are fond of eating giant green turtle eggs.

Less than a week ago, NBC's "Great Barrier Reef" contained a segment showing the frantic race to the sea by newly hatched turtles while birds of prey were furiously gobbling many of them up.

These nature shows are interesting and informative, but they are also worrisome. Each one, it seems, feels it is necessary to report on some species which is on the verge of extinction. In the past season we have been presented with the crisis of the wolf, the coral, the turtle, the tiger, the alligator and more than one species of whale. Man, generally, is the most dangerous predator, but since most of us rarely come in contact with any of the endangered species, there is not much we can do except worry.

In a national television poll of representatives of the print media by the show business trade publication Variety, CBS's biweekly news program "60 Minutes" won the most points. ABC's "Room 222" and NBC's "Laugh-In" placed second and third, respectively.

The selections, it should be noted, do not agree with polls of audience popularity. "Laugh-In" is the nation's top show according to the Nielsen ratings, while "60 Minutes" usually winds up somewhere down at the bottom of the list.

EMU Rioting Damages Hit $88,000 Mark

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Officials have reported that a recent series of disturbances at Eastern Michigan University will cost taxpayers an estimated $88,000 for damages and extra law enforcement expenses.

Of the total, some $35,000 will go for the replacement or repair of such items as smashed windows and furniture, the university said.

The damage was inflicted earlier this month when several thousand student demonstrators surged through the streets for four days protesting the Indochina War and other matters.

Gov. William Milliken declared a state of emergency, imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew and other restrictions on the campus and in Ypsilanti.

Officials said overtime and equipment expenses for State Police, who were moved to the city from scattered posts around the state, amounted to some $28,000.

The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department spent $8,200 for lodging, food, special equipment and overtime, and the city spent $14,700. In addition, some $1,300 damage was inflicted on city-owned property, such as parking meters, shrubbery and street signs.

Not included in the $88,000 total was another $2,900 in expenses incurred by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, which offered assistance for two of the four days of disturbances under a mutual aid pact.

City Manager John Cartwright said that he had "every indication that the university will make a real, strong effort to raise" the money needed to reimburse the city for its expenses.

People Need Change Same As 4 Seasons

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The buds of spring have all opened now, and many of its brave petals fallen.

The seasons seem endless, but in truth the seasons encroach each other's heels, and bright summer is already standing in the wings, impatient to seize the stage.

Then it'll be vacation time again for millions, and most of them will find their week or two away from work almost as routine as the long months they spend on the job.

But if the seasons change, why can't people?

Wouldn't it be wonderful if just this year everybody on earth did something different on his vacation, tried some adventure that had beckoned to him all his life but whose challenge he had never answered? It would have a tonic effect on him whether it proved to be fun or foolish.

What could one do? Well, one man's secret daydream could be another's nightmare, but you might, for once in your life—

Drink wine from a goatskin bag.

Pick a cucumber and convert it into a pickle.

Go to the South Pole and play leapfrog with a penguin.

Go to the North Pole and do your Christmas shopping early.

Adopt an orphaned robin.

Become a carnival barker.

Wear white tie and tails to the opening of a new delicatessen.

Write a love sonnet with a stylus.

Have a cannibal for lunch during National Brotherhood Week.

Hire a sky writer to inscribe aloft your views about what we should do about Vietnam.

Secretly climb Mt. Rushmore at night with chisel and mallet and carve your own profile there.

Start an antigambling crusade at Las Vegas.

Cool a war, warm a peace.

Launch a drive to have the White House painted a more interesting color.

Initiate a fund to give free rose-colored glasses to every college student in America.

Wherever you go, take along a couple of briefcases and do the work you've been ducking at the office all year. That would really make a memorable vacation for everyone, including the boss.

IT'S RIDICULOUS, you might say, to pay $60,000 for this Andy Warhol painting of a Campbell's soup can when you can get the real thing at any supermarket for a lot less. But it was auctioned for that at Parke-Bernet Galleries in New York to a European dealer, and is the highest price ever paid for a painting by a living American artist. "Campbell's Soup Can With Peeling Label" it's called, logically enough. Standing by is Barbara Pallenberg, 20th century painting specialist at the gallery.

Rising Market Bringing Ray Of Optimism

NEW YORK (AP) — Two straight days of sharp gains and improved volume have sparked cautious optimism that the stock market may be pulling itself up out of a 17-month downtrend.

"I think you've seen the bottom," said Charles M. Lewis, a partner of the brokerage firm of Trevis & Co. after the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 20.95 at 684.15 for a 3.15 per cent advance Thursday.

That gain came on the heels of a record single-day jump in the Dow average Wednesday, when the closely watched stock market indicator finished up 32.04 points.

Analysts said the most encouraging aspect of Thursday's continuation of the upturn was the exceptionally heavy volume.

Turnover of 18.91 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange and 6.82 million shares on the American Stock Exchange both were new highs for the year.

"I believe Washington assurances have finally been convincing," Lewis said of the market's two-day performance. "It's said the market dances to Washington's tune, and I believe it."

Many brokers attributed the sharp upswing Wednesday, in part, to investor anticipation of good news emanating from President Nixon's dinner meeting that night with the nation's business leaders.

Reports that Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns had assured the businessmen that the board was alert to the country's money needs were cited Thursday morning when the Dow average soared more than 18 points early in the session.

At midday, the advance had slipped to less than 12 points, but moved forward with renewed strength after White House confirmation of Burns' dinner remarks.

The American Stock Exchange price change index closed up 0.40 at 20.36. The Associated Press 60-stock average finished the day up 6.2 at 237.8 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 1.84 at 74.61.

Foreign markets, which react a day late to activity in the American stock market, reported strong gains Thursday.

Unleaded Gas Due Soon, Firms Claim

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The president of the nation's largest oil marketing firm said Thursday the company's long-range plans make provision for removal of lead from all grades of gasoline.

Charles F. Jones of the Humble Oil & Refining Co. said the best way to obtain pollution free automobiles appears to involve the use of advanced emission control devices that will require unleaded gasolines.

Jones said Humble is capable of producing and marketing in most of its stations at least one grade of either unleaded or low lead gasoline as early as this fall but that it will require an estimated maximum of eight years to complete the conversion.

Humble's position on automobile pollution was stated in an April 13 letter sent by Jones to Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare. A copy of the letter was released Thursday.

Finch had asked oil marketers for comment on HEW proposed emissions standards for 1975.

Hubbard Could Have Son As Foe

DEARBORN (AP) — Controversial Mayor Orville Hubbard, who's been mayor of this Detroit suburb for 29 years, may have to run against his own son this fall.

His son, John Jay Hubbard, 35, has taken out petitions for the $25,000-a-year job.

"Maybe we need some new blood in the office," Hubbard said shortly after visiting his father Wednesday.

John, one of the mayor's five children, was appointed Dearborn city clerk in March, two years after winning election to the City Council in this community of about 112,000. He is a Marine Corps veteran and the father of three.

Treatment For Addicts Hailed

NEW YORK (AP) — A study of more than 2,800 heroin addicts who entered a methadone treatment program has found that none of those who remained in the program returned to daily use of heroin.

The study, released this week, also showed that the majority of the addicts reduced or eliminated previous patterns of antisocial behavior and either got jobs or started school.

The program used procedures developed by Dr. Vincent Dole and Dr. Marie Nyswander of Rockefeller University to treat the addicts, most of them through the Morris Bernstein Institute of Beth Israel Hospital and allied hospitals.

Critics of the methadone treatment approach say that it simply switches the addiction from one drug, heroin, to another, methadone, a synthetic opiate.

The difference between the two is that methadone does not produce a "high" and a user can therefore lead a more normal life. Further, when given to a heroin addict, methadone blocks the heroin high so that an injection of that drug does not yield any pleasure for the addict.

L.A. Pomeroys To Attend Conference

Pastor and Mrs. L. A. Pomeroy of the Escanaba Seventh-day Adventist Church will attend the world conference of the denomination next month in Atlantic City N. J.

Church officials state that they anticipal that more than 25,000 Adventists will gather at Convention Hall in Atlantic City for the quadrennial conference of the church. Of this number some 1500 will be official, voting delegates representing members of 193 countries.

Laymen Will Attend

Delegates are comprised, not only of administrators and selected workers in the church, but also of laymen named by the executive committee of their respective conferences. Some of these laymen come from overseas mission fields as well as from the United States and Canada.

Business of the quadrennial General Conference Session will include the election of a president for the world organization as well as other administrators for the 10 overseas divisions of the church. Matters of policy will receive study and action and plans will be laid for the next four years.

Special Programs

Delegates will hear reports from all divisions and departments of the church. Word from church world headquarters indicates that special programs have been planned to depict the progress of the church and the challenge of what Seventh - day Adventists consider to be their mission to world; the application of Scripture to present-day conditions in the light of Christ's promise to return at the time of the world's end.

Exhibits

The report states that about 50 professionally done exhibits on the various activities of the church will occupy the ground floor of Convention Hall. Focus of exhibit hall will be a theme featuring the early beginnings of the church's mission program compared to the present mission program.

Convention Theme

Theme of the convention will be, "That the World May Know." This is drawn from the text in St. John 17:23, where Christ is praying to the Father in behalf of His disciples, asking that they might so represent Him that the world might know that God sent Christ to man and that this is the evidence of His love to man. The church believes that its greatest commission is to preach Christ's love and gift of salvation through Him that men might be ready for His return to earth.

Students Protest Nude Design On Diplomas

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Some graduating students at the Rhode Island School of Design don't like the design of their new diplomas: a reproduction of a 19th century French painting of a nude woman.

Students objecting to the design say it would be "inappropriate to hang in an architect's office."

RISD President Talbot Rantoul said Thursday the new diploma fits in with plans for an informal and festive commencement.

The diploma was commissioned by a commencement committee and executed by graduating seniors Akiru Artita, 23, of Ashiya City, Japan, and Mark Reichert, 21, of Collegeville, Pa.

The design is a black and white reproduction of a nude by Jean Ingres, surrounded by rust and purple flowers on a pale green background. Text on the diploma totals 21 words.

Rantoul said the design resulted from some student dissatisfaction with the formality of last year's commencement and a desire for a "more festive" program.

Opposition has been so strong, Rantoul said, that he has agreed to sign any diploma that a student designs, but the student also will get one with the nude and the flowers.

New Babies To Get Rocking Chair Treatment

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Something old is going to be tried on newborn babies at the University of California School of Medicine — the rocking chair.

"The infant left alone for weeks in an incubator can become socially retarded," says Dr. Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics. The nurses will cuddle and rock babies during time spent out of the incubators.

Gluck, who won national recigation for an infant - care program at Yale-New Haven Medical Center, plans other innovations for University Hospital.

In a training class next fall, nurses and doctors from eight hospitals will meet weekly for two months to study the latest in infant care.

Then the nurses will spend up to six weeks in the hospital's infant special care center, studying how best to treat sick and premature newborns.

The mortality rate of newborn Americans is "dismal," Gluck said in an interview Thursday.

"Of every 1,000 babies born in the United States today, 22 won't live to blow out the candles on their first birthday cake," he said.

The main problem, he said, is brain damage related directly to poor medical care during the critical first days of life.

The special care unit, he said, "will have rocking chairs where babies will be held, fondled, petted and patted during feeding periods."

Everybody takes orders from somebody!

Your supervisor has just gotten your back up. He's just given an order that will make your job more demanding on your skill and concentration.

You don't have to stand for this. There are plenty more jobs. And you liked things the way they were.

But before you blow your top, stop and think where that order came from. Maybe it came from you.

Here's the way it works. The top management brass, to protect the future of your company (which includes your job security) spend a lot of time and money keeping track of what the customers think about the product as it is, as it could be, and how much money it is worth to them.

Out of this market research comes management policies which, in turn, become the particular instructions that are passed along to the particular employees who must carry them out and make the policy work. And these orders are just as binding on the top brass as they are on you. Even if they don't like it, everybody takes orders from the customer. Nobody can stand up against him.

So you still don't like it. But wait a minute. You are a customer—you may be one of the people whose attitude was responsible for this policy you don't like.

Certainly you should be willing to carry out your own order!

Here's the crystal ball that tells man's economic fortune. Let's spell it out. Man's material welfare (MMW) equals his natural resources (NR) plus the muscular and mental human energy (HE) he applies to them multiplied by the efficiency of his tools (T).

This is PRODUCTION, the source of all economic blessings. You are (HE). For your own sake and everybody else's, keep your eye on the ball.

Woodcock Foresees No Union Trouble

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock says he doesn't feel his presidency of the United Auto Workers will make it more difficult for the union to get a new auto contract ratified by rank and file members.

Executives from industry's side of the bargaining table have expressed fear that Woodcock does not have the prestige or command the allegiance among UAW members that the late Walter P. Reuther did and therefore might have a more difficult time selling a contract to them.

Under Reuther's leadership and prestige, the UAW never has failed to ratify a contract won at the bargaining table from General Motors, Chrysler or Ford. It took a hard-sell approach, however, to put over the pacts now in effect.

Reuther took to television to sell the three-year pacts written in 1967, which included for the first time a limit on how high the government's cost-of-living index could take wages. That eight-cent annual limitation was a major objection, and the union has pledged itself to win it back.

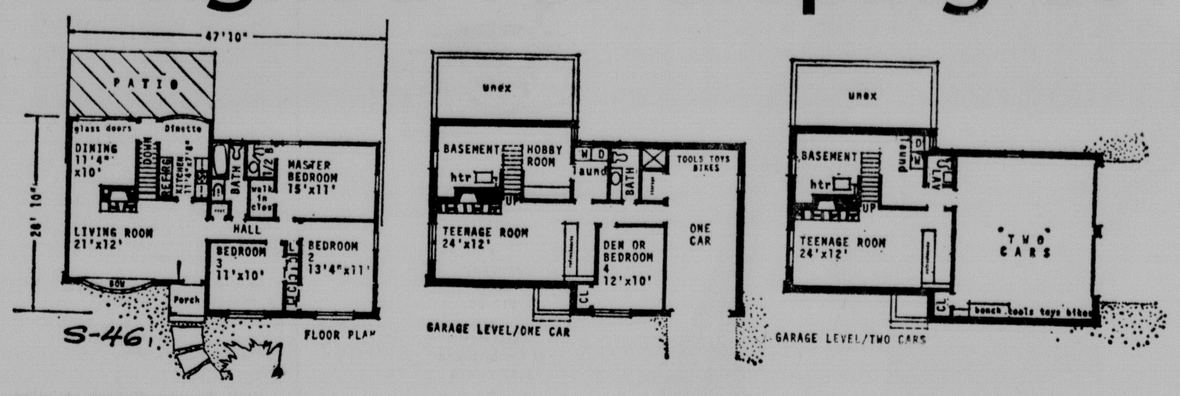
Those contracts expire Sept. 14 and new bargaining will begin in mid-July.

Before ratification is put to rank and file balloting, the GM, Ford and Chrysler councils, made up of local union representatives, are called in from across the country, and new contract provisions gone over in detail.

It is up to council members to take the message back home, with an explanation of why something their particular locals wanted wasn't included; maybe why it was swapped for something else.

VARIED WINDOWS — in living room, front door and bedrooms — add interest to stone and brick facade of house which effectively utilizes sloping lot to reduce excavating costs and add livable space.

Designed For Sloping Lot



FLOOR PLANS: Main floor plan is tried-and-tested layout for six-room house in fairly small space. Other arrangements take care of division of lower level if either a one or two-car garage is selected.

By ANDY LANG

As land becomes harder to find and more expensive, too, smaller property must be carefull studied so that it can be used to fuller advantage than may be evident at first look. This is especially so if the lot slopes.

Once considered not too desirable, a sloping lot is now acceptable and, in some cases, preferable because of the possibility it offers for providing more livable space at a lower cost than a wider house with its larger roof area would require.

Architect Lester Cohen has done an excellent job with this plan on both levels considering its modest dimensions of 47' 10" by 28' 10", even providing an option of three or four bedrooms and a one-car or two-car garage. With this kind of flexibility, the prospective home owner can feel like the master of his property rather the captive, as is often the case when building on a small lot. And for an older family, the optional lower level can be left as strictly basement and garage, with enough — but not too much — living space in the main floor plan.

Although this house was designed for a sloping lot, its ground floor plan could be built on a flat lot, with a conventional below-grade basement and a garage set back on the property. There's a divider at the front door to set off the living room. Minimum traffic in that room is likely, since the kitchen is straight ahead and the bedroom hall is off to the rear. The family bathroom is compartmented, with its entry thoughtfully shielded by a coat closet. The maste. bedroom occupies the private rear right corner, buffered by a walk-in closet and its own half-bath.

A break in the rectangular design sets the living area back, dividing the house without making it look smaller or boxey. The kitchen has a compact appliance and counter layout. A rear bow window extends the area to form a dinette. To the side of it is a rear vestibule opening to the back patio, also accessible from the dining room via a window wall of sliding glass doors. An interior fireplace makes a cheery hearth in the living room and is a pleasant divider between that room and the dining room, leaving free flow between them, visually and actually.

The garage is down a stairway off the kitchen, just inside the rear entry from the patio, or backyard. The area under the living, dining and kitchen side is divided into a basement, laundry and teen-age room, with its own fireplace and refreshment bar. For the version with a one-car garage, there's a hobby room, ,plus laundry, full stall-shower bath and a convenient fourth bedroom or den. If the two-car layout is used, the laundry and a trim lavatory are fitted in.

Stone and brick are nicely combined at the front of the house to present a tidy appearance. Wood siding is utilized on other exterior portions.

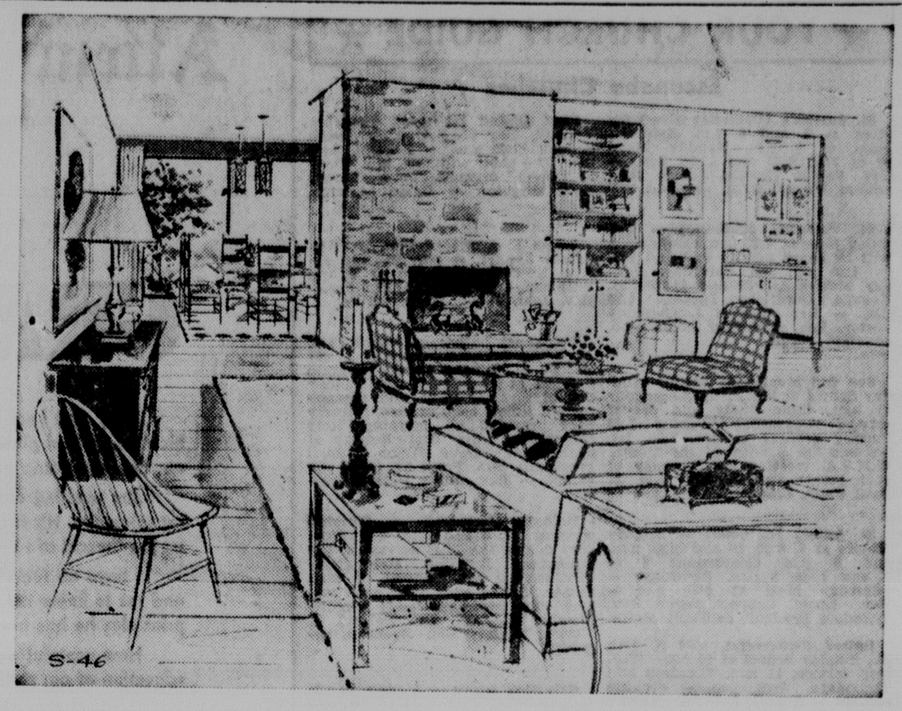
Design S-46 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, a full bath and a half-bath on the main level, totaling 1193 square feet. If a one-car garage is used on the lower level, the plans call for a teen-age room, hobby room, laundry, bathroom, fourth bedroom or den and a basement area. If a two-car garage is necessary, the teen-age room and basement section are retained, along with a laundry and lavatory. Over-all dimensions are 47' 10" by 28' 10", including the garage but excluding the patio, the depth of which is optional.

of which is optional.



FIREPLACE acts as divider between living room and dining room. Glass doors in dining room lead to rear patio. Glimpse of kitchen as at right.

Admits Buying Material Used In Draft Raid

CHICAGO (AP) — A Detroit woman testified in U.S. District Court Thursday that she purchased paint, gasoline and burlap sacks allegedly used by a group which raided a draft board office a year ago and destroyed Selective Service records.

Miss Margaret Katroscik, 23, one of 11 persons being tried on charges of arson in connection with the May 25, 1969 incident, told the court she bought the burlap sacks at the potato and onion wholesale market.

She also said she drives a truck for a Detroit catering service and gives most of her wages to her ill father. Miss Katroscik testified she was arrested during the Poor Peoples Campaign in Washington, D.C., in 1968.

Charles L. Muse, 21, Roxbury, Mass., admitted he participated in the raid and said he poured paint on draft board files. He said he previously was sentenced to prison for failing to register for the draft.

Frederick Chase, 26, Detroit, another defendant, told the jury he brought sacks of records from the office into an alley.

"If I had had to destroy draft files in Nazi Germany, I would have done it," Chase said.

A defense lawyer, Anthony Locricchio, said he planned to subpoena the Cook County clerk in an effort to obtain voting lists used to select the jury in the trial of nine men and two women.

Locricchio told Judge Edwin A. Robson that he believed the jury lists were four years old. The lawyer said if his contention was valid, then the list deprives anyone under age 25 from being on the jury.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

UAW President Against Wage, Price Control

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, new president of the United Auto Workers, was quoted Wednesday by the Detroit News as opposing wage-price controls as a means of combatting inflation.

Woodcock's 1.6-million-member union faces a crucial round of new contract bargaining with the auto industry this summer. And the UAW has adopted a wide-ranging, costly set of economic demands.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., took a position somewhat paralleling Woodcock's when Ford told stockholders recently that "experience with war-time wage and price controls suggests that the remedy may be as bad as the sickness (of inflation) for all concerned."

A Chrysler spokesman was quoted by the News as saying that "it is our belief that the economy should be as free from artificial restrictions as possible so that the natural forces of supply and demand can work as they should."

A General Motors spokesman said that "we've expressed our opposition to wage and price controls in the past, but we have nothing to say right now."

"We will do everything we can as an organization," Woodcock was quoted as saying, "to prevent imposition of controls.

"The Nixon administration has said it is opposed to wage and price controls and I expect it to be faithful to that promise. . . .

"It (talk of wage-price controls) is disturbing and strange coming from a Congress which was quick to boost its own salaries by such an enormous amount."

Elected last Friday as president of the UAW to succeed the late Walter P. Reuther, Woodcock said defense spending, not pay of workers, is responsible for inflation, adding that if the auto industry were run the way the Defense Department is "it would be bankrupt."

Protestors Force Cutback Of Navy Team Exhibition

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — An exhibition by a Navy acrobatic flying team at Selfridge Air Force Base Saturday and Sunday has been canceled because of a planned antiwar demonstration on the base.

A coalition of antiwar groups is planning a "peace picnic" during the Memorial Day weekend open house at the base near Mount Clemens.

Col. Kenneth Gunarson, commanding officer at Selfridge, said he has learned that some of the organizations involved in the demonstration are "militant in nature with a long record of violence."

Gunarson said he felt it would be unwise to risk injury to persons or damage to government property and extend regrets "to those peaceful citizens who would have enjoyed the show."

JIM WAS GRADUATED TODAY

Mary and I sat on the bleachers overlooking the high school athletic field and watched him march in with his class. A bird glided overhead, and, from far off, a dog's bark and children's voices mingled on the evening air. Behind circling hills, blue mountains made a stately backdrop.

Jim avoided our glance, the habitual grin he's worn since babyhood stilled for a moment in a gaze of earnest solemnity. His first big milestone had come, and I smiled to myself remembering his eagerness to embark upon the "world of tomorrow."

I have no fears for his future . . . for Jim is a Christian. What a wonderful assurance it is to his mother and me to know that wherever he goes, whatever happens in that wonderful "world" ahead, the values and principles he has been taught will be there to guide and sustain him.

How grateful we are to our church for the guidance and encouragement it has given us in the Christian education of our son!

Raps Republicans For Ignoring Wage Increase Measure

LANSING (AP) — State Sen. Sander Levin has accused Gov. William Milliken and Senate Republican leaders of failing to live up to an agreement that he said would mean a wage hike for some 200,000 Michigan workers.

Levin, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, called on Milliken to push for Senate action on a House-passed minimum wage bill, hiking the current $1.25 hourly minimum to $1.45 as of July 1.

"The governor is unwilling to exert pressure on the Republican caucus to get out a bill he said is a priority item," Levin said. "He isn't even willing to slap anybody's wrist — never mind twist anybody's arm."

Levin said House and Senate leaders and the governor had agreed that the House bill should be passed.

Levin vowed to attempt discharging the bill from the Senate Labor Committee if it were not reported by June 1.

Doubletalk Proves Most Interesting Item

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Heard any good new double talk lately?

Double talk, you remember, is saying one thing while thinking another. It is a device for saving your public face while remaining privately honest with yourself.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, here are some typical examples of modern day double talk:

"Frankly, I like the dress, but somehow it doesn't bring out the real me."—I saw the price tag.

"I really enjoy living alone, Melvin, but now and then I get swept by a feeling of unutterable loneliness. Don't you sometimes feel that way, too?"—What did I do wrong as a little girl so that now, at 28, I have to try to get a jerk like Melvin to propose to me?

"Naturally, every man has a right to express his own opinion."—So why don't you write yours on a piece of paper, put it in a bottle, and float it out to sea?

"The reason I asked you to baby sit for us, Melinda, is that everyone in the neighborhood brags about what a trustworthy and responsible girl you are for your age."—Please don't teach our child to smoke pot while we're gone—she's only 3.

"Well, I guess I will have just one more if you promise to make it a real teentsy-weentsy one."—But you don't have to pour it from an eyedropper, like you did the other two.

"I can't wait for the beach season to start, Gloria, so I can see how you'll look in that new bikini."—But maybe we could tie it on a broomstick right now and get a good idea.

"Yeah, since I started taking exercises regularly, I can now touch my toes 50 times without —." Without getting out of bed.

"Now, Jim, why did you have to go and do that? You know I insisted we were going to go Dutch!"—Boy, that was close. The big bum almost let me pay for my own meal.

"I'm happy to tell you, Mr. Brownbaum, that your first series of X-rays were completely negative." My technician goofed. Now we'll take some more and find out what's actually wrong with you.

"Normally, of course, I wouldn't be caught dead going to a dirty movie, but according to the critics this one has some redeeming features."—It's real dirty.

"That sounds like pure malicious gossip about Sylvia. How can you believe a word of it?"—I always knew she was a tramp. Tell me more.

"Your word alone is always good enough for me, Frank."—But let's put it in writing and have it notorized, shall we, old pal?

Business-Like PO Plan OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation intended to put the postal service on a more business-like basis, and largely divorced from politics, has won the approval of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The Post Office Department would be replaced by an independent U.S. Postal Service run by a board of governors, who would select the Postmaster General and have authority to issue up to $10 billion in bonds for operating costs and capital improvements.

Postal rates no longer would be set by Congress. Instead, they would be set by a 5-member rate-making commission, subject to review by the Postmaster General and the board of governors.

Also included in the reform measure is an 8 per cent pay raise for postal workers, but the committee took no action on President Nixon's request for a $1.5 billion increase in postal rates.

The only dissent came from Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex. Shortly before the committee acted yesterday, he predicted enactment of the legislation would lead to "enormous increases in postage rates and continued cuts in service."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥	3 NT

Opening lead—nine of hearts.

Psychology has a great deal to do with the outcome of many hands. For example consider this deal from a team match where, at the first table, South got to three notrump and West led a heart.

Declarer realized that if he staked the outcome on a diamond finesse, he would go down if it turned out that East had the king. So, in order to give himself a better chance for the contract, he decided to tackle spades first.

Accordingly, he ducked East's jack of hearts at trick one and won the heart continuation with the ace. Then he played a spade to the king hoping to find East with the singleton queen, which would automatically have given him four spade tricks and the contract.

However, East followed low and South continued with a low spade from dummy, this time hoping to find East with the doubleton queen, in which case he would still be able to produce four spade tricks by next finessing the nine.

Had East followed with the ten on the second spade lead, South would have been driven to stake his all on the diamond finesse, which would have succeeded as the cards happened to lie.

But East — who realized what declarer was planning to do — followed with the queen on the second spade lead in an effort to sell South the idea that West had started with four spades to the ten.

Declarer fell right into the trap. He went up with the ace, finessed the nine, and found himself going down two.

At the second table, North-South bid and made six notrump! Declarer won the heart lead, cashed five diamonds and three clubs, then threw East into the lead with a heart, forcing him to lead away from the Q-10-5 of spades into dummy's K-J-9.

Twelve tricks—easy as pie!

Twins' Tiant Makes Trade Look Like Steal Of Year

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins acquired Luis Tiant for his pitching ability but the hard-throwing Mexican has shone at bat too, and is making the trade with the Cleveland Indians look like the steal of the year.

The 29-year-old unbeaten right-hander rolled to his sixth consecutive victory Thursday and contributed three hits and three runs batted in as the Twins socked Milwaukee 11-2.

In the only other American League contest, Oakland blanked California 2-0.

In National League play, Philadelphia edged Montreal 5-3 in 11 innings, San Francisco nipped Los Angeles 4-3, St. Louis rocked the New York Mets 9-2 and Chicago beat Pittsburgh 8-7.

Leads Attack

Tiant, who raised his average to .434, led Minnesota's 16-hit attack against five Brewers pitchers, stroking a run-scoring single in Minnesota's four-run second and a two-run single in a four-run fourth as the Twins raced to an 11-0 edge.

Tiant, however, was forced to leave in the eighth inning with a tight shoulder muscle after giving the Brewers eight hits and both their runs.

"On my last pitch I felt something pop and I didn't want to pitch any more," Tiant said. "I don't think it will bother me though. But I didn't want to have it hurt like last year."

Last year was a nightmare for the Mexico City native, who pitched ineffectively and wound up losing 20 games while winning only nine. His earned run average ballooned to 2.84 from his 1968 league-leading mark of 1.60 when he had a 21-9 record.

During the winter, Tiant along with right-hander Stan Williams were sent to the Twins for Dean Chance, Bob Miller, Graig Nettles and Ted Uhlaender.

Trade Great

The trade has been a great one for Minnesota to this point.

Tiant has a 6-0 mark and 3.11 ERA while Williams, in 19 relief appearances, is also unbeaten at 4-0.

On the Cleveland side side of the ledger, Chance sidelined most of last year by injuries while compiling a 5-4 record, is only 1-5 while Miller, a reliver, is 1-2.

Nettles an infielder-outfielder, is hitting only .145 with centerfielder Uhlaender at .267.

And those statistics help to back up the standings of each club.

The Twins, leaders in the West Division of the AL, have a 29-12 record and are 2½ games in front of California, Cleveland, at 14-26 is last in the East, 15½ in back of Baltimore's front-runners.

Tony LaRussa, a second baseman recalled from the minors a week ago, rapped a two-run double in the seventh inning for the A's giving Chuck Dobson all the support he needed.

Dobson, 5-4, struck out three Angels and did't walk a batter as he limited California to six singles.

4th Straight

Tony Taylor cracked a pair of solo homers but it was Terry Harmon's sacirfice fly in the 11th inning that gave the Phils their fourth straight victory and sent the skidding Expos to their fifth loss in a row.

Taylor's first homer tied the contest at 3-3 in the seventh and he followed Larry Bowa's triple and pinch hitter Harmon's fly ball with his second roundtripper.

"I knew they were both gone when I hit them," said Taylor, who had only hit two homers in one game once before, "I did it in 1958 with the Chicago Cubs," said Taylor, who has three homers for the season.

The expos scored all three runs in the second inning off Phils' starter Grant Jackson. Ron Stone had a two-run double for Philadelphia in the sixth.

Dick Dietz cracked a homer in the bottom of the ninth, giving the Giants their victory after the Dodgers had tied it in the top of the inning at 3-3 on Jim Lefebvre's run-scoring single.

3 Homers

Bobby Bonds and Ken Henderson also cracked homers for the Giants and winner Gaylord Perry, 7-5. Reliver Jim Brewer, who served up Dietz' 10th circuit of the season, was the loser.

Joe Hague drove in five runs with a homer and three singles behind Bob Gibson's strong 11-strikeout pitching in the Cards' triumph. Rich Allen contributed three hits to the winners' attack, who knocked out Mets' starter and loser Jim McAndrew in a four-run first inning.

Jim Hickman's two-run homer, his second blast of the game, gave the Cubs their victory.

Hickman's first two-run shot had tied the contest at 6-6 but the Pirates went in front 7-6 in the eighth on Matty Alou's RBI single before Hickman stroked his 10th homer of the year, his fifth in six games.

Cleo James had a solo belt for Chicago while Bob Robertson homered for the Pirates.

Dave Hill Leading Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, TENN. (AP) — I'm usually a slow starter here," Dave Hill said, then flashed that impish grin.

"But this time, everybody's got problems, cause ol' Davy got off and running."

And that he did, blasting out a remarkable 63, built on a fantastic string of six holes where he cut seven strokes off par for the first-round lead in the $150,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis open golf tournament.

"It's the greens," the slim, darly handsome Hill said thursday. "I just putt these greens so good."

But he missed a couple that could have put him in with a 61—matching the lowest score of the year on the pro tour.

One was for an eagle from four feet on the 18th hole—he played the back nine first. The other was for a birdie from six feet on the second "and I must have been afraid I was going to shoot a good score," said Hill, who has won this event twice in the last three years.

He held a one-stroke lead over Dick Crawford, who said he had been in a slump since early in March. Crawford had a 64 with five birdies, an eagle and a single bogey.

"My best round since the Citrus (in Orlando, Fla. has been a 72." Crawford said, "and I've had a lot of 74s. But I finally managed to cut across on'em." Veteran Jack McGowan, rookie Handy Wolff and young Hale Irvin followed at 65 with seven more at 66, including Dean Beman Grier Jones and Homero Blancas.

The huge group at 67 included Tom Shaw, George Archer and Gene Littler as 57 players—well over one-third of the field—broke par 70.

Some of the pre-tourney favorites for the $30,000 first prize had their troubles, however, and appeared in danger of missing the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. Lee Trevino had a 73, Tony Jacklin a 71 and Frank Beard and U.S. Open champion Orville Moody matched par 70.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Billy Casper are not competing.

Hill, a 33-year-od veteran of 12 years on the pro tour who came into his own last year, had seven birdies, an eagle and two bogeys "when my favorite club, a six iron, spit at me a couple of times." That was on the 12th and third when he bogeyed from traps.

Hill, a product of the caddy ranks who has drawn his share of suspensions and fines for his overly candid pronouncements, started his assault on par on the 13th hole of the short, 6,455-yard, par-70 Colonial Country Club course.

He reached the par five in two and two-putted from 18 feet, then ran in birdie putts of 25 and 18 feet on the next two holes, and canned a 12-foot eagle putt after two big hits on the par five 16th. He put a six iron five feet from the flag on the 17th and missed another eagle from four feet on the next.

Dave also birdied the fourth and fifth, rifling an iron a foot from the hole on the fourth and dropping an 18-footer on the fifth.

He parred in, then stopped to sign an autograph for a young fan who offered a program.

"I'll put it right up at the top here," Hill said, " 'cause that's where I'm going to finish."

Iowa Looking For Athletic Director

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Three men—one at the University of Iowa, another in Iowa City and a third at the University of Michigan—have been interviewed in connection with Iowa's search for a new athletic director, it was disclosed Thursday night.

An informed source said the leading candidate for the job so far seems to be Chalmers "Bump" Elliott, associate athletic director at Michigan and a Hawkeye assistant football coach who gained great popularity in the state from 1952 to 1956.

The university's Board in Control of Athletics has also reportedly talked with Iowa athletic business manager Francis "Bus" Graham, now acting athletic director, and former Hawkeye football great Jerry Hilgenberg, now an Iowa City real estate man.

Vacant June 30

The post will be vacant June 30 after the resignation last week of Forest Evashevski, who was elevated from football coach to athletic director in 1960 after building Iowa's football program into national prominence, including the production of two Rose Bowl champions.

Evashevski's resignation coincided with the athletic board's announcement that it had relieved football coach Ray Nagel of his duties, also effective June 30, in the culmination of a four-month feud between the two men.

Nagel was subsequently reinstated last Friday for the duration of his five-year contract, which exxires Dec. 31.

Elliott Interview

Elliott, head football coach at Michigan for a decade and an All—American halfback there in his undergraduate days, met Tuesday with the athletic board.

Iowa athletic officials declined to discuss what went on at the meeting, as did Elliott, reached early Friday at his home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I visited with the athletic authorities and that was it," Elliott told The Associated Press.

Asked if he had been offered the athletic director's job, Elliott replied: "No."

"I certainly would consider the job," he said, adding, "I can't say because nothing has been done."

Evashevski himself recommended Elliott for appointment to a dual post as head football coach and athletic director before Nagel was reinstated to his coaching duties.

The departing athletic director said he thought Elliott, who was under Evashevski as head coach while he was at Iowa, would be just the man to bring the Hawkeyes back to national football prominence.

Graham, who has been business manager of athletics for 18 years, met with the board Wednesday afternoon. Hilgenberg, who served eight years as an Iowa assistant football coach, talked with officials Wednesday night. Both expressed interest in the job.

V.F.W. Pacing Little League

Tabbed by early season prognosticators the League's dark horse, VFW looked more like a winner as they moved into the back stretch ahead of the pack by virtue of their 4 to 2 victory over Kiwanis.

Meanwhile defending champion Rotary fell to strange surroundings as they lost their third straight when ten year old rookie Dennis Leveille dropped a 4 to 3 decision to the Eagles. Off to a shaky start Leveille gave up 3 runs in the first inning, a lead the Eagles veteran Paul Bohn made stand up as he stymied Rotary on three hits.

Biggest surprise of the week occurred Monday when the Bankers overcame a 9 to 1 deficit in the final inning to beat the Lions 10 to 9. However, Thursday night, when their 4 to 0 lead over Exchange began to disintegrate in the final inning, the Lions called on their wheelhorse, Kevin Cutler. He responded by striking out the side to preserve the Lions 4 to 2 lead.

Ranger Goalie In Critical Condition

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Sawchuk, 40-year-old goalie for the New York Rangers, was listed in critical condition and in the intensive care unit at Long Beach (L.I.) Memorial Hospital Thursday.

Sawchuk had been admitted to the hospital April 29 for removal of his gall bladder "after he said he was horseplaying on his lawn with Ron Stewart," according to a Long Beach police official.

Stewart is a 37-year-old Ranger forward and Sawchuk's roommate. The New York Times had quoted a source close to the Rangers as saying the pair had returned home from a bar, argued and were wrestling when the injury occurred.

Sawchuk was taken off the critical list a week ago and hospital spokesmen when contacted Thursday declined to say when he had been put back on it.

Indy '500' Drivers Ready To Roll On Memorial Day

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The fastest field in more than half a century of auto racing at Indianapolis is awaiting the starter's flag Saturday in the 54th 500-mile race at the Indy Speedway.

The 33 cars that qualified in two weekend of trials averaged 165.375 miles an hour. Al Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., leads the pack with a 170.221 average for his four qualifying turns around the 2 ½-mile oval. For this Unser, brother of the 1968 race winner, earned the pole position and the favorite's tag along with three-time Indianapolis winner A. J. Foyt Jr., Houston, Tex. Foyt qualified No. 3.

Besides Bobby Unser, also of Albuquerque, and Foyt, one other former winner is in this year's field — Mario Andretti, the 1969 champ from Nazareth, Pa.

Andretti holds the record for running the race, 156.867 miles an hour.

A purse expected to top $825,000 will be divided Sunday night at the traditional victory dinner. Last year drivers and owners split $802,127 with Andretti and Anthony Granatelli earning $206,727.

Joining Al Unser in the first row are Foyt and Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex. The 32-year-old Rutherford came from nowhere to capture the slot between Unser and Foyt at the head of the 11 rows of racing machines. His average was 170.213, just a shade behind the pole sitter.

The slowest car in the field, driven by Jim McElreath, qualified with a 166.821 average.

The Speedway has recorded 58 deaths in the years of the 500 and also counting the pre-500 races of 1909-10. The toll of 34 drivers, 14 mechanics, 9 spectators and one Speedway guard arose from accidents during the race itself as well as in the month of preliminaries and practice preceeding the Memorial Day classic. There has been no fatal accident this year. New Zealander Denis Hulme was prevented from competing after suffering burns on his hands in an accident during practice.

Young Awarded McGinn Trophy

Dan Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Young, 517 S. 17th St., was named the 16th recipient of the Denis McGinn Trophy at the Holy Name High School assembly Friday morning.

The award is given to an outstanding athlete, who is also a good scholar, in recognition of his service to Holy Name High School.

Denis McGinn set up the award back before Holy Name existed. It was established for St. Joseph High School and then moved to Holy Name when the school began operating. McGinn was a lawyer and was greatly interested in athletics. He showed this by his refereeing, coaching, attendance at games and by encouraging youngsters to be athletes.

Since his death, his wife has continued the award and her children have vowed that the award will continue as long as there is a Holy Name.

Head coaches of the various sports, the athletic director and the principal select the winner, considering the leadership and contributions made to his fellow students both on the field and in the school.

Young earned awards for four years of participation in football, basketball and track while in high school. He was named to the All-U. P. football team in 1969 as an offensive back and to the All U. P. Class B second team in basketball. Young recently received a football scholarship to attend Northern Michigan University.

Girls Sickened By LSD:

Arrests Promised By Officers Soon

"I hope that by the middle or end of next week we will be in a position to issue warrants," Delta County Prosecutor John Beauchamp said today in connection with an investigation into the discovery of narcotics in Escanaba.

A considerable quantity of LSD in pellets was found by two little girls while they were playing near their home on the city's west side the afternoon of May 23.

The sisters, 4 and 6 years old, tasted the pellets and suffered the hallucinations that accompany the use of the drug. They were in St. Francis Hospital under treatment for two days.

Prosecutor Beauchamp, Police Chief Richard Frederick and Police Detective John Robitaille today revealed as much of the information about the case as is possible at this point in their investigation.

News media of the community, although informed of the incident in which the two young girls were sickened by the narcotic ,cooperated by not publishing the story until authorities deemed it advisable.

"The girls are home now and doing fine," said Detective Robitaille.

They had suffered the usual symptoms of LSD use — irrational actions and hallucinations — and they had been rushed to the hospital for treatment. They were not unconscious.

Since the accidental discovery of the narcotic by the children seven days ago, authorities have been busy with an investigation they are confident will lead to an arrest or arrests.

"The pellets were identified as LSD by the Division of Crime Detection in Lansing," the prosecutor reported. "However, we have no final report on the analysis, as yet."

Meanwhile, police are continuing their investigation.

"We are not yet at a point where an arrest can be made," said Beauchamp. "Officers have suspects, but there may be others involved and we want to have our case complete before we make arrests," he added.

Paper Slump Idles 50 Men

Escanaba Paper Co. will shut down its No. 1 paper machine on Saturday, idling a total of approximately 50 workers.

"We hope to start it up again later in the summer," said Robert P. Arvold, president and general manager of the Publishing Papers Division of Mead Corp.

Arvold said that decreased buying of paper by the nation's major magazines, reflecting a cutback in advertising by national advertisers, necessitated the shutdown.

The temporary suspension of operations on the No. 1 machine results from a business decline which has caused some other area wood industries to cut their 7-day work week to 5 days.

The machine shutdown comes in advance of a two-week vacation shutdown of the entire operations of the Escanaba Paper Co. on the weeks of June 27 and July 6.

While operations are being reduced in the paper mill to bring its production into line with market needs, the build-up of the work force by the Rust Engineering Co. on the kraft pulp mill construction at the Escanaba Paper Co. continues. The total employed there was 75 this week.

Market Declines; Blue Chips Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved fractionally lower this morning in active trading.

Analysts attributed the decline to profit taking after a two-day market rise that propelled the Dow Jones average up over 50 points. Blue chips were generally lower.

At 10:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 0.89 to 683.26, and the tape was running one minute late.

Advances led declines by 2 to 1.

Big Board prices included Texaco, up 3/8 to 25 7/8; General Electric, off 5/8 to 63 1/4; Sperry Rand, up 1 to 27 3/4; IBM, up 1 to 268; and Litton, off 1/4 to 16 1/2.

Youth Held In Jail Cuts Arm

Thomas K. Palmquist, 17, Escanaba, held in the Delta County jail for breaking and entering, punctured a vein in his arm with a sharpened paper clip last night and today is in St. Francis Hospital under police guard.

The incident occurred about 7:10 p.m. Thursday. A sheriff's deputy bandaged Palmquist's arm and summoned police and the ambulance.

Palmquist's difficulties with the law began when he was a juvenile (under the age of 17) and included seven escapes from Michigan Boys Vocational School.

On Thursday officers arrested Palmquist in connection with their investigation of the breaking and entering of Riverside Auto Sales, where $468 in cash and currency is missing. Entry was made through a window. Officers recovered $300.

Also entered were the office of the U.P. State Fair and the Sportscraft shop, and a burglary attempt at the Rodman Lumber Co. failed.

In District Court Palmquist waived examination and was remanded to jail to appear in Circuit Court.

At the time of his arrest he was at liberty on bond awaiting trial in Circuit Court on a grand larceny charge in connection with the alleged theft of $3,923 from Mrs. Patricia Slagstad, 529 S. 12th St. None of the money missing from the Slagstad home was recovered, said police.

Parochiaid Measure Nears Final Stages

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Parochiaid will pour $22 million into the nonpublic schools of Michigan in full measure this fall after half a century of angry debate and court tests.

It will be the state's first no-strings-attached grant to the parochial schools which educate 300,000 students.

The money is locked into the stalled $1.22 billion school aid bill in the Senate and will go into effect if public K-12 education gets any raise at all.

Compromise Seen

Legislative leaders made these predictions as they sidestepped the latest legal wrangle and moved toward a House - Senate compromise at approximately $970 million.

"I think we'll wrap it all up this week (June 1-6)," said House Speaker William A. Ryan.

He made it clear the only major issue left is the number of dollars, despite threatened lawsuits and pressure from public schoolmen to abandon any route that includes parochiaid.

The legislative position was firmed up after Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley ruled that the Citizens Against Parochiaid (CAP) petitions to put the issue on the November ballot were defective.

220,000 Signatures

He said the petitions, on which the CAP claimed it had collected 220,000 signatures, was not sufficiently understandable to the voter since it failed to clearly show it was amending Article III, Section 2 of the 1963 state constitution which reads:

"The legislature shall maintain and support a system of free public elementary and secondary schools as defined by law. Every school district shall provide for the education of its pupils without discrimination as to religion, creed, race, color or national origin."

Circulators On Job

Kelley said the petition language would place a restriction on legislative appropriations without removing religion as a discriminatory element in the section."

Dr. David Evans, a Methodist clergyman and executive director of CAP, said circulators would continue collecting signatures toward the required 346,000 despite Kelley's ruling.

But even the clearance on the petition language the CAP claimed it got from the secretary of state's elections division was tainted.

Elections Director Bernard Apol, his assistant James Chapman — both of whom were consulted on the form of the petition — and Deputy Secretary of State William Hettiger, who said it was sound, all backed off after Kelley's ruling.

"Kelley is our lawyer," said one spokesman.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon S. Cohen said initiatory petitions are routinely cleared by the attorney general's office.

Integrity Not Questioned

"I bear full responsibility for error as well as success,' 'said Mrs. Harriet Phillips, president of CAP, "I don't question his (Kelley's) integrity, but I do question his opinion.

"He is not free from personal biases any more than I am."

Kelley is a Catholic and his opinion was issued at the request of Rep. Stanley M. Powell (R-Ionia), a Baptist.

Mrs. Phillips added:

"Either the attorney general is taking over the duties of the secretary of state or we are the victims of the battle between state officials.

"As far as I'm concerned, our petition drive is a legal one."

Time Running Out

Realistically, she and Erwin Ellmann, a Detroit lawyer representing CAP, acknowledged that there is too little time to re-write the petition, circulate it and get enough signatures before the July 6 deadline.

"I would honestly say it would be impossible . . ." said Mrs. Phillips.

And Mrs. Phillips, once vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee and in 1962 manager of former Gov. John B. Swainson's unsuccessful re-election bid, said she would work against Kelley's nomination in the state convention.

National Issue

Despite CAP threats to go to the State Court of Appeals as a last resort, Ryan said the only three major legal decisions on parochiaid have been affirmative, and would be precedents for any new try to ban public aid to nonpublic schools.

Ryan said parochiaid has been a national issue since the 1800s when Catholic rectories were burned in Philadelphia and in Michigan since the 1920s.

"It was to the prudential advantage of Catholics to remain silent during that period on this issue," he said.

Two Michigan-wide votes on proposals forcing all parochial school children to attend public schools were defeated in the 1920s by 2 to 1 margins.

Landmark Decision

Oregon issued a landmark decision in the same era on parochiaid, banning it, but it was overturned by the United States Supreme Court. The issue was the right of free choice by parents to choose the kind of school their children attend.

The U. S. court held:

"The fundamental theory of liberty under which all governments in this union repose excludes any general power of the state to standardize its children by forcing them to accept instruction from public teachers only.

"The child is not the mere creature of the state. Those who nurture him and direct his destiny have the right, coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations."

Ryan points to the GI Bill of Rights after World War II as a parochiaid measure. He said former President Roosevelt was under pressure to restrict educational grants to public colleges and universities.

Special Programs Noted

In Michigan, there have been other evidences. He pointed to the auxiliary services act of 1965 which gave parochial schools financial help "in areas where students had special problems."

These included special programs for the physically or mentally handicapped, remedial reading, crossing guards and the visiting teacher program (social work).

Many federal programs are tied to the parochiaid principle, he said, and Michigan would lose $30 million a year if it were tossed out. In any case, Ryan said the whole thing is moot:

"Their drive (CAP's) wasn't going that well," he said. "At the rate they were going, it is doubtful they would have enough valid signatures anyway by the deadline.

"But the real problem is that if it had gone on the ballot and had been passed, it would have meant that all nonpublic schools would close."

CAP Drive Fails

Arrayed against the COP drive were Gov. Milliken, the House and Senate votes approving of parochiaid and the newly-powerful Michigan Catholic Conference, headquartered in Lansing.

Milliken said he expected the House and Senate to agree on some compromise figure for school aid and leave the parochiaid section untouched.

"I would anticipate it will remain," he said.

Earlier, the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform, chaired by Milliken, backed parochiaid up to 2 per cent of the total public school budget. The report said:

"We believe that sound public policy requires that the people of Michigan recognize a measure of responsibility for providing all children with an education on secular subjects.

"Our abiding concern is for children, wherever situated. Our recommendations can be no less comprehensive . . ."

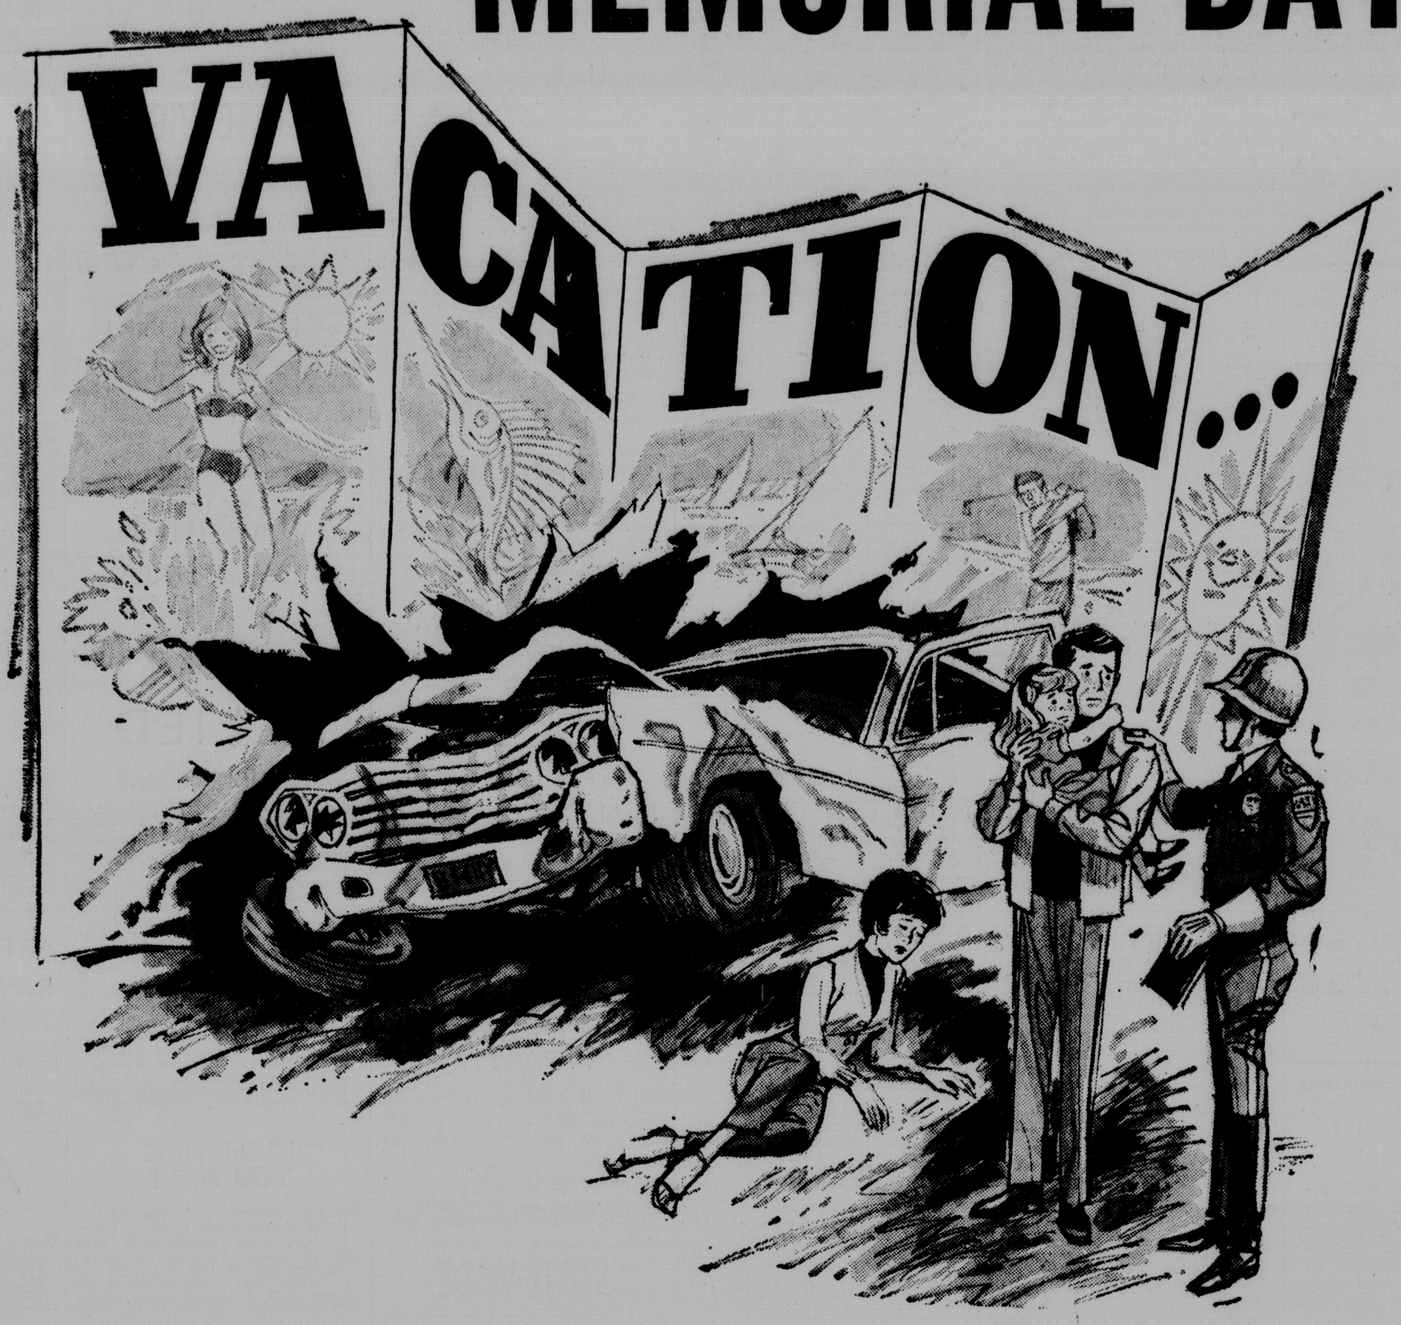
DON'T BREAK UP YOUR- MEMORIAL DAY



Safety mindedness is something good operators of cars and boats have in common on holiday weekends, the City Police point out. When you're the skipper, keep your passengers safe.

City Police will operate special holiday patrols but remember that officers cannot be everywhere. You help them hold the line on accidents by policing your own driving.

Thirty-four persons were killed in Memorial weekend traffic accidents in Michigan in 1969, say the City Police. Crowded highways increase accident risk. Take it easy this holiday.

Don't be a zigzagger in your holiday driving, the City Police caution. Overtake and pass only when it is safe for yourself and others. Patience can help protect you too.

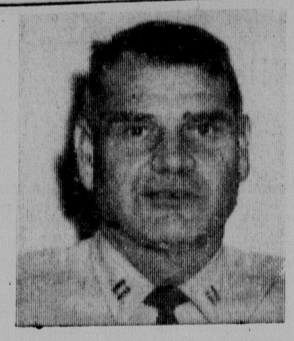
Thousands of motorists drive mile after mile on holiday trips without scratching a fender, the City Police point out. You can do it too! Care helps you get there safely.

Here are City Police suggestions for a safer Memorial weekend trip: Take rest stops to combat driving fatigue. Overtake and pass with care. Watch your speed. Avoid driving after drinking.

FOLLOW THESE SAFE DRIVING TIPS!

Police Chief Fredrick

Disobeying a traffic control signal or sign is a violation of the law whether or not you're caught, say the City Police. The signals and signs are for everybody's protection and benefit. They've been placed where they are to promote safety. Remember this: If you cheat on traffic controls, you're not hurting the signs or signals—you're endangering yourself and others. That's an important difference. Keep this distinction in mind during your holiday driving.



More cars traveling faster make space between them especially important in holiday traffic, the City Police stress. Allow yourself a margin of safety when driving. Don't tailgate.

Going to do any boating this Memorial weekend? Be sure you have proper life saving equipment aboard your craft, say the City Police. Practice safety afloat too.

Observe speed limits, drive with extra caution and be sure to watch for the other guy.

Before you hit the road, thoroughly check your car to make sure it's in safe and top running condition.

When driving this weekend or any other day of the year, make sure you don't have too much to drink. Drinking and driving just don't mix.

When passing another car make sure it's safe. Not just the other lane, but look in your rear view mirror and make sure to check for the guy coming out of the side road.

A Lovely Wedding

Shop With

Faye Royer

and

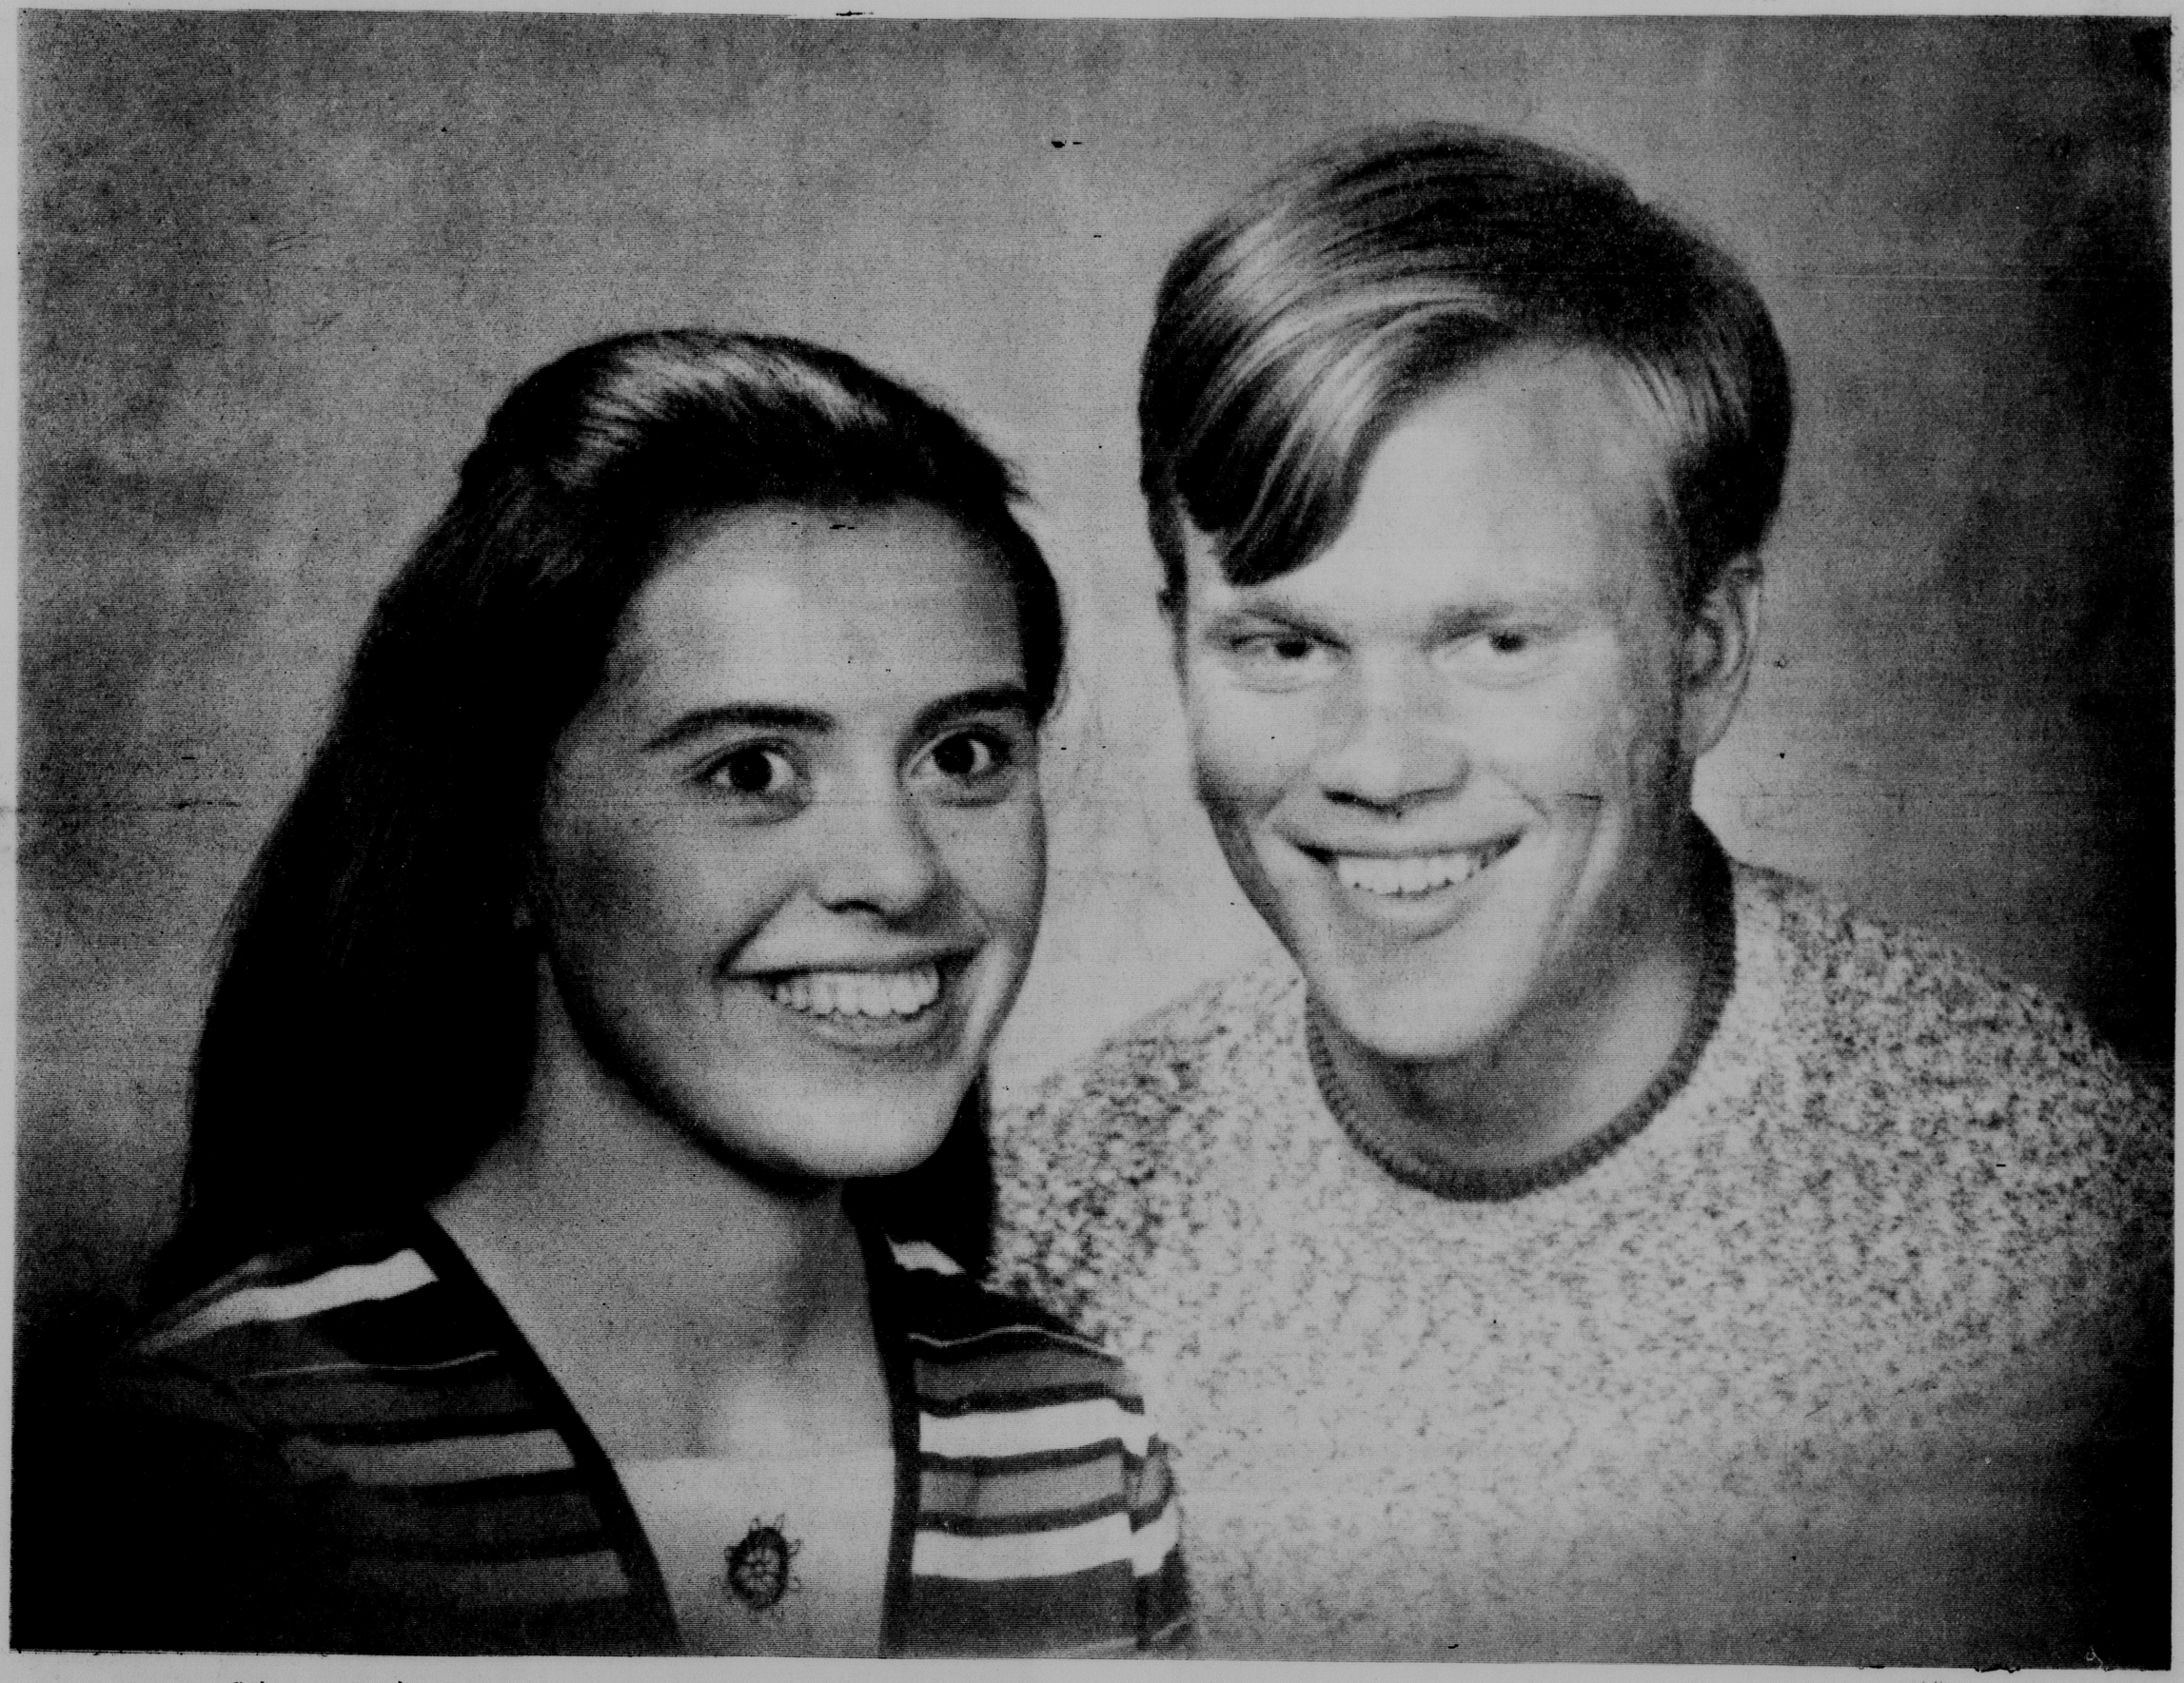
as they complete preparations for their upcoming marriage!



Follow the couple through the camera's eye of Lee's Studio . . . as they complete their wedding plans, and shop from the area's leading merchants. Faye and Jerry found that everything they needed was available to them in this area, and that they received the special attention that every young couple needs to help them prepare for their most cherished dream . . . their wedding day.

CANDID PHOTOS TAKEN BY

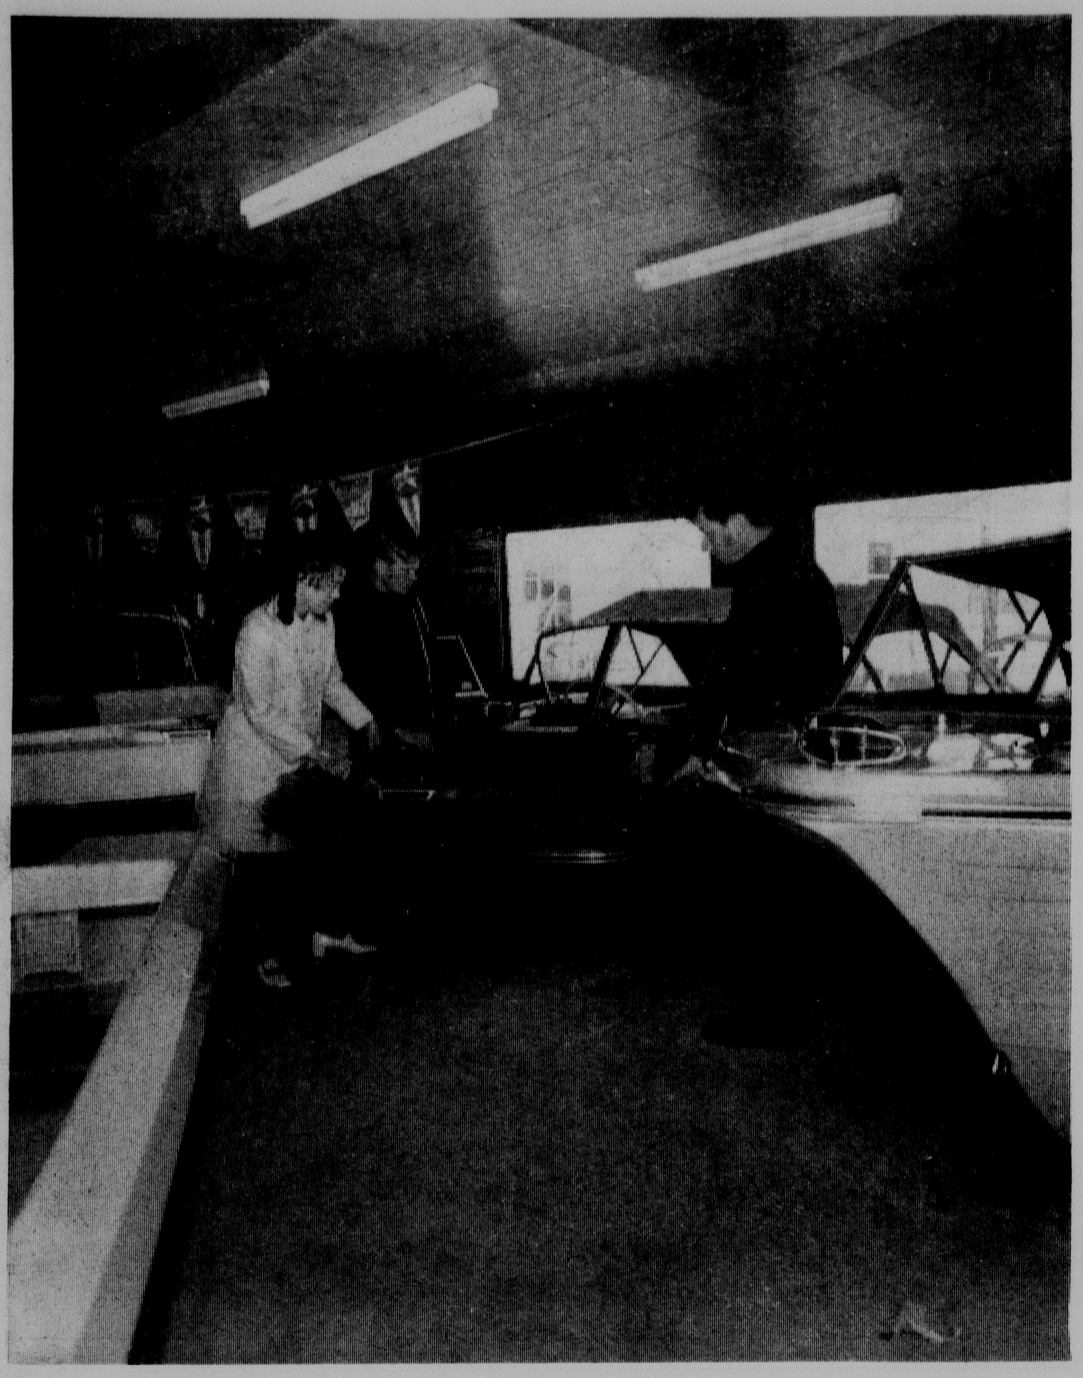
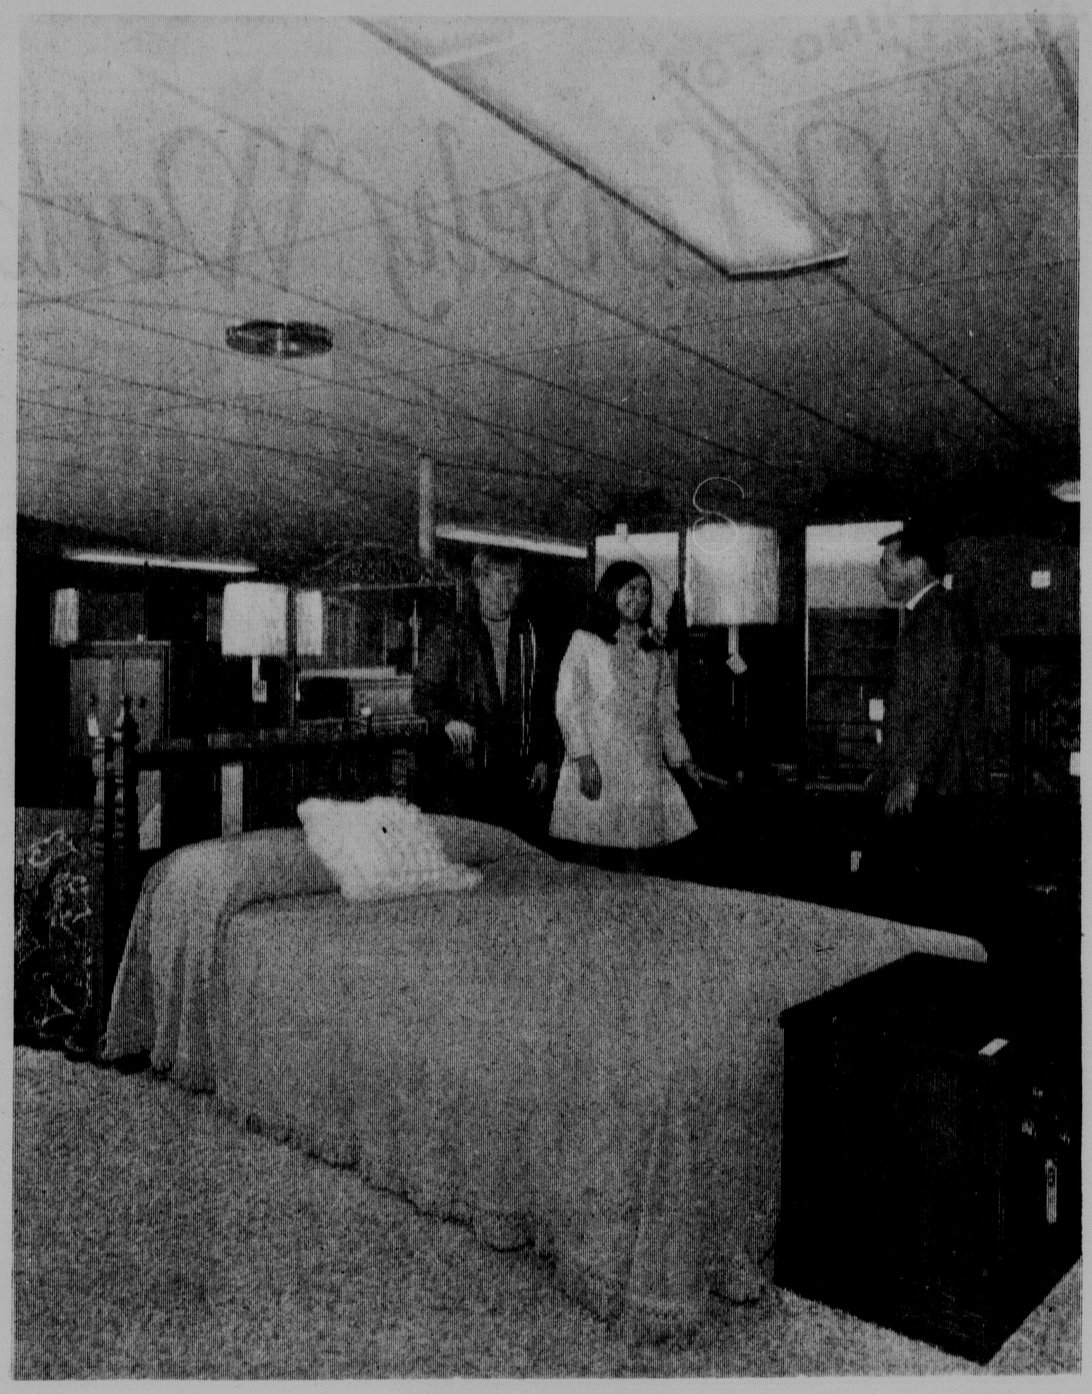
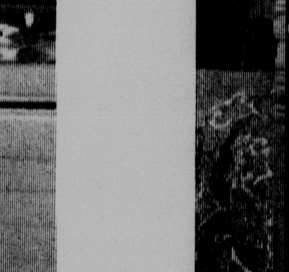
Lee's Studio



Bergeron's Marine Norm Bergeron takes time out from a busy schedule to show Faye and Jerry one of their sleek runabouts. Faye and Jerry are both avid boating enthusiasts and they are looking forward to a summer of boating fun. Bergeron's Marine in Masonville (1 mile south of Rapid River) has a complete selection of Crestliner and Crysler Boats and Crysler & Evinrude Motors, and McCulloch, Homelite and Pioneer Chain Saws. They are also one of the U. P.'s largest Snowmobile Dealers.



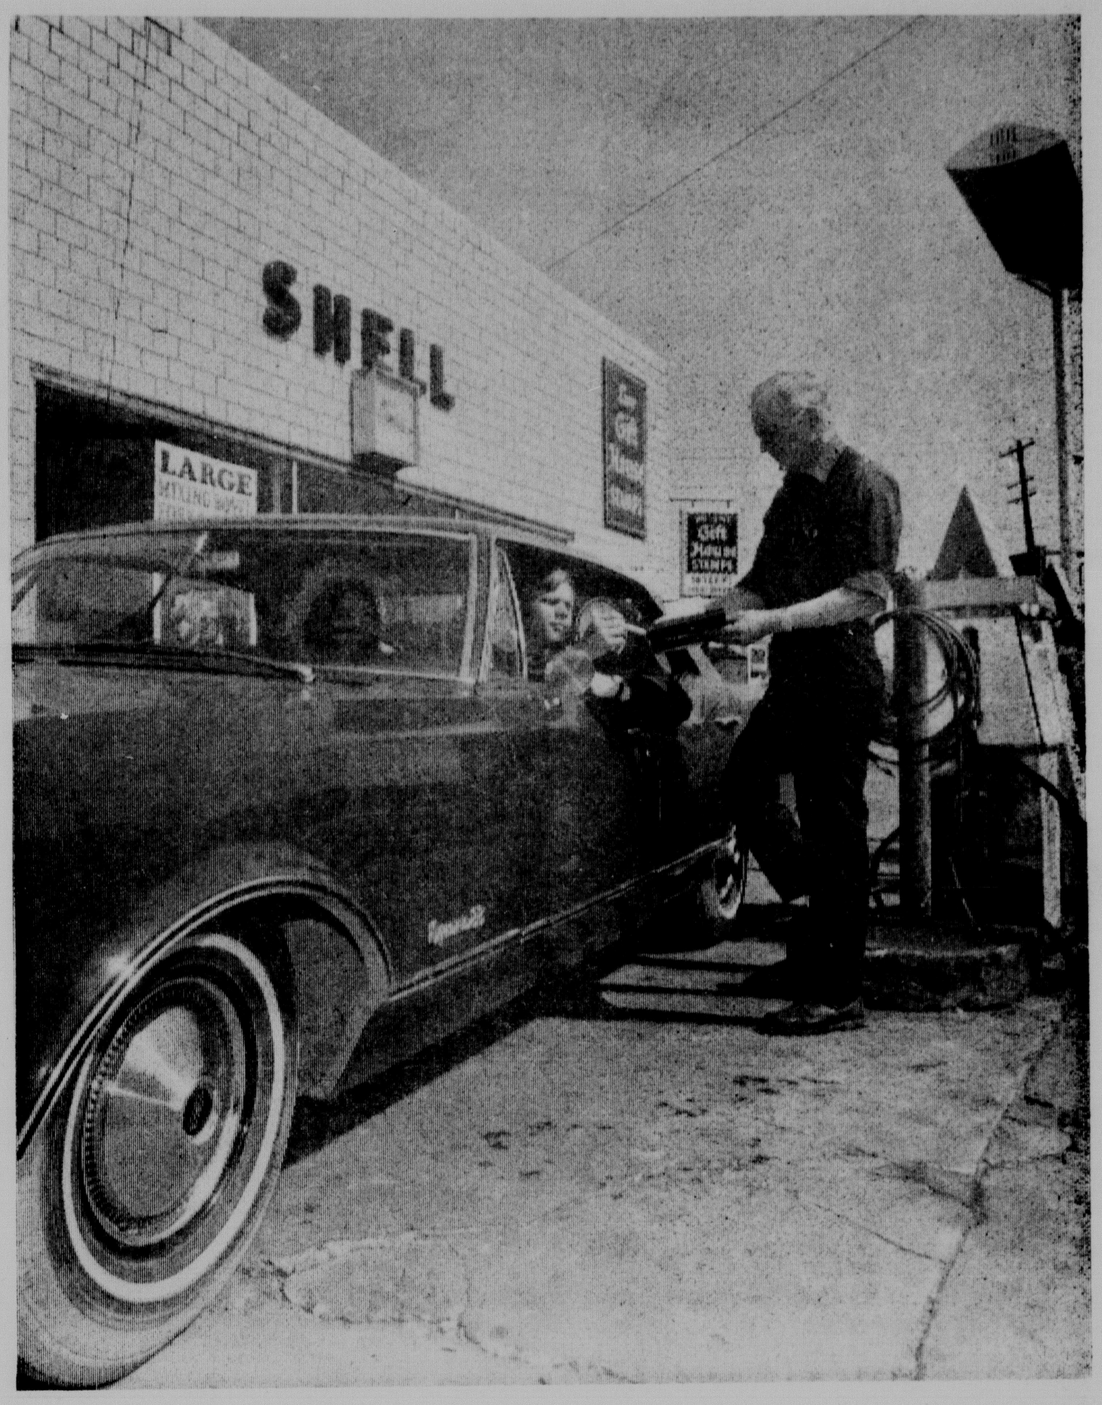
Heynnsen-Selins Faye and Jerry . . . like many others . . . are delighted with tremendous selection of merchandise at Heynssen's-Selins. Bof Heynssens describes the many fine features of one of their Consolidated Bedroom Sets to Faye and Jerry. The couple were surprised to learn that Heynssen's-Selins has the largest stock of Bedroom Furniture north of Milwaukee in all price ranges. This fine store has 31,000 sq. ft. of floor space which is filled to capacity with fine custom furniture. Just a few of their famous brand name products are Drexel, Broyhill, C. H. Masland, Bigelow, Monarch, Alden, John Madden Corp, Flexsteel, Charles, Charles Schneider, Lee's, La-Z-Boy, Seely, and Kroehler. They only look expensive . . . Remember, "it doesn't cost any more to shop in a nice store."



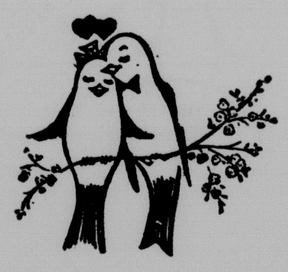
Radio Shack Is your eight-track stereo tape center with over 900 tapes to choose from . . . by all the favorite artists. Faye and Jerry choose from the selection of teenbeat, male, and female vocalists, country and western, jazz, instrumental as well as classical music. And at the Radio Shack, you can get eight-track track and cassette tape players, and speakers of all sizes. There is no better listening than with a tape player in your home, or in your car . . . and the Radio Shack is prepared to service your needs, now! Why not do as Faye and Jerry are doing, and add to your listening enjoyment with a stereo tape player, and stereo tapes from the Radio Shack.

Mata Brown Shoppe One of the sheer delights of wedding preparation is shopping for a dress for the Mother-Of-The Bride. A mother is captivated by the dress being modeled by Irma Greis. This is a beautiful lace dress with matching lace coat and beaded trim. The Mata Brown Shoppe, 919 Ludington St. has given 40 years of service to the community in the proper apparel for weddings. Beautiful summer knits of linen and arnel. The latest material in fashion wrinkle free and carefree. Summer hats and purses and gloves to top off Mother's Ensemble. Shopping at the Mata Brown Shoppe is a pleasurable experience because there is a full range of sizes.

Sears Roebuck & Co. The door is opened to a world of color by John Good, manager of Sears at 2425 Ludington St. Faye and Jerry's eyes were opened to all of the splendid features of a Sear's Color TV Set. Decorating conscious Faye noted the extra fine finish on the cabinet. Sears has a fine selection of appliances on the floor and they invite you to stop in and browse around their new store. Hours for customer convenience . . . until 5:30 Monday thru Thursday, Friday nights 'til 9 p. m.



Snyder's Shell Service Faye and Jerry have decided to pick up a convenient Shell Credit Card to take with them on their honeymoon. They realize that they will have many uses for their Shell Credit Card in years to come. This will insure them the safety of not having to carry extra money for fuel, oil, or even tires and accessories on their honeymoon vacation. At Snyder's Shell Service at 1700 Ludington Street. "Service is their business."



Gartner's Romantic as your wedding should be is this superbly styled gown modeled by Faye in Gartner's Bridal Salon. The fabric is nylon organza with lace trim. The train is detachable for convenient off and on wear. The silk illusion headpiece is trimmed to form a pedal and set forward on the head. Sweeping down the aisle so glamourously gowned is a dream come true for all young women. Faye found everything for the bride at Gartner's Bridal Salon, 1000 Ludington.

James Beauty Salon Faye's wedding day coiffure was beauty in balance and designed especially for her at James Beauty Salon.
